McCarthy Would Risk Senate Seat In Acheson-Jessup Trial

State Dept. Critic Flings Challenge But Admits It's Hopeless Gesture

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis)—saying it was a hopeles gesture—offered today to risk his Senate seat in a jury trial of Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Ambassador Philip K. Jessup.

"There is no way on God's earth I can get them into court," McCarthy told newsmen afterwards.

Nevertheless, he flung his trial-by-jury dare in a speech to the 52nd annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars—shortly after the veterans demanded Acheson's ouster as state secretary.

Yoser Would Resign

McCarthy offered to resign if a jury should find Acheson and Jessup innocent of his charges of Communist coddling.

But he demanded the resignations of Acheson, Jessup and "that whole motley crowd" should the jury uphold his charges.

McCarthy conceded that such a jury trial was out of the question. American courts do not try purely political cases, unless libel or slander is involved.

But his critics have demanded that he prove his charges in court and McCarthy said he's ready and willing.

McCarthy, himself a Marine veteran and VFW member, was loudly cheered before, during and after his 90-minute speech. This was in contrast to yesterday, when some delegates booed mention of McCarthy's name.

Once during his speech, a delegate shouted loudly:

"McCarthy for president."

Accuses Lattimore, Service

The fiery Wisconsin Republican strode to the convention platform after telling newsmen he would "name names" of what he terms Communists in government.

"If the statements are libelous, I will be speaking without senatorial immunity," he added.

Administration supporters have accused McCarthy of hiding behind senatorial immunity and hurling his charges without fear of libel action.

However, the men he named today he had accused before from the Senate floor — Acheson, Jessup, Owen Lattimore, John S. Service and Gustavo Duran.

All have denied his Senate charges that they were Communists or Red sympathizers.

Senators Back $1,045,000,000 Excise Tax Hike

Committee Accepts Most House Boosts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee today tentatively voted to boost excise (sales) taxes by about $1,045,000,000 a year.

It did this by accepting most of the major increases on excises included in the House-passed $7,200,000,000 bill.

House increases accepted by the senators were made on such items as distilled liquor, beer, cigarets, gasoline, diesel fuel, motor cars, trucks, buses and many electric and gas appliances.

The finance committee made some changes in the House bill on excises, the effect of which was to increase the revenue to be derived from these levies.

Appliances List Expanded

The biggest of these added vacuum cleaners, washing machines and garbage disposal units to the list of appliances on which the House imposed a 10 per cent manufacturers' excise tax. This would add an estimated $55,000,000 a year in revenue.

The net effect of the Senate committee changes in excises so far was to add about $36,000,000 in revenue to the House bill.

The senators will continue working on excises tomorrow. They are about half way through the list but already have taken up the items which produce most of the revenue.

Would Expire Dec. 31, 1953

Before it went to work on the excises, the Finance group had pared down the new revenue in the House measure by about $1,500,000,000. It had done this by voting for smaller hikes in corporation and personal income levies than the House approved.

In its work excises, the Senate committee accepted one House provision which would lose $104,000,4000 annually as compared with present law. This was a section repealing the three and one-half percent tax on sales of electric energy by private utilities.

The senators also voted to fix an expiration date for all the increases in excises—Dec. 31, 1953.

Gob Apparently Talks Way Right Back Into Navy

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—Frank Crozier, it appears, has talked his way right back into Uncle Sam's Navy.

After his discharge last week, Crozier protested the Navy made a big mistake last spring when it called him back to service. He said his reserve enlistment had run out and he was a civilian.

That set the Navy to digging into its records.

Today, the Navy admitted it made a big mistake all right—not in calling Crozier back but in letting him go.

The Third Naval District said the 25-year-old Yorktown Heights, N. Y., gob was legally recalled to service but illegally discharged later because of a mixup. In the eyes of the Navy, he's still in.

"The illegal discharge has been cancelled," a statement said. "At present Crozier is on inactive duty."

The Navy said Crozier signed "an extension of enlistment agreement" May 28, 1950, agreeing to remain in the reserves until June 28, 1954.

Dewey Receives Badge From VFW

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey (center) smiles as he receives a specially-prepared gold badge from Charles H. Ralls, Seattle, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mrs. Dewey watches the presentation. The governor, addressing the VFW at its national encampment yesterday in New York City, called on the free world to draw a definite Pacific defense line with a promise of "the same kind of bloody nose you got in Korea" to any aggressor who stepped across. Dewey suggested that the "stop communism" line run from the Arctic to New Zealand.

None Of Expelled Cadets Recalled, Gen. Irving Says

Report Squelched By Academy Head

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 30. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy, today said "no cadet found guilty and separated has been restored to duty, and there is no intention of doing so."

His statement was issued after Attorney Robert Daru told a New York City bar inquiry into the cribbing scandal that seven of the accused cadets had been "restored to duty."

An academy spokesman said yesterday that several Cadets whose names had cropped up during the academy investigation had been cleared. He did not specify whether these were among the 90 accused originally or others whose names were drawn into the inquiry.

Three Ex-Cadets Testify

He said at that time none of the 82 cadets who have left the campus had been recalled and restored to duty.

At the second day of a public hearing in New York City being conducted by the Committee on Justice of the New York Civil and Criminal Courts Bar Association, three of the expelled cadets testified.

They said they did not get hearings before the cadets' honor committee as provided by the honor code.

Coercion Is Hinted

A fourth cadet, George Madison McCullough, Siloam Springs, Ark., told the committee he had signed a statement for academy authorities under what he believed to be coercion.

The statement, he later told reporters, dealt with his participation in the alleged cribbing.

Daru told the justice committee today he had been asked to reveal his source of information concerning the alleged restorations but that he had declined.

Price Lid Taken Off Holiday Fruit Cake

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The government raised the canners' price of Alaska red salmon today and took the price lid off fruit cake for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

As a result of the orders the Office of Price Stabilization predicted:

Holiday fruit cake prices will be "slightly higher to consumers to cover higher costs of production," and

The six and one fourth cents a can increase for a one-pound can of salmon eventually will be passed on to the public.

Allied Position In Korea Strong, Truman Asserts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—President Truman declared emphatically today that United Nations forces in Korea are stronger than ever in case large-scale war is renewed.

He added he is 100 per cent behind Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's handling of the stalemated ceasefire negotiations.

A reporter asked at a news conference today whether the Allied position is stronger, in the event that full-scale fighting is resumed. The President's reply was: Certainly we are.

On other subjects, the President said:

1—The effort in Congress to cut his $8,500,000,000 foreign aid request by $1,000,000,000 is misplaced economy in a very serious situation. He said it is a pity to upset the whole applecart when the aid program is on the verge of success.

2—The case of William N. Oatis, AP reporter imprisoned in Czechoslovakia on spy charges, will never be closed, at least as far as the U. S. is concerned, until the newsman gets out of jail. This was his reply to a defiant statement yesterday by the Czech ambassador, Vladimir Prochazka, that the case is closed from a juridical point of view.

Russian Delegation Rents 'Frisco Estate

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30. (AP)—The Russian delegation to the Japanese peace treaty conference today rented a luxurious suburban estate, reportedly for three weeks—far beyond the time the meeting is scheduled to end.

The time of the lease may be significant, since the treaty conference is scheduled to last only from Sept. 4 to 8. The Russians are expected to try to stall and delay the signing.

A real estate firm which closed the deal insisted, however, the Russian lease ran only for 10 days. The company said the deal was closed with three Russians.

Climbing 1,000 MPH, Rocket Plane Reaches New Heights

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., Aug. 30 (AP)—A tiny rocket-powered plane has reached new heights, hitting a speed of around 1,000 miles an hour in its climb, the Navy announced tonight.

The exact altitude to which Test Pilot Bill Bridgeman took the Douglas Skyrocket was not made public. But the Navy's statement made clear it topped the accepted world's record of 72,394 feet set by U. S. Army Captains Orvil Anderson and Albert Stevens in a balloon between Rapid City and White Lake, S. D., in 1935.

The Skyrocket, with Bridgeman piloting, is the same plane which the Navy last month announced had gone faster and higher than any other aircraft. Figures were not made public at that time, either, but aviation experts conceded the craft had topped the 1,000 mph-plus credited unofficially to the experimental Bell X-1, and its 63,000-foot altitude.

This time the Navy said the 1,000 mph figure had been achieved while "climbing away from the earth," and Bridgeman had to go into a steeper climb to conserve his power for the altitude mark. When he "reached the planned altitude," the announcement said, Bridgeman "leveled off to obtain high speed performance data." What speed he achieved was not made public.

Herbert Hoover Calls For Return To Old Virtues

"Decay Of Integrity" In Public Life Cited

DES MOINES, Aug. 30 (AP)—Herbert Hoover appealed today for a return to the old virtues lest "the lights go out of America" because of "the decay of integrity and the rotting of patriotism" in public life.

The former President showed obvious concern over "disclosures of dishonor in high places" and "the frustration of Congress in groping for some sort of code of ethics which might protect the citizen from his own officials."

Accepts Iowa Award

However, he declared to thousands of state fair visitors in accepting an Iowa award for distinguished citizenship, right will prevail because "moral indignation is on the march again."

Hoover declared the nation is facing "a cancerous growth of intellectual dishonesty in public life," and commented:

"The practical thing we can do if we really want to make the world over again is to try out some of the old virtues that made this country.

"I realize that such suggestions will raise that cuss word 'reactionary'. But some of these old things are slipping badly in American life.

Group Pressures Hit

"And if they slip too far, the lights will go out of America, even if we win these cold and hot wars.

"There are group pressures which smell from both the decay of integrity and the rotting of patriotism. Dishonor in public life has a double poison."

Hoover was born at West Branch, Ia., 77 years ago last Aug. 10. The former President deferred his customary birthday address until today to make it coincide with acceptance of the award.

Italy Uses Phantom State To Dodge Pact

ROME, Aug. 30. (AP) — Italy is transferring her old warplanes to the soverign and military Order of Malta—a phantom state without area or population—to dodge peace treaty limits on her air force.

The order of Malta now has an "air force" one-fourth as big as Italy's as a result. Converted bombers are to be used as air ambulances by the order in one of its principal activities, the maintenance of hospitals and first aid to war injured.

The planes are based on Italian military air fields and are flown by Italian air force crews, paid by Italy. But, in addition to the Italian air force circle insignia on the wings, they now bear the big white Maltese cross of the order.

Fulbright Backs Truman

Charge Plane Dropped Flare Over Kaesong

Ridgway's Offer Still Unanswered

TOKYO, Friday, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Communists last night charged formally that an Allied plane dropped a flare over Kaesong Wednesday and demanded that the "culprits be severely punished."

The note, the latest in a series of Red charges that the Allies violated the neutrality of the Kaesong armistice talk site, was handed yesterday to a U. N. liaison officer at Panmunjom, east of Kaesong.

The Red officer, in handing over the note, also voiced charges that Allied armed personnel had violated the neutral zone.

No Allied Confirmation

The text of the note was broadcast earlier by the Peiping radio. It was signed by Lt. Gen. Nam Il, the North Korean who heads the Communist negotiating team. It was addressed to Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief negotiator for the United Nations command.

There was no Allied confirmation of the reported flare-dropping.

An earlier Peiping broadcast today charged the Allies with threatening to bomb Kaesong, where the armistice negotiations were suspended by the Communists Aug. 23.

The talks were halted following a Red charge that a U. N. plane bombed Kaesong Aug. 22. The top Communist leaders have continued to ignore a proposal Wednesday by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme U. N. commander, that the talks be resumed.

Ridgway's refusal to reopen an investigation of the alleged Aug. 22 bombing was described by the Reds as an attempt "to cover up the flagrant lies he has handed the world."

Economic Chiefs Ask "Workable" Controls System

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — Continued inflation and inevitable price increases in some cases were predicated today by top economic officials in pleading for a "workable" controls program.

"An absolute holding of the price line may not be possible; some cost increases are bound to occur," Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle told the Senate Banking Committee.

"I think we're going back to the same old thing of the dog chasing his tail and never catching it," said Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson. He added while "you can't stop" the inflationary trend, "you can slow it up."

Both witnesses urged the com-committee to knock from the new controls act three provisions denounced by President Truman. These prohibit price ceilings that do not reflect business costs increases since Korea, permit customary percentage markups in wholesale and retail prices and ban the use of livestock slaughtering quotas.

The committee plans to hear more witnesses tomorrow, limiting its consideration to the President's request to erase from the law the three sections he doesn't like, and then recess until Sept. 10.

Bombing Cuts Rashin-USSR Railway Line

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — Railway lines that link North Korea with the Russion base at Vladivostok were cut by the Saturday bombing of Rashin, about 18 miles from the Soviet border, the Air Force reported today.

Basing its report on aerial photographs, the Air Force said the pictures also indicated heavy hits on Rashin's railway yards and the smashing of all rail and road communications south of Rashin.

Rashin was ruled out of bounds for American bombers early in the war, in orders from Washington to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. It was explained there was danger of involvement with Russia if a U. S. plane should mistakenly fly over or bomb Russian soil.

Last Saturday's raid, by B-29s, was the first since last August to hit the key transportation and port city. An Air Force spokesman said the city has been used as a stock piling and transhipment point for Red arms and equipment. He would not say whether more attacks are in store.

Senators Open Drive For New Aid Bill Slash

Debate Limitation Plan Is Approved

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — Eleven senators moved to slash an additional $500,000,000 off the administration's $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill tonight after President Truman sharply denounced an earlier billion-dollar cut.

As the Senate headed into a night session, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) quarterbacked a new economy drive in which two Democrats and eight other Republican senators joined him.

Urging others to support the move, Dirksen told the Senate:

"Americans can die by suicide — suicide by the fiscal (money) route."

Debate To Be Limited

After some further discussion, the Senate agreed to a debate limitation plan under which there may be a final vote on the bill late tomorrow.

The Senate will meet two hours early tomorrow, limit debate to half an hour on most amendments and then divide two hours of debate between backers and opponents on each of three issues:

1. An attempt by four Democratic senators to restore the total to the full $8,500,000,000 asked by the President.
2. The attempt by Dirksen and others to cut it a half million dollars deeper.
3. An effort by Sens. Aiken (R-Vt) and Moody (D-Mich) to atatch an authorization for the St. Lawrence seaway and power project to the foreign aid bill.

Smith, Thye Oppose New Cut

When all amendments are out of the way, the Senate then would have an hour for debate on final passage.

Dirksen said Sens. Byrd (D-Va), McClellan (D-Ark), Welker (R-Ida), Wherry (R-Neb), Malone (R-Nev), Case (R-SD), and Schoepel (R-Kans) were with him in offering an amendment for a new $500,000,000 cut.

But Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and Sen. Thye (R-Minn) argued against any further reductions.

"What we are doing here today is not aiding foreign countries but trying to insure the safety of the United States," Smith said.

OPS Memo To Its Publicity Men Stirs Up Row In Capital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — A set of instructions in which OPS told its publicity men to avoid "excessive" use of such words as "controls" and "spending" stirred up a row today.

Rep. Boggs (R-Del issued a statement declaring the Office of Price Stabilization is "operating a gigantic propaganda mill to confuse and confound the American people." He said the instructions should be labelled "a lesson in government by deceit and dishonesty.'

Max R. Hall, assistant OPS director for public information, called Boggs' statement "wholly unjustified." He said the instructions contained nothing deceitful.

Boggs quoted an OPS instruction, entitled "Copy Problem No. 7", which said:

"Certain phrases and expressions, which in themselves are not objectionable, may be over used or come to have objectionable connotations among persons critical of OPS.

"Things to avoid:

"1. Excessive reference to controls and price control program.

"2. Reference to 'defense spending.'

"3. Positive statements that OPS has stopped or can stop inflation.

"4. References to the 'lull in prices.'

"5. References to 'extra money.' "

Strike Probe Board Named By President

Panel Will Report Back September 4

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — President Truman invoked the Taft-Hartley Act emergency provisions tonight in an effort to end the nationwide copper strike.

The President appointed a board of inquiry to look into the circumstances of the walkout of 58,000 mine, mill and smelter workers and report back to him September 4. Under the law, Mr. Truman could ask for an injunction to end the strike as soon as he gets the report, but not until then.

Mr. Truman's defense mobilization lieutenants have declared the strike is hurting defense production, and that it is urgent production be resumed.

Seward Heads Panel

Mr. Truman appointed Ralph Seward, Washington, chairman, and Joseph L. Miller, Washington, and Allan Dash, Philadelphia, as members of the inquiry board. Dash has been a member of a special panel of the Wage Stabilization Board which investigated a similar strike of CIO steel workers at the Garfield, Utah plant of American Smelting and Refining Co.

The President acted while feverish eleventh hour negotiations were underway, aimed at settling the dispute at the Kennecott Copper Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

The strike, which began last Monday morning, was called by the mine, mill and smelter workers, an independent formerly in the CIO. Members of a dozen AFL unions refused to go through picket lines, so that virtually all copper production has been cut off.

If the government gets an junciton against the strike, after the inquiry board has reported. The injunction would be good for 80 days.

Besides Kennecott and American Smelting and Refining, the companies named by the President in his order appointing the board are Phelps-Dodge Corp., Anaconda Copper Mining Co., the International Smelting and Refining Co., and scores of others in the non-ferrous metals industry.

AFL Organizer "Stunned"

H. B. Douglas, AFL organizer in the Kennecott negotiations, said that the unions and the company were "the closest to a settlement we have been, and we are very hopeful that we can reach agreement by tomorrow morning."

He added, however, that "we are stunned by action by the President which adds considerably to our difficulties."

Douglas disclosed that the negotiating meetings were put off until tomorrow morning to allow the company to obtain some cost figures from Salt Lake City by plane. On the basis of those figures, it may be possible for the company or the unions to yield on the fractional amount now separating them on wages.

The President's action was the first time he invoked Taft-Hartley in a strike since using it in the coal mine shutdowns of February, 1950. He has worked for the repeal of the act and has even been critical of the emergency provisions which he will now be using.

U. S.-Philippines Alliance Signed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The United States and the Philippines signed a new defense treaty today which President Truman welcomed as "a strong step toward security and peace in the Pacific."

The first of a series of formal agreements aimed at blocking Communist or other aggression in the Pacific, it follows the pattern of the 12-nation North Atlantic alliance by binding the U. S. and its former ward to "act to meet the common dangers" in event of an attack on either.

Mr. Truman, speaking at the close of a colorful 34-minute ceremony, termed the treaty a natural development of the Philippine-American partnership tested in World War Two. He pledged to Philippine President Elpidio Quirino that "we shall always be your friends."

From Quirino and Philippine Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo came predictions that the two-nation mutual defense compact eventually will be broadened into a general Pacific security alliance such as they have been urging for the past two years.

Gob Apparently Talks Way Right Back Into Navy

After his discharge last week, Crozier protested the Navy made a big mistake last spring when it called him back to service. He said his reserve enlistment had run out and he was a civilian.

That set the Navy to digging into its records.

Today, the Navy admitted it made a big mistake all right—not in calling Crozier back but in letting him go.

The Third Naval District said the 25-year-old Yorktown Heights, N. Y., gob was legally recalled to service but illegally discharged later because of a mixup. In the eyes of the Navy, he's still in.

"The illegal discharge has been cancelled," a statement said. "At present Crozier is on inactive duty."

The Navy said Crozier signed "an extension of enlistment agreement" May 28, 1950, agreeing to remain in the reserves until June 28, 1954.

Climbing 1,000 MPH, Rocket Plane Reaches New Heights

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., Aug. 30 (AP)—A tiny rocket-powered plane has reached new heights, hitting a speed of around 1,000 miles an hour in its climb, the Navy announced tonight.

The exact altitude to which Test Pilot Bill Bridgeman took the Douglas Skyrocket was not made public. But the Navy's statement made clear it topped the accepted world's record of 72,394 feet set by U. S. Army Captains Orvil Anderson and Albert Stevens in a balloon between Rapid City and White Lake, S. D., in 1935.

The Skyrocket, with Bridgeman piloting, is the same plane which the Navy last month announced had gone faster and higher than any other aircraft. Figures were not made public at that time, either, but aviation experts conceded the craft had topped the 1,000 mph-plus credited unofficially to the experimental Bell X-1, and its 63,000-foot altitude.

This time the Navy said the 1,000 mph figure had been achieved while "climbing away from the earth," and Bridgeman had to go into a steeper climb to conserve his power for the altitude mark. When he "reached the planned altitude," the announcement said, Bridgeman "leveled off to obtain high speed performance data." What speed he achieved was not made public.

Dewey Receives Badge From VFW

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey (center) smiles as he receives a specially-prepared gold badge from Charles H. Ralls, Seattle, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mrs. Dewey watches the presentation. The governor, addressing the VFW at its national encampment yesterday in New York City, called on the free world to draw a definite Pacific defense line with a promise of "the same kind of bloody nose you got in Korea" to any aggressor who stepped across. Dewey suggested that the "stop communism" line run from the Arctic to New Zealand.

Report Squelched By Academy Head

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 30. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy, today said "no cadet found guilty and separated has been restored to duty, and there is no intention of doing so."

His statement was issued after Attorney Robert Daru told a New York City bar inquiry into the cribbing scandal that seven of the accused cadets had been "restored to duty."

An academy spokesman said yesterday that several Cadets whose names had cropped up during the academy investigation had been cleared. He did not specify whether these were among the 90 accused originally or others whose names were drawn into the inquiry.

Three Ex-Cadets Testify

He said at that time none of the 82 cadets who have left the campus had been recalled and restored to duty.

At the second day of a public hearing in New York City being conducted by the Committee on Justice of the New York Civil and Criminal Courts Bar Association, three of the expelled cadets testified.

They said they did not get hearings before the cadets' honor committee as provided by the honor code.

Coercion Is Hinted

A fourth cadet, George Madison McCullough, Siloam Springs, Ark., told the committee he had signed a statement for academy authorities under what he believed to be coercion.

The statement, he later told reporters, dealt with his participation in the alleged cribbing.

Daru told the justice committee today he had been asked to reveal his source of information concerning the alleged restorations but that he had declined.

Price Lid Taken Off Holiday Fruit Cake

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The government raised the canners' price of Alaska red salmon today and took the price lid off fruit cake for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

As a result of the orders the Office of Price Stabilization predicted:

Holiday fruit cake prices will be "slightly higher to consumers to cover higher costs of production," and

The six and one fourth cents a can increase for a one-pound can of salmon eventually will be passed on to the public.

Allied Position In Korea Strong, Truman Asserts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—President Truman declared emphatically today that United Nations forces in Korea are stronger than ever in case large-scale war is renewed.

He added he is 100 per cent behind Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's handling of the stalemated cease-fire negotiations.

A reporter asked at a news conference today whether the Allied position is stronger, in the event that full-scale fighting is resumed. The President's reply was: Certainly we are.

On other subjects, the President said:

1—The effort in Congress to cut his $8,500,000,000 foreign aid request by $1,000,000,000 is misplaced economy in a very serious situation. He said it is a pity to upset the whole applecart when the aid program is on the verge of success.

2—The case of William N. Oatis, AP reporter imprisoned in Czechoslovakia on spy charges, will never be closed, at least as far as the U. S. is concerned, until the newsman gets out of jail. This was his reply to a defiant statement yesterday by the Czech ambassador, Vladimir Prochazka, that the case is closed from a juridical point of view.

Russian Delegation Rents 'Frisco Estate

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30. (AP)—The Russian delegation to the Japanese peace treaty conference today rented a luxurious suburban estate, reportedly for three weeks—far beyond the time the meeting is scheduled to end.

The time of the lease may be significant, since the treaty conference is scheduled to last only from Sept. 4 to 8. The Russians are expected to try to stall and delay the signing.

A real estate firm which closed the deal insisted, however, the Russian lease ran only for 10 days. The company said the deal was closed with three Russians.

The Russians decided to occupy a suburban estate in fashionable Hillsborough, south of San Francisco, rather than the downtown hotel space previously reserved for them.

Herbert Hoover Calls For Return To Old Virtues

"Decay Of Integrity" In Public Life Cited

DES MOINES, Aug. 30 (AP)—Herbert Hoover appealed today for a return to the old virtues lest "the lights go out of America" because of "the decay of integrity and the rotting of patriotism" in public life.

The former President showed obvious concern over "disclosures of dishonor in high places" and "the frustration of Congress in groping for some sort of code of ethics which might protect the citizen from his own officials."

Accepts Iowa Award

However, he declared to thousands of state fair visitors in accepting an Iowa award for distinguished citizenship, right will prevail because "moral indignation is on the march again."

Hoover declared the nation is facing "a cancerous growth of intellectual dishonesty in public life," and commented:

"The practical thing we can do if we really want to make the world over again is to try out some of the old virtues that made this country.

"I realize that such suggestions will raise that cuss word 'reactionary'. But some of these old things are slipping badly in American life.

Group Pressures Hit

"And if they slip too far, the lights will go out of America, even if we win these cold and hot wars.

"There are group pressures which smell from both the decay of integrity and the rotting of patriotism. Dishonor in public life has a double poison."

Hoover was born at West Branch, Ia., 77 years ago last Aug. 10. The former President deferred his customary birthday address until today to make it coincide with acceptance of the award.

Italy Uses Phantom State To Dodge Pact

ROME, Aug. 30. (AP) — Italy is transferring her old warplanes to the soverign and military Order of Malta—a phantom state without area or population—to dodge peace treaty limits on her air force.

The order of Malta now has an "air force" one-fourth as big as Italy's as a result. Converted bombers are to be used as air ambulances by the order in one of its principal activities, the maintenance of hospitals and first aid to war injured.

The planes are based on Italian military air fields and are flown by Italian air force crews, paid by Italy. But, in addition to the Italian air force circle insignia on the wings, they now bear the big white Maltese cross of the order.

Fulbright Backs Truman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. (AP) — Predicting a Democratic election victory in 1952 "based on the administration's record," Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) today promised to support President Truman if he is the party's nominee.

Ridgway's Offer Still Unanswered

TOKYO, Friday, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Communists last night charged formally that an Allied plane dropped a flare over Kaesong Wednesday and demanded that the "culprits be severely punished."

The note, the latest in a series of Red charges that the Allies violated the neutrality of the Kaesong armistice talk site, was handed yesterday to a U. N. liaison officer at Panmunjom, east of Kaesong.

The Red officer, in handing over the note, also voiced charges that Allied armed personnel had violated the neutral zone.

No Allied Confirmation

The text of the note was broadcast earlier by the Peiping radio. It was signed by Lt. Gen. Nam Il, the North Korean who heads the Communist negotiating team. It was addressed to Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief negotiator for the United Nations command.

There was no Allied confirmation of the reported flare-dropping.

An earlier Peiping broadcast today charged the Allies with threatening to bomb Kaesong, where the armistice negotiations were suspended by the Communists Aug. 23.

The talks were halted following a Red charge that a U. N. plane bombed Kaesong Aug. 22. The top Communist leaders have continued to ignore a proposal Wednesday by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme U. N. commander, that the talks be resumed.

Ridgway's refusal to reopen an investigation of the alleged Aug. 22 bombing was described by the Reds as an attempt "to cover up the flagrant lies he has handed the world."

Economic Chiefs Ask "Workable" Controls System

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — Continued inflation and inevitable price increases in some cases were predicated today by top economic officials in pleading for a "workable" controls program.

"An absolute holding of the price line may not be possible; some cost increases are bound to occur," Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle told the Senate Banking Committee.

"I think we're going back to the same old thing of the dog chasing his tail and never catching it," said Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson. He added while "you can't stop" the inflationary trend, "you can slow it up."

Both witnesses urged the comcommittee to knock from the new controls act three provisions denounced by President Truman. These prohibit price ceilings that do not reflect business costs increases since Korea, permit customary percentage markups in wholesale and retail prices and ban the use of livestock slaughtering quotas.

The committee plans to hear more witnesses tomorrow, limiting its consideration to the President's request to erase from the law the three sections he doesn't like, and then recess until Sept. 10.

Bombing Cuts Rashin-USSR Railway Line

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — Railway lines that link North Korea with the Russion base at Vladivostok were cut by the Saturday bombing of Rashin, about 18 miles from the Soviet border, the Air Force reported today.

Basing its report on aerial photographs, the Air Force said the pictures also indicated heavy hits on Rashin's railway yards and the smashing of all rail and road communications south of Rashin.

Rashin was ruled out of bounds for American bombers early in the war, in orders from Washington to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. It was explained there was danger of involvement with Russia if a U. S. plane should mistakenly fly over or bomb Russian soil.

Last Saturday's raid, by B-29s, was the first since last August to hit the key transportation and port city. An Air Force spokesman said the city has been used as a stock piling and transhipment point for Red arms and equipment. He would not say whether more attacks are in store.

Senators Open Drive For New Aid Bill Slash

Debate Limitation Plan Is Approved

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — Eleven senators moved to slash an additional $500,000,000 off the administration's $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill tonight after President Truman sharply denounced an earlier billion-dollar cut.

As the Senate headed into a night session, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) quarterbacked a new economy drive in which two Democrats and eight other Republican senators joined him.

Urging others to support the move, Dirksen told the Senate:

"Americans can die by suicide — suicide by the fiscal (money) route."

Debate To Be Limited

After some further discussion, the Senate agreed to a debate limitation plan under which there may be a final vote on the bill late tomorrow.

The Senate will meet two hours early tomorrow, limit debate to half an hour on most amendments and then divide two hours of debate between backers and opponents on each of three issues:

1. An attempt by four Democratic senators to restore the total to the full $8,500,000,000 asked by the President.

2. The attempt by Dirksen and others to cut it a half million dollars deeper.

3. An effort by Sens. Aiken (R-Vt) and Moody (D-Mich) to atatch an authorization for the St. Lawrence seaway and power project to the foreign aid bill.

Smith, Thye Oppose New Cut

When all amendments are out of the way, the Senate then would have an hour for debate on final passage.

Dirksen said Sens. Byrd (D-Va), McClellan (D-Ark), Welker (R-Ida), Wherry (R-Neb), Malone (R-Nev), Case (R-SD), and Schoepel (R-Kans) were with him in offering an amendment for a new $500,000,000 cut.

But Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and Sen. Thye (R-Minn) argued against any further reductions.

"What we are doing here today is not aiding foreign countries but trying to insure the safety of the United States," Smith said.

OPS Memo To Its Publicity Men Stirs Up Row In Capital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — A set of instructions in which OPS told its publicity men to avoid "excessive" use of such words as "controls" and "spending" stirred up a row today.

Rep. Boggs (R-Del issued a statement declaring the Office of Price Stabilization is "operating a gigantic propaganda mill to confuse and confound the American people." He said the instructions should be labelled "a lesson in government by deceit and dishonesty.'

Max R. Hall, assistant OPS director for public information, called Boggs' statement "wholly unjustified." He said the instructions contained nothing deceitful.

Boggs quoted an OPS instruction, entitled "Copy Problem No. 7", which said:

"Certain phrases and expressions, which in themselves are not objectionable, may be over used or come to have objectionable connotations among persons critical of OPS.

"Things to avoid:

"1. Excessive reference to controls and price control program.

"2. Reference to 'defense spending.'

"3. Positive statements that OPS has stopped or can stop inflation.

"4. References to the 'lull in prices.'

"5. References to 'extra money.' "

Strike Probe Board Named By President

Panel Will Report Back September 4

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — President Truman invoked the Taft-Hartley Act emergency provisions tonight in an effort to end the nationwide copper strike.

The President appointed a board of inquiry to look into the circumstances of the walkout of 58,000 mine, mill and smelter workers and report back to him September 4. Under the law, Mr. Truman could ask for an injunction to end the strike as soon as he gets the report, but not until then.

Mr. Truman's defense mobilization lieutenants have declared the strike is hurting defense production, and that it is urgent production be resumed.

Seward Heads Panel

Mr. Truman appointed Ralph Seward, Washington, chairman, and Joseph L. Miller, Washington, and Allan Dash, Philadelphia, as members of the inquiry board. Dash has been a member of a special panel of the Wage Stabilization Board which investigated a similar strike of CIO steel workers at the Garfield, Utah plant of American Smelting and Refining Co.

The President acted while feverish eleventh hour negotiations were underway, aimed at settling the dispute at the Kennecott Copper Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

The strike, which began last Monday morning, was called by the mine, mill and smelter workers, an independent formerly in the CIO. Members of a dozen AFL unions refused to go through picket lines, so that virtually all copper production has been cut off.

If the government gets an injunciton against the strike, after the inquiry board has reported. The injunction would be good for 80 days.

Besides Kennecott and American Smelting and Refining, the companies named by the President in his order appointing the board are Phelps-Dodge Corp., Anaconda Copper Mining Co., the International Smelting and Refining Co., and scores of others in the non-ferrous metals industry.

AFL Organizer "Stunned"

H. B. Douglas, AFL organizer in the Kennecott negotiations, said that the unions and the company were "the closest to a settlement we have been, and we are very hopeful that we can reach agreement by tomorrow morning."

He added, however, that "we are stunned by action by the President which adds considerably to our difficulties."

Douglas disclosed that the negotiating meetings were put off until tomorrow morning to allow the company to obtain some cost figures from Salt Lake City by plane. On the basis of those figures, it may be possible for the company or the unions to yield on the fractional amount now separating them on wages.

The President's action was the first time he invoked Taft-Hartley in a strike since using it in the coal mine shutdowns of February, 1950. He has worked for the repeal of the act and has even been critical of the emergency provisions which he will now be using.

U. S.-Philippines Alliance Signed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The United States and the Philippines signed a new defense treaty today which President Truman welcomed as "a strong step toward security and peace in the Pacific."

The first of a series of formal agreements aimed at blocking Communist or other aggression in the Pacific, it follows the pattern of the 12-nation North Atlantic alliance by binding the U. S. and its former ward to "act to meet the common dangers" in event of an attack on either.

Mr. Truman, speaking at the close of a colorful 34-minute ceremony, termed the treaty a natural development of the Philippine-American partnership tested in World War Two. He pledged to Philippine President Elpidio Quirino that "we shall always be your friends."

From Quirino and Philippine Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo came predictions that the two-nation mutual defense compact eventually will be broadened into a general Pacific security alliance such as they have been urging for the past two years.

Elkton's Mayor Sticks To Guns

ELKTON, Md., Aug. 30 (AP) — Mayor Henry H. Mitchell today affirmed his contention some things the town council discusses shouldn't be put in the newspapers.

The council has been doing most of its business in secret executive sessions since Aug. 1, after Elkton's two weeklies printed a story the mayor told them to keep out.

"If they would just keep out of the paper these things that shouldn't be printed, there wouldn't be anything to it," the mayor said today.

He made his statement in reply to a protest by a spokesman for the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and chairman of ASNE's special committee on freedom of information, wrote the mayor:

'Perhaps there is some explanation that is not known to us. It can never be an explanation, of course ,that the city government simply dislikes the newspapers or that it objects to what a paper publishes. That battle was settled in the Constitution of the United States and in many court decisions since.

"Public business cannot be conducted behind a screen of secrecy; nor can any government official or body dictate to the press what it shall print.

"There are nations in which that system is used; we do not think you want Elkton compared with them."

London Girl Given Height In Candy

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—An 11-year-old London girl had the sweetest surprise of her life today. She was given a made-to-measure stick of candy—just as long as she is tall—four feet something.

Joyce Dickinson got it for being No. 6,039,196 attending the Festival of Britain. That meant the festival broke the record of the great exhibition of 1851, when 6,039,195 cash customers were admitted.

THURMONT, Md., Aug. 30 (AP)—Frank W. Warner, 60-year-old farmer of nearby Rocky Ridge, almost lost his life again today after being stung by a bee.

Warner has a rare alergy for bee stings that could cause death in a relatively short time if not treated quickly, explained Dr. M. Franklin Birely, his physician.

Warner was stung while working in a field near his home. He managed to summon his family before collapsing into shock. They immediately summoned Dr.Birely who pulled him through with stimulants.

L. A. Police Seek Ghostly Sniper

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30 (AP) —Police shook down a wide area today hunting a ghostly sniper whose third strike in three nights killed a young mother as she sat at a roadside stand munching a hotdog.

Nina Marie Bice, 25, fell off the stool dead last night, a .22 bullet in her head.

A bullet of the same caliber wounded another woman Monday night. The following night a .22 bullet broke a living room window in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Walter in suburban Norwalk, but hit no one.

Mrs. Lois Kreutzer, 21, Rivera, felt what she thought was a bee sting on her chest as she was making a telephone call in an outside booth near her home Monday night.

Ballistics experts today said the bullets apparently were made by the same manufacturer.

Scores of police and sheriff's officers began shaking down the area. All the shootings were within a radius of 20 miles. There were few clues. No one has reported seeing the gunman.

Marine Who Gave His Life To Save Buddy Is Honored

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—A slender young Marine corporal stood at attention today, his face an unreadable mask, while the Medal of Honor was presented to the mother of a comrade killed in action.

The medal winner, Pfc Eugene A. Obregon, 19, had given his life to save the corporal, Bert M. Johnson, also 19, during last September's assault on the ravaged city of Seoul.

Johnson stood beside his rescuer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter R. Obregon, Los Angeles, during the presentation ceremony in the office of Secretary of the Navy Kimball.

"I couldn't tell you how it made me feel," said Johnson, a soft-voiced youngster from Grand Prairie, Texas, after the ceremony ended. "I just knew that I wouldn't be alive if it had not been for Pfc Obregon. I thought for sure I'd had it."

Lt. Col. R. A. Churley read the citation:

"While serving as an ammunition carrier of a machine gun squad in a Marine rifle company which was temporarily pinned down by hostile fire, Pfc Obregon observed a fellow marine fall wounded in the line of fire. Armed only with a pistol, he unhesitatingly dashed from his covered position to the side of the casualty."

"Firing his pistol with one hand as he ran," the colonel continued, "he grasped his comrade by the arm with his other hand and, despite the great peril to himself, dragged him to the side of the road. Still under enemy fire, he was bandaging the man's wounds when hostile troops of approximately platoon strength began advancing toward his position."

"Quickly seizing the wounded Marine's carbine," the citation went on, "he placed his own body as a shield in front of him and lay there firing accurately and effectively into the hostile group until he himself was fatally wounded by enemy machine-gun fire."

Cruise Ships Collide

The Kathleen was badly holed while the Rupert reported she was slightly damaged. Force of the impact threw many of the 480 passengers on the two ships out of their bunks.

Charge Plane

quoted a Communist telepress correspondent identified as C. T. Sim as saying Kaesong residents "take this last American violation of the Kaesong neutral zone x x x as a threat to bomb the city and put an end to the peace talks."

"I was awakened by the zooming of the plane and saw the vivid glare of the flare as it floated westwards with the wind. Men of the conference staff house confirmed that the parachute flare was dropped by a B-26 just north of the conference site and the plane later circled back in the direction of the floating flare."

Elkton's Mayor Sticks To Guns

ELKTON, Md., Aug. 30 (AP) — Mayor Henry H. Mitchell today affirmed his contention some things the town council discusses shouldn't be put in the newspapers.

The council has been doing most of its business in secret executive sessions since Aug. 1, after Elkton's two weeklies printed a story the mayor told them to keep out.

"If they would just keep out of the paper these things that shouldn't be printed, there wouldn't be anything to it," the mayor said today.

He made his statement in reply to a protest by a spokesman for the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and chairman of ASNE's special committee on freedom of information, wrote the mayor:

'Perhaps there is some explanation that is not known to us. It can never be an explanation, of course ,that the city government simply dislikes the newspapers or that it objects to what a paper publishes. That battle was settled in the Constitution of the United States and in many court decisions since.

"Public business cannot be conducted behind a screen of secrecy; nor can any government official or body dictate to the press what it shall print.

"There are nations in which that system is used; we do not think you want Elkton compared with them."

London Girl Given Height In Candy

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—An 11-year-old London girl had the sweetest surprise of her life today. She was given a made-to-measure stick of candy—just as long as she is tall—four feet something.

Joyce Dickinson got it for being No. 6,039,196 attending the Festival of Britain. That meant the festival broke the record of the great exhibition of 1851, when 6,039,195 cash customers were admitted.

Bee Sting Is Almost Fatal To Md. Farmer

THURMONT, Md., Aug. 30 (AP)—Frank W. Warner, 60-year-old farmer of nearby Rocky Ridge, almost lost his life again today after being stung by a bee.

Warner has a rare alergy for bee stings that could cause death in a relatively short time if not treated quickly, explained Dr. M. Franklin Birely, his physician.

Warner was stung while working in a field near his home. He managed to summon his family before collapsing into shock. They immediately summoned Dr.Birely who pulled him through with stimulants.

L. A. Police Seek Ghostly Sniper

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30 (AP) —Police shook down a wide area today hunting a ghostly sniper whose third strike in three nights killed a young mother as she sat at a roadside stand munching a hotdog.

Nina Marie Bice, 25, fell off the stool dead last night, a .22 bullet in her head.

A bullet of the same caliber wounded another woman Monday night. The following night a .22 bullet broke a living room window in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Walter in suburban Norwalk, but hit no one.

Mrs. Lois Kreutzer, 21, Rivera, felt what she thought was a bee sting on her chest as she was making a telephone call in an outside booth near her home Monday night.

Ballistics experts today said the bullets apparently were made by the same manufacturer.

Scores of police and sheriff's officers began shaking down the area. All the shootings were within a radius of 20 miles. There were few clues. No one has reported seeing the gunman.

Bus Wreck Kills 29

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 30. (AP)—A bus rolled off a mountain road today between Kazerun and Bushire in Fars Province, killing 29 passengers and injuring 20 others, the newspaper Etelaat reported.

Marine Who Gave His Life To Save Buddy Is Honored

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—A slender young Marine corporal stood at attention today, his face an unreadable mask, while the Medal of Honor was presented to the mother of a comrade killed in action.

The medal winner, Pfc Eugene A. Obregon, 19, had given his life to save the corporal, Bert M. Johnson, also 19, during last September's assault on the ravaged city of Seoul.

Johnson stood beside his rescuer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter R. Obregon, Los Angeles, during the presentation ceremony in the office of Secretary of the Navy Kimball.

"I couldn't tell you how it made me feel," said Johnson, a soft-voiced youngster from Grand Prairie, Texas, after the ceremony ended. "I just knew that I wouldn't be alive if it had not been for Pfc Obregon. I thought for sure I'd had it."

Lt. Col. R. A. Churley read the citation:

"While serving as an ammunition carrier of a machine gun squad in a Marine rifle company which was temporarily pinned down by hostile fire, Pfc Obregon observed a fellow marine fall wounded in the line of fire. Armed only with a pistol, he unhesitatingly dashed from his covered position to the side of the casualty."

"Firing his pistol with one hand as he ran," the colonel continued, "he grasped his comrade by the arm with his other hand and, despite the great peril to himself, dragged him to the side of the road. Still under enemy fire, he was bandaging the man's wounds when hostile troops of approximately platoon strength began advancing toward his position."

"Quickly seizing the wounded Marine's carbine," the citation went on, "he placed his own body as a shield in front of him and lay there firing accurately and effectively into the hostile group until he himself was fatally wounded by enemy machine-gun fire."

Cruise Ships Collide

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Aug. 30 (AP)—Two cruise ships collided almost bow-on today in fog-curtained Chatham Sound, 29 miles northwest of this port

No one was reported injured in the grinding crash between Canadian National Steamships' Prince Rupert and Canadian Pacific Steamships' Princess Kathleen.

The Kathleen was badly holed while the Rupert reported she was slightly damaged. Force of the impact threw many of the 480 passengers on the two ships out of their bunks.

Charge Plane

quoted a Communist telepress correspondent identified as C. T. Sim as saying Kaesong residents "take this last American violation of the Kaesong neutral zone x x x as a threat to bomb the city and put an end to the peace talks."

"I was awakened by the zooming of the plane and saw the vivid glare of the flare as it floated westwards with the wind. Men of the conference staff house confirmed that the parachute flare was dropped by a B-26 just north of the conference site and the plane later circled back in the direction of the floating flare."

Cornell Wilde Divorced By Patricia Knight

The divorce was granted on the general grounds of extreme mental cruelty, the nature of which was not specified. Judge A. J. Maestretti approved a sealed property settlement.

Burlesque Patrons Yell "Take It Off"; Off Comes Plaster

UNION CITY, N. J., Aug. 30 (AP)—Burlesque patrons in the second balcony of the Hudson Theatre last night stamped their feet and shouted "take it off."

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

"A Man's Best Friend"

There was a friend of mine, a young lady, who got a job as a woman's page writer on the New York Evening Journal years ago, and naturally was anxious to make good. Some editors think a test of popularity is the mail attracted, so she consulted me as to how she could inspire her readers to spend money for paper, ink, and stamps.

John Wheeler

"Why don't you do a piece about a dog?" I suggested. "Let's see. Turn out a strong dose on what an outrage it is to keep one in a New York apartment—it is unfair to both the owner and the animal."

She took my advice and shortly after the paper hit the street, the letters started denouncing her because she had no love for "man's best friend." In fact, many claimed their pets had much more intelligence than the writer, and several aimed their shots at the editor and made them so violent she pretty nearly lost her job. She squared the matter by publishing a subsequent article, swallowing her words syllable by syllable. All this proves the old adage—"love me, love my dog"—to be true.

Many newspaper editors recognize the sentimental appeal of canines. Old James Gordon Benett, who owned the New York Herald, had a pack of Pomeranians he carried around with him in a portable kennel, as well as a cow on his yacht to have fresh milk for the mutts and then for the guests and crew if any was left over. While being paid at space rates, it was a cinch to dope up a tear-jerking dog story and be sure to get it in the paper at $8 a column in those days.

Every time Captain Patterson of the New York Daily News had a reporter write a piece about a stray dog needing a home, the paper would get hundreds of offers. To satisfy readers, they would dig up several spares and distribute them around to make more persons and dogs happy.

He was also the publisher of Liberty magazine when I was filling in as editor, and he hit on the idea of running a contest offering as prizes your favorite breed for the correct answers. We split up the anatomies of greyhounds, setters, Pekingese, St. Bernards, etc., and strawed them around the pages, the idea being the contestants were to cut them out and paste them together to make whole dogs. We naturally got a lot of queer-looking specimens. As I recall it, there were to be 50 prizes which were purchased from kennels, and these were shipped in midsummer under very sad circumstances. Because of the delays and the heat, many of the animals arrived dead. Then we began to get telegrams denouncing us such as,

"We expected a live dog and you send a dead one. What do I do now?"

We placated our customers, waited for a cool spell, and carefully crated substitutes.

In my life, I have had many dogs but never one in the city. Once when a boy my mother got a fox terrier for my sister and me and had him "altered" as we used to say politely in Yonkers. He was the laziest critter I ever saw, lying around most of the time and sleeping. In those days, we had what was called a hot-air furnace, and the heat came up through open registers. When the wind blew, you could deep freeze a steer in one part of the house and roast him on the other side of it.

Well, this dog, which was probably called Rex, would swallow anything blind, and one night ate a yeast cake, tinfoil and all, the kind used to make bread rise. Then he settled himself comfortably on the hot-air register, and the dose worked on him the same as on dough. He began to swell rapidly, and we shoved him out of the door just in time. After that we kept the yeast cakes under lock and key.

Years ago, as a starry-eyed young reporter, I covered a trial down in Wheeling, West Virginia, where a lady was accused of poisoning her husband with doses of Fowler's solution of arsenic and sugar of lead. She had been looking over the fence, and carrying on a flirtation with a piano salesman. Somewhere the horse got his tail over the dashboard, so they decided to dispose of one angle of the triangle. The doctors treated him for everything from housemaid's knee to bubonic plague, and he got worse, because each time he asked for a drink of water, he got it garnished with the above ingredients.

One day their dog drank some of the dregs and took sick, too, which made the nurse suspicious, and the water was analyzed in time to save the husband's life. This shows it pays to keep a pet around the house if you are suspicious your wife may be poisoning you. Let him taste everything before you do. All this reminds me of Ring Lardner's suggestion of the best way to soothe a crying child or dog. Say,

New Sources Of Sulphur

Final dissipation of the present world shortage of sulphur is now expected by the end of the year 1953. One of the basic chemical elements, sulphur is indispensable in manufacturing and in agriculture. Defense requirements, piled on top of normal needs, have created a world deficit estimated by James Boyd, director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, at 1,000,000 long tons a year.

Half that deficit can be covered by sulphur to be extracted from a new deposit whose discovery was announced August 22 by the Freeport Sulphur Company. The company predicts that the deposit, at Garden Isle Bay in Louisiana, in the marshes of the lower Mississippi River delta, will be yielding sulphur at the rate of 500,000 long tons annually within the next two and a half years.

Another Freeport mining plant at Bay Ste. Elaine in Louisiana is to be completed in 1952. The Freeport company is building this plant on barges at Grand Ecaille, 75 miles away, to be floated to the unstable marshland site at Bay Ste. Elaine. Conservation measures and development of two other new projects, Stark's Dome in Louisiana and the Spindle Top mine in Texas, are expected eventually to furnish enough new sulphur to meet world needs at present levels of demand.

Sulphur, vital in the production of gasoline, is frequently found in connection with oil explorations. The dome at Garden Isle Bay was discovered by the Texas Company, which is producing oil from the flanks of the formation. Sulphur rights were leased from the Texas Company by Freeport.

With sulphur as with oil, shortage scares in the past have repeatedly been dissipated by new discoveries. Proved oil reserves in continental United States are larger today than at any previous time. This despite the great drain of World War II on American oil resources.

Sulphur is a strategic element not only in the production of munitions but also in the manufacture of fertilizers and insecticides. It plays a large part, too, in the making of rubber, rayon, paint, paper, and other materials.

Italy, Norway, and the United States are the three foremost exporters of sulphur in the non-Communist world. Italy and the United States are represented on the Sulphur Committee of the International Materials Conference which held its first meeting in Washington in March. Other members are Australia, Belgium (representing the Benelux nations), Brazil, Canada, France, New Zealand, Switzerland, the Union of South Africa and the United Kingdom.

The Sulphur Committee on July 11 announced that it had unanimously recommended to governments an allocation of available world supplies of sulphur for July-September 1951. Of total world production and stocks of 1,415,400 long tons, to be allocated outside the Soviet bloc, the share of the United States and Canada was 1,050,000 long tons. Outside its allocation, the United States was to export 250,000 long tons to other countries. Most other countries included in the plan—excepting Italy and Norway—would import most or all of their allocations.

The allocations were arrived at "by common consent of the members of the committee after careful examination of each individual case." The committee will recommend firm allocations for the last quarter of 1951 early in September.

Turkeys R In Season

It is one of the oldest of American customs to eat turkey at Thanksgiving time. There is no good reason, however, for not eating it the year round. It is not necessary to wait for a month with an R in it. And Americans are gradually waking up to this fact, according to the turkey growers.

Where only 10 per cent of Americans 15 years ago ever ate turkey except at Thanksgiving or Christmas, about 35 per cent do so now. The idea is catching on. But Americans eat only 5.3 pounds per capita of turkey in a year. That is three times what it was in 1930, but it's small compared to the 146 pounds of red meat they eat.

The turkey business figures to do a lot of expanding. Prices are more reasonable than formerly, especially in comparison with beef. Turkey and beef on the hoof now cost the same. In 1930 turkey cost more than twice as much.

One reason people formerly bought turkeys only for holiday feasts was that they were so hard to get rid of. The man who has been through the routine of turkey hot, turkey warmed over, turkey cold, turkey hash and turkey soup after Thanksgiving and again after Christmas can hardly be blamed if it takes him 10 months to work up a yen for turkey again.

But the turkey growers are doing something about that. For one thing, they have developed pygmy turkeys about half the usual size—no larger than a big roasting chicken. And they are teaching butchers how to cut and sell cut-up turkey. When a bird weighs as much as a lamb, why make people buy them whole? Nobody asks the customers to buy a whole lamb.

Other concessions to the consumer are helping to popularize America's traditional fowl. Boneless frozen fillets are begining to go on the market. Pin-feathers are being removed by a more efficient process. Transparent plastic packaging adds to attractiveness.

If this sort of thing keeps on, the industry may be surprised at the results. It is remarkable what can be done by regarding the consumer's convenience and preferences seriously.

A Lesson From The Sky

The American steel industry, progressive institution that it always has been, is not likely to let go unnoticed a report that comes from Dr. H. H. Nininger, director of the American Meteorite Museum in Arizona. According to Dr. Nininger there is something about a meteor which makes non-corrosive the tiny drops of steel alloy which it contains.

Globules of steel, for instance, which have been lying on the ground and exposed to the elements for as long as 50,000 years have accumulated a layer of rust that is less than the thickness of fine tissue paper. From these facts, Dr. Nininer assumes that the great metallurgical laboratories, by experimenting with these meteoric droplets, could "unlock their secret and find out what makes them non-corrosive."

In view of the economic damage for which rust is responsible, Dr. Nininger is not overstating the case when he says the discovery he has in mind would revolutionize the steel industry.

Childhood Insomnia

Sleeping sickness in children sometimes are so severe as to upset the best regulated households. Most parents try everything before deciding to consult the physician. The failure to do the right things often aggravates the condition and makes treatment more difficult.

The child may have trouble getting to sleep or with awakening at night, or both. More discipline frequently is the answer when this occurs to the boy or girl over 3 years of age. These rascals are testing the ability of the parents to set and adhere to a limit when they should go to bed. With younger tikes, other causes usually are responsible. In general insomnia revolves about the anxiety created through separation. The little one who is most likely to fuss when left alone has acquired a sense of insecurity. He realizes unconsciously his dependence upon the family and fears being deserted or unprotected during sleep. Unless corrected, a vicious circle is established because grownups also are robbed of sleep and the nervous tension that follows adds to the confusion and anxiety.

Insecurity is not the only cause and most physicians go into the subject more thoroughly before blaming this aspect. Examination is done initially to determine whether a physical ailment exists. Even adults would stay awake if they had pinworms, an irritating eczema, scabies, difficulty in breathing, or a dry nose. There also is a possibility that the sleeping quarters are not adequate or perhaps the apartment is noisy or stuffy. In some instances an uncongenial sitter is employed. When the quarters consist of only one room it is advisable to put up a screen and while the baby is going to sleep the lights must be dimmed and the radio or television turned off.

When the youngster suffers from a separation anxiety, the problem is more challenging and requires some work on the part of the parents. Dr. O. William Anderson of Seattle recommends that either father or mother stay with the child. The tot must not be led to believe that this is being done because fear exists. Calmness can be encouraged if the parent will sit and read, knit, or crochet. Nothing is said and the grownup remains for a little while after the infant falls asleep in case he awakens or has been playing 'possum. This matter of fact attitude may surprise the child at first, especially when he has had trouble for a long time. Sometimes junior will be satisfied if the door is kept open or a night light is left on.

A somewhat similar plan is followed with the youngster who awakens in the night. The parents should respond immediately and walk in quietly and unhurriedly. This attitude has a calming effect, particularly if it is accompanied by smoothing the sheet, patting the tot on the back, and giving him a good night kiss. Otherwise it may be necessary to sit for a short time until the youngster realizes that his protector is on the job. The fact that father or mother is not worried or angry will inspire confidence and relaxation. Ultimately, the anxiety of being separated disappears entirely and normal sleep habits are established.

LIKES THEM RAW

K. W. writes: Is there any harm in taking a small amount of raw potato every day?

REPLY

Not if it doesn't cause distress. Raw potatoes take longer to digest than cooked potatoes.

OLD WIVES' TALE

Mrs. E. writes: My girl friend and I each have three children. She gives her youngsters a laxative once a month and thinks I should do the same for mine. Is a monthly laxative needed?

REPLY

No. Your friend's idea goes back to the days of sulfur and molasses or a "good dose" of salts on Saturday night. The plan is not logical and is condemned because it is likely to upset the normal bowel habit.

FACIAL PARALYSIS

J. M. writes: What are the symptoms of Bell's palsy?

REPLY

Paralysis of one side of the face. The victim is unable to close the eyelid on the affected hide and since the muscles of the mouth do not function, it is impossible to whistle, smile, or show the teeth. The lips droop on the involved side and drooling is not uncommon because saliva cannot be held back.

FALLING TEETH

Mrs. T. writes. What causes me to dream every night about my teeth falling out?

REPLY

This dream is said to occur in individuals who grit their teeth at night. There is a possibility that the dream is associated with dread of having false teeth fall out in company or on special occasions.

THE MORNING DASH

Mrs. W. writes: My daughter is on a bland diet because of stomach discomfort but she doesn't seem to be getting better. I claim her indigestion is caused by taking nothing but coffee in the morning and hurrying to work. I am trying to induce her to get up earlier in the morning and eat a good breakfast but she prefers to sleep late. Don't you think I have a point?

REPLY

You certainly have. On the other hand, other factors such as nervousness and anxiety should be considered also.

FOOT DISORDERS

B. H. writes: Can athlete's foot cause Buerger's disease?

REPLY

Since the cause of Buerger's disease is not known, this possibility has been considered. Dr. Thompson of Yale did considerable research in an attempt to foster this idea, but it still remains in the realm of speculation.

SHE MEANT WELL

Mrs. L. writes: Recently I brought a primrose to a friend in the hospital. The next day her skin broke out and her physician asked her whether a friend or enemy had given her the plant. I feel terrible about this as I had the best of intentions. Will you please explain?

REPLY

Your friend is sensitive to primroses. Don't brood about it because you did not know of her allergy to the plant. Much of the folklore associated with primroses and hospitals is exaggerated because not many persons are susceptible to this beautiful plant.

Cracker-Box Strategists Fumble Civil Defense; America Must Face A New Concept Of War; We Have No Time Here For Fantasy

(Ed. Note — While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Millard Caldwell, federal Civil Defense administrator.)

WASHINGTON — While time is running out, the cracker-box strategists fumble civil defense.

Some of them know that air power at its best can stop only 30 out of 100 attacking enemy bombers. Yet they insist that more air power is the sole answer to protecting the home front.

Others blow hot and cold. One day they think the situation is so hopeless that civil defense could do no good. The next day, the world situation looks brighter, so civil defense is not needed.

Still others insist that retaliation is the answer. What we can do to the enemy blinds them to what the enemy can do to us. They forget the trigger for our retaliation will be a mass atomic attack on our own cities.

Then, another group, the ostrich thinkers, insist that no nation would dare attack this country, because nobody ever has, and besides we're too strong.

Some, bored with crisis after crisis, wake up now and then, say "it can't happen here," and doze off again.

The timid pin their hope on Russian backwardness and say, "that atomic explosion in Russia wasn't really the bomb."

While the pseudo-strategists grope in a smog of truth, half-truth and fantasy, time is running out. We stand in danger of war.

Too many seem unable to grasp the fact that we can lose a war. Their stock answers are: If it takes production, we'll outproduce the enemy. If it takes atomic bombs, we'll build bigger and better atomic bombs. If they hit us, we'll hit 'em harder.

These prevalent American beliefs are ingrained, basic but, unfortunately, stop short of an adequate answer to the sharp question sired by reality. They were incomplete by three things—Red imperialism, the global bomber and the atomic bomb.

This trio has forced on Americans a whole new concept of war. Today or any day, America itself can become a battleground. Civilians are the first targets in this new kind of war. If the enemy first smashes the home front, the military may have little left to fight for and less to fight with.

The Kremlin knows that our American home front must be knocked out quickly, if it is to be knocked out at all. For this reason, the first attack must be a grand slam using all the modern terror weapons.

Those who doubt the likelihood of war on the home front should heed what Representative Clarence Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, had to say on the floor April 9. He said: "If war comes—which God forbid—it will be fought in this country as well as abroad." General Vandenberg (speaking for the Air Force) said that "in spite of all our radar fences, our walls of shipping, our networks of communication and our clouds of interceptor planes, 70 per cent of the enemy planes carrying atomic bombs would get through. We might as well face that fact. Every center of production, every center of wealth and population and civilization would be devastated. We have only to look at the cities in Germany to see how the cities of America would look within one week after war started."

W. Stuart Symington, while chairman of NSRB, said "who can be a bigger fool than the fool who continues to fool himself, especially when his own existence is at stake." Those who will read the record must see where the 30-year pattern of Russian imperialism leads.

The retaliationists have an empty answer. To devastate Russian cities would not restore our own.

Unrealistic thinking has sapped our strength and robbed us of precious time. No American city is prepared to cope with an enemy attack. We must use our time wisely and well. There is no time for fatalism or fantasy.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The slow, clumsy machinery of the federal government isn't preventing the tragic loss of production every day now of one of the most vital of all the metals needed for the rearmament program — namely, copper.

Charges are heard that the Kremlin has moved in to impair our rearmament program on the home front while Congress is debating how to spend billions to stop communism abroad.

There are some suspicious circumstances connected with the strike which has shut down 95 per cent of the nation's production of copper. Persons who have been charged before congressional committees with being Communists are alleged to be playing a part indirectly in the strikes that are aimed at stoppage of production in strategic industries.

Strike Influencing Plausible

More than 100,000 workers are idle in the copper strike, and it seems plausible that, with the importance of copper production at this moment, influences which wanted a strike in order to curtail production were present somewhere in the background of this dispute.

The country knows very little about how Communists infiltrate unions here, as they do abroad. The vast majority of the American trade unions are free from Communist influence but even the best of them do not know sometimes when insidious efforts are made to tie up key in industries. It is relatively easy for some groups which want a strike to set in motion inside a union a factional dispute that can force the hands of the officers.

With all the investigating of Communist activities that has been done by congressional committees, very little has been directed toward the operations of Communists inside labor unions. This is largely due to the manner in which the loyal groups in most unions have made short shift of the disloyal. But it would probably be of great assistance to them if the congressional committees did expose some of the methods and means by which strikes are engineered by a key group of Communists.

In the case of the copper strike, the moves that may be made to end the strike, either under the Taft-Hartley law or by seizure, are likely to take time. The process whereby an injunction is obtained would take 10 days. Meanwhile, valuable tonnage of copper would be lost and the stockpile which the nation has accumulated for emergencies would be materially reduced. It has been hinted that the danger point would be approached.

The gravity of the situation is well understood at the Office of Defense Production. Serious consideration has been given there to various steps that might be taken to end the work stoppage. But it is conceded that the time that has to elapse will be costly in copper production.

Government Pleas Unheeded

The Wage Stabilization Board, which has had the dispute before it, has demanded that the union send its members back to work while the issues are considered but pleas from the government here have been of no avail.

The controversy revolves around the demand for a pay increase of about 20-½ cents an hour which is about 10 cents less than the original request by the union. The pay at present is from $1.31 an hour for service laborers to $1.62 for miners An increase of 20-½ cents an hour is in excess of the formula of a 10 per cent increase established by the Economic Stabilization Office. But the union leaders claim the Wage Stabilization Board has made a variety of rulings and that this one, if accepted by the board, would send the strikers back to work immediately.

Assuming that there is a basis for compromising the pay demands, it still doesn't solve the problem of how to avoid strikes while collective bargaining is in progress. Clearly Congress may have to pass restrictive legislation if any more strikes like that in copper should arise in the category of scarce commodities needed for the armament program.

They're Smearing Ike Now

WASHINGTON

The best proof of the terror inspired among certain groups of politicians by the mere name of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, is the simple fact that a flood of poison pen literature about the General is already pouring out. Occasionally it is useful to know the way the political sewers are flowing, and in this case it is particularly instructive.

A fair sample of the stuff being circulated is a pamphlet called the "Williams Intelligence Survey," published in Santa Ana, Cal., by a character who bills himself as "news analyst, lecturer, former counter-intelligence officer." Williams strikes his two keynotes in his first paragraphs, describing Eisenhower as a "carouser with Zhukov and other high Soviet criminals," and "the man most wanted by the Zionists to head the government."

From this start, the reader is plunged into a strange anti-Semitic nightmare dominated by the figure of Eisenhower himself, the "Zionist candidate," the "Red caterer," the ex-President of Columbia University. ("As you know," Williams remarks confidentially to his readers, "Columbia is in New York City, and virtually a ghetto institution, an incubator of proselytes and international Jewish revolutionaries.") According to Williams, Eisenhower is guilty of innumerable misdeeds, ranging from plotting to become a military dictator, to insinuating a left-wing Polish professor into the Columbia faculty.

"Is Eisenhower Jewish?" Williams at last asks himself. He answers with a qualified negative. But he adds sternly that we "dare not forgive the arch-criminals and morons of our own race, merely because they are led by the nose or bribed or driven."

Accused Of Complicity

Williams' pamplet is a fair sample of the cruder style of this special literature. But perhaps there is even more significance in the style that wears a thin cloak of normality indicated by avoidance of outspoken anti-Semitism), which is best represented by the 1951 "report" of a public group known as the Partisan Republicans of California. This curious manifesto lists Eisenhower, Gov. Earl Warren of California, and former Gov. Harold Stassen as the "three principal prospects which the Communists and New Dealers are trying to impose on the Republican ticket." It names Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Communist party as leading Eisenhower backers for the Republican nomination. It rehearses several of the Williams' charges—the Polish professor, hobnobbing with Zhukov, etc. It accuses Eisenhower of complicity in a "Soviet" plot to send American troops to Europe, which certainly puts Soviet foreign policy in an unfamiliar light and it reaches its low in the statement:

"Only God knows how many hundred of thousands of men, women and children were tortured and murdered by the Soviet criminals because of (Eisenhower's actions. The blood of these innocent victims justified Eisenhower's decoration by the Soviets."

Important Symptoms

The reason why it is now prudent to have this look into the sewers is, very bluntly, that the sewers are threatening to well up into our public life. Neither Williams nor the Partisan Republicans have any real importance in and of themselves. Yet they are symptoms of something very important indeed. We do not yet hear open anti-Semitism on the floor of the United States Senate. Yet the attack on Anna Rosenberg early this winter stank of concealed anti-Semitism. Gen. Eisenhower is not yet the victim of public attacks like those sketched above. Yet Sen. Joseph W. McCarthy's recent denunciation of Gen. George C. Marshall was an experiment in the same art form.

Worse still, the disgusting nonsense contained in these poison pen pamphlets—of which more might be quoted—is actually beginning to be accepted as sound political currency by outwardly respectable politicians.

When the Partisan Republicans accuse Eisenhower of "never opposing the treacherous policy of Harry Hopkins, Alger Hiss, Dean Acheson and Reds whose records show they served the interests of Stalin," they speak the language of 20 senators. In the past fort-night, these reporters have several times been solemnly told about Williams' professor canard, as a sinister incident dug up by Senate Republicans of the Taft group, which would surely block Eisenhower's nomination. Probably these senators are faithful readers of Williams.

The truth is that too many of the more conservative politicians of both parties, but particularly of the Republican party, are beginning to suffer from a milder form of the same vicious disease that shows itself in this poison pen literature.

Among the Republicans, the acknowledged leader of these men is Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, who is of course utterly free of the disease himself. Yet thus far Taft has accepted the support of the infected (both Williams and the Partisan Republicans are strong Taftites, by the way); and in the case of Sen. McCarthy, he has even seemed to encourage the infection for political reasons. No one has attacked Franklin Delano Roosevelt's delay in repudiating Communist support more bitterly than Sen. Taft. And the Senator now owes it to his own high character and great talents—indeed he owes it to the country—to repudiate and rebuke all manifestations of this spreading and menacing disease, both underground and in the Senate, in the sharpest and most emphatic manner.

Nehru's Fallacy

While Soviet Russia will send a delegation to the San Francisco Conference on the Japanese treaty, India will boycott the conference. Russia will use sabotage as a weapon; India uses the boycott. Russia will speak long and loud; India will give the identical impression by silence.

Both countries have the same aim and purpose, namely, to seal off Asia from the United States, to close the entire Continent of Asia, if they can manage it by diplomacy, intrigue, revolution or war, from European and American commerce, credits and friendship. The failure of the Harriman mission to Iran is part of this intrigue. The Revolutionary movements in the Philippines, Burma and Malaya are phases of this program.

Nehru is a Socialist and has always publicly regarded himself as such. We know from Professor Karl A. Wittfogel's testimony before the McCarran Committee that in 1929 he attended a Russian-directed Communist conference at Frankfort-am-Main. Most of those who attended were then Communists, although we may assume that some were invited for the impression that such a conference would make on them. We know from this little tile in a grand mosaic of intrigue that as early as 1929, Nehru had close relations with international communism. From 1945 to this day, Nehru has in many official acts indicated that those relations still exist and are cordial.

Otto Friedman, in his book, "The Break-Up of Czech Democracy," makes an interesting point which, while applied to Czechoslovakia, fits current India. He wrote:

"The philosophers of Czechoslovak democracy failed, because they believed that they could preserve the democracy and independence of their own country, whilst supporting, through their foreign policy and propaganda, the expansion of Soviet communism in other countries . . ."

Precisely that has been Nehru's diplomacy. He has been trying to purchase the independence of his country from Soviet Russia by acting as Russia's agent in the conquest, by diplomacy, of other Asiatic countries. That game has brought no benefit anywhere in Europe; there is no reason to believe that it can succeed anywhere in Asia.

One reason that India, as many countries in Eastern Europe, fears Soviet Russia but does not fear America, is that since Teheran (1943), this country has appeased Russia. Therefore, countries which joined up with us, as Nationalist China and Iran did, could not know at what point the United States would desert its friends, for the sake of appeasement, as Chiang Kai-Shek, as Singman Rhee, as the Shah of Persia have at times been deserted, even though eventually they may have been picked up again. Even our mixed and uncertain policy to Israel gives, to other countries, evidence of an undetermined policy, largely dominated by domestic considerations.

It is the opportunistic, day-by-day policy that our State Department has pursued since 1943 which gives cause to other nations to question the wisdom of risking their national existence on the exigencies of American activities in the international field.

India fears Soviet Russia and distrusts the United States. Therefore, India risks American displeasure while acting as the Russian broker. The fallacy of such a policy is obvious from the American standpoint; to an Indian it represents clever manipulation of two great powers by a small one.

Nehru can continue to pursue this course only as long as the United States does not get very angry over it. All we need to do is to adopt a pro-Pakistan attitude, withhold assistance and commercial favors from India and give them to Pakistan, and Nehru's world would collapse about his ears.

Unfortunately, such a realistic course will not be pursued by the State Department as long as Great Britain insists that Nehru should be placated lest he take India out of the British commonwealth.

So, again, as with Nationalist China, American policy is being decided by what the British insist upon as their necessities. This country cannot long measure its conduct or control its attitudes on this basis, for while this nation has a continent to defend, Great Britain hopes to save the vestiges of empire trade. The two purposes are not identical; in fact, they are in conflict. Many of our difficulties with other countries are the result of this conflict of purpose. It prevents the United States from fixing its own policy and determining the nature of its relations to other nations.

It will be interesting to see how the British handle this situation at the forthcoming San Francisco Conference.

New Sources Of Sulphur

Final dissipation of the present world shortage of sulphur is now expected by the end of the year 1953. One of the basic chemical elements, sulphur is indispensable in manufacturing and in agriculture. Defense requirements, piled on top of normal needs, have created a world deficit estimated by James Boyd, director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, at 1,000,000 long tons a year.

Half that deficit can be covered by sulphur to be extracted from a new deposit whose discovery was announced August 22 by the Freeport Sulphur Company. The company predicts that the deposit, at Garden Isle Bay in Louisiana, in the marshes of the lower Mississippi River delta, will be yielding sulphur at the rate of 500,000 long tons annually within the next two and a half years.

Another Freeport mining plant at Bay Ste. Elaine in Louisiana is to be completed in 1952. The Freeport company is building this plant on barges at Grand Ecaille, 75 miles away, to be floated to the unstable marshland site at Bay Ste. Elaine. Conservation measures and development of two other new projects, Stark's Dome in Louisiana and the Spindle Top mine in Texas, are expected eventually to furnish enough new sulphur to meet world needs at present levels of demand.

Sulphur, vital in the production of gasoline, is frequently found in connection with oil explorations. The dome at Garden Isle Bay was discovered by the Texas Company, which is producing oil from the flanks of the formation. Sulphur rights were leased from the Texas Company by Freeport.

With sulphur as with oil, shortage scares in the past have repeatedly been dissipated by new discoveries. Proved oil reserves in continental United States are larger today than at any previous time. This despite the great drain of World War II on American oil resources.

Sulphur is a strategic element not only in the production of munitions but also in the manufacture of fertilizers and insecticides. It plays a large part, too, in the making of rubber, rayon, paint, paper, and other materials.

Italy, Norway, and the United States are the three foremost exporters of sulphur in the non-Communist world. Italy and the United States are represented on the Sulphur Committee of the International Materials Conference which held its first meeting in Washington in March. Other members are Australia, Belgium (representing the Benelux nations), Brazil, Canada, France, New Zealand, Switzerland, the Union of South Africa and the United Kingdom.

The Sulphur Committee on July 11 announced that it had unanimously recommended to governments an allocation of available world supplies of sulphur for July-September 1951. Of total world production and stocks of 1,415,400 long tons, to be allocated outside the Soviet bloc, the share of the United States and Canada was 1,050,000 long tons. Outside its allocation, the United States was to export 250,000 long tons to other countries. Most other countries included in the plan—excepting Italy and Norway—would import most or all of their allocations.

The allocations were arrived at "by common consent of the members of the committee after careful examination of each individual case." The committee will recommend firm allocations for the last quarter of 1951 early in September.

Turkeys R In Season

It is one of the oldest of American customs to eat turkey at Thanksgiving time. There is no good reason, however, for not eating it the year round. It is not necessary to wait for a month with an R in it. And Americans are gradually waking up to this fact, according to the turkey growers.

Where only 10 per cent of Americans 15 years ago ever ate turkey except at Thanksgiving or Christmas, about 35 per cent do so now. The idea is catching on. But Americans eat only 5.3 pounds per capita of turkey in a year. That is three times what it was in 1930, but it's small compared to the 146 pounds of red meat they eat.

The turkey business figures to do a lot of expanding. Prices are more reasonable than formerly, especially in comparison with beef. Turkey and beef on the hoof now cost the same. In 1930 turkey cost more than twice as much.

One reason people formerly bought turkeys only for holiday feasts was that they were so hard to get rid of. The man who has been through the routine of turkey hot, turkey warmed over, turkey cold, turkey hash and turkey soup after Thanksgiving and again after Christmas can hardly be blamed if it takes him 10 months to work up a yen for turkey again.

But the turkey growers are doing something about that. For one thing, they have developed pygmy turkeys about half the usual size—no larger than a big roasting chicken. And they are teaching butchers how to cut and sell cut-up turkey. When a bird weighs as much as a lamb, why make people buy them whole? Nobody asks the customers to buy a whole lamb.

Other concessions to the consumer are helping to popularize America's traditional fowl. Boneless frozen fillets are begining to go on the market. Pin-feathers are being removed by a more efficient process. Transparent plastic packaging adds to attractiveness.

If this sort of thing keeps on, the industry may be surprised at the results. It is remarkable what can be done by regarding the consumer's convenience and preferences seriously.

A Lesson From The Sky

The American steel industry, progressive institution that it always has been, is not likely to let go unnoticed a report that comes from Dr. H. H. Nininger, director of the American Meteorite Museum in Arizona. According to Dr. Nininger there is something about a meteor which makes non-corrosive the tiny drops of steel alloy which it contains.

Globules of steel, for instance, which have been lying on the ground and exposed to the elements for as long as 50,000 years have accumulated a layer of rust that is less than the thickness of fine tissue paper. From these facts, Dr. Nininer assumes that the great metallurgical laboratories, by experimenting with these meteoric droplets, could "unlock their secret and find out what makes them non-corrosive."

In view of the economic damage for which rust is responsible, Dr. Nininger is not overstating the case when he says the discovery he has in mind would revolutionize the steel industry.

Childhood Insomnia

Sleeping sickness in children sometimes are so severe as to upset the best regulated households. Most parents try everything before deciding to consult the physician. The failure to do the right things often aggravates the condition and makes treatment more difficult.

The child may have trouble getting to sleep or with awakening at night, or both. More discipline frequently is the answer when this occurs to the boy or girl over 3 years of age. These rascals are testing the ability of the parents to set and adhere to a limit when they should go to bed. With younger tikes, other causes usually are responsible. In general insomnia revolves about the anxiety created through separation. The little one who is most likely to fuss when left alone has acquired a sense of insecurity. He realizes unconsciously his dependence upon the family and fears being deserted or unprotected during sleep. Unless corrected, a vicious circle is established because grownups also are robbed of sleep and the nervous tension that follows adds to the confusion and anxiety.

Insecurity is not the only cause and most physicians go into the subject more thoroughly before blaming this aspect. Examination is done initially to determine whether a physical ailment exists. Even adults would stay awake if they had pinworms, an irritating eczema, scabies, difficulty in breathing, or a dry nose. There also is a possibility that the sleeping quarters are not adequate or perhaps the apartment is noisy or stuffy. In some instances an uncongenial sitter is employed. When the quarters consist of only one room it is advisable to put up a screen and while the baby is going to sleep the lights must be dimmed and the radio or television turned off.

When the youngster suffers from a separation anxiety, the problem is more challenging and requires some work on the part of the parents. Dr. O. William Anderson of Seattle recommends that either father or mother stay with the child. The tot must not be led to believe that this is being done because fear exists. Calmness can be encouraged if the parent will sit and read, knit, or crochet. Nothing is said and the grownup remains for a little while after the infant falls asleep in case he awakens or has been playing 'possum. This matter of fact attitude may surprise the child at first, especially when he has had trouble for a long time. Sometimes junior will be satisfied if the door is kept open or a night light is left on.

A somewhat similar plan is followed with the youngster who awakens in the night. The parents should respond immediately and walk in quietly and unhurriedly. This attitude has a calming effect, particularly if it is accompanied by smoothing the sheet, patting the tot on the back, and giving him a good night kiss. Otherwise it may be necessary to sit for a short time until the youngster realizes that his protector is on the job. The fact that father or mother is not worried or angry will inspire confidence and relaxation. Ultimately, the anxiety of being separated disappears entirely and normal sleep habits are established.

LIKES THEM RAW

K. W. writes: Is there any harm in taking a small amount of raw potato every day?

REPLY

Not if it doesn't cause distress. Raw potatoes take longer to digest than cooked potatoes.

OLD WIVES' TALE

Mrs. E. writes: My girl friend and I each have three children. She gives her youngsters a laxative once a month and thinks I should do the same for mine. Is a monthly laxative needed?

REPLY

No. Your friend's idea goes back to the days of sulfur and molasses or a "good dose" of salts on Saturday night. The plan is not logical and is condemned because it is likely to upset the normal bowel habit.

FACIAL PARALYSIS

J. M. writes: What are the symptoms of Bell's palsy?

REPLY

Paralysis of one side of the face. The victim is unable to close the eyelid on the affected hide and since the muscles of the mouth do not function, it is impossible to whistle, smile, or show the teeth. The lips droop on the involved side and drooling is not uncommon because saliva cannot be held back.

FALLING TEETH

Mrs. T. writes. What causes me to dream every night about my teeth falling out?

REPLY

This dream is said to occur in individuals who grit their teeth at night. There is a possibility that the dream is associated with dread of having false teeth fall out in company or on special occasions.

THE MORNING DASH

Mrs. W. writes: My daughter is on a bland diet because of stomach discomfort but she doesn't seem to be getting better. I claim her indigestion is caused by taking nothing but coffee in the morning and hurrying to work. I am trying to induce her to get up earlier in the morning and eat a good breakfast but she prefers to sleep late. Don't you think I have a point?

REPLY

You certainly have. On the other hand, other factors such as nervousness and anxiety should be considered also.

FOOT DISORDERS

B. H. writes: Can athlete's foot cause Buerger's disease?

REPLY

Since the cause of Buerger's disease is not known, this possibility has been considered. Dr. Thompson of Yale did considerable research in an attempt to foster this idea, but it still remains in the realm of speculation.

SHE MEANT WELL

Mrs. L. writes: Recently I brought a primrose to a friend in the hospital. The next day her skin broke out and her physician asked her whether a friend or enemy had given her the plant. I feel terrible about this as I had the best of intentions. Will you please explain?

REPLY

Your friend is sensitive to primroses. Don't brood about it because you did not know of her allergy to the plant. Much of the folklore associated with primroses and hospitals is exaggerated because not many persons are susceptible to this beautiful plant.

Cracker-Box Strategists Fumble Civil Defense; America Must Face A New Concept Of War; We Have No Time Here For Fantasy

(Ed. Note — While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Millard Caldwell, federal Civil Defense administrator.)

WASHINGTON — While time is running out, the cracker-box strategists fumble civil defense.

Some of them know that air power at its best can stop only 30 out of 100 attacking enemy bombers. Yet they insist that more air power is the sole answer to protecting the home front.

Others blow hot and cold. One day they think the situation is so hopeless that civil defense could do no good. The next day, the world situation looks brighter, so civil defense is not needed.

Still others insist that retaliation is the answer. What we can do to the enemy blinds them to what the enemy can do to us. They forget the trigger for our retaliation will be a mass atomic attack on our own cities.

Then, another group, the ostrich thinkers, insist that no nation would dare attack this country, because nobody ever has, and besides we're too strong.

Some, bored with crisis after crisis, wake up now and then, say "it can't happen here," and doze off again.

The timid pin their hope on Russian backwardness and say, "that atomic explosion in Russia wasn't really the bomb."

While the pseudo-strategists grope in a smog of truth, half-truth and fantasy, time is running out. We stand in danger of war.

Too many seem unable to grasp the fact that we can lose a war. Their stock answers are: If it takes production, we'll outproduce the enemy. If it takes atomic bombs, we'll build bigger and better atomic bombs. If they hit us, we'll hit 'em harder.

These prevalent American beliefs are ingrained, basic but, unfortunately, stop short of an adequate answer to the sharp question sired by reality. They were incomplete by three things—Red imperialism, the global bomber and the atomic bomb.

This trio has forced on Americans a whole new concept of war. Today or any day, America itself can become a battleground. Civilians are the first targets in this new kind of war. If the enemy first smashes the home front, the military may have little left to fight for and less to fight with.

The Kremlin knows that our American home front must be knocked out quickly, if it is to be knocked out at all. For this reason, the first attack must be a grand slam using all the modern terror weapons.

Those who doubt the likelihood of war on the home front should heed what Representative Clarence Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, had to say on the floor April 9. He said: "If war comes—which God forbid—it will be fought in this country as well as abroad." General Vandenberg (speaking for the Air Force) said that "in spite of all our radar fences, our walls of shipping, our networks of communication and our clouds of interceptor planes, 70 per cent of the enemy planes carrying atomic bombs would get through. We might as well face that fact. Every center of production, every center of wealth and population and civilization would be devastated. We have only to look at the cities in Germany to see how the cities of America would look within one week after war started."

W. Stuart Symington, while chairman of NSRB, said "who can be a bigger fool than the fool who continues to fool himself, especially when his own existence is at stake." Those who will read the record must see where the 30-year pattern of Russian imperialism leads.

The retaliationists have an empty answer. To devastate Russian cities would not restore our own.

Unrealistic thinking has sapped our strength and robbed us of precious time. No American city is prepared to cope with an enemy attack. We must use our time wisely and well. There is no time for fatalism or fantasy.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The slow, clumsy machinery of the federal government isn't preventing the tragic loss of production every day now of one of the most vital of all the metals needed for the rearmament program — namely, copper.

Charges are heard that the Kremlin has moved in to impair our rearmament program on the home front while Congress is debating how to spend billions to stop communism abroad.

There are some suspicious circumstances connected with the strike which has shut down 95 per cent of the nation's production of copper. Persons who have been charged before congressional committees with being Communists are alleged to be playing a part indirectly in the strikes that are aimed at stoppage of production in strategic industries.

Strike Influencing Plausible

More than 100,000 workers are idle in the copper strike, and it seems plausible that, with the importance of copper production at this moment, influences which wanted a strike in order to curtail production were present somewhere in the background of this dispute.

The country knows very little about how Communists infiltrate unions here, as they do abroad. The vast majority of the American trade unions are free from Communist influence but even the best of them do not know sometimes when insidious efforts are made to tie up key in industries. It is relatively easy for some groups which want a strike to set in motion inside a union a factional dispute that can force the hands of the officers.

With all the investigating of Communist activities that has been done by congressional committees, very little has been directed toward the operations of Communists inside labor unions. This is largely due to the manner in which the loyal groups in most unions have made short shift of the disloyal. But it would probably be of great assistance to them if the congressional committees did expose some of the methods and means by which strikes are engineered by a key group of Communists.

In the case of the copper strike, the moves that may be made to end the strike, either under the Taft-Hartley law or by seizure, are likely to take time. The process whereby an injunction is obtained would take 10 days. Meanwhile, valuable tonnage of copper would be lost and the stockpile which the nation has accumulated for emergencies would be materially reduced. It has been hinted that the danger point would be approached.

The gravity of the situation is well understood at the Office of Defense Production. Serious consideration has been given there to various steps that might be taken to end the work stoppage. But it is conceded that the time that has to elapse will be costly in copper production.

Government Pleas Unheeded

The Wage Stabilization Board, which has had the dispute before it, has demanded that the union send its members back to work while the issues are considered but pleas from the government here have been of no avail.

The controversy revolves around the demand for a pay increase of about 20-½ cents an hour which is about 10 cents less than the original request by the union. The pay at present is from $1.31 an hour for service laborers to $1.62 for miners An increase of 20-½ cents an hour is in excess of the formula of a 10 per cent increase established by the Economic Stabilization Office. But the union leaders claim the Wage Stabilization Board has made a variety of rulings and that this one, if accepted by the board, would send the strikers back to work immediately.

Assuming that there is a basis for compromising the pay demands, it still doesn't solve the problem of how to avoid strikes while collective bargaining is in progress. Clearly Congress may have to pass restrictive legislation if any more strikes like that in copper should arise in the category of scarce commodities needed for the armament program.

They're Smearing Ike Now

WASHINGTON

The best proof of the terror inspired among certain groups of politicians by the mere name of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, is the simple fact that a flood of poison pen literature about the General is already pouring out. Occasionally it is useful to know the way the political sewers are flowing, and in this case it is particularly instructive.

A fair sample of the stuff being circulated is a pamphlet called the "Williams Intelligence Survey," published in Santa Ana, Cal., by a character who bills himself as "news analyst, lecturer, former counter-intelligence officer." Williams strikes his two keynotes in his first paragraphs, describing Eisenhower as a "carouser with Zhukov and other high Soviet criminals," and "the man most wanted by the Zionists to head the government."

From this start, the reader is plunged into a strange anti-Semitic nightmare dominated by the figure of Eisenhower himself, the "Zionist candidate," the "Red caterer," the ex-President of Columbia University. ("As you know," Williams remarks confidentially to his readers, "Columbia is in New York City, and virtually a ghetto institution, an incubator of proselytes and international Jewish revolutionaries.") According to Williams, Eisenhower is guilty of innumerable misdeeds, ranging from plotting to become a military dictator, to insinuating a left-wing Polish professor into the Columbia faculty.

"Is Eisenhower Jewish?" Williams at last asks himself. He answers with a qualified negative. But he adds sternly that we "dare not forgive the arch-criminals and morons of our own race, merely because they are led by the nose or bribed or driven."

Accused Of Complicity

Williams' pamplet is a fair sample of the cruder style of this special literature. But perhaps there is even more significance in the style that wears a thin cloak of normality indicated by avoidance of outspoken anti-Semitism), which is best represented by the 1951 "report" of a public group known as the Partisan Republicans of California. This curious manifesto lists Eisenhower, Gov. Earl Warren of California, and former Gov. Harold Stassen as the "three principal prospects which the Communists and New Dealers are trying to impose on the Republican ticket." It names Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Communist party as leading Eisenhower backers for the Republican nomination. It rehearses several of the Williams' charges—the Polish professor, hobnobbing with Zhukov, etc. It accuses Eisenhower of complicity in a "Soviet" plot to send American troops to Europe, which certainly puts Soviet foreign policy in an unfamiliar light and it reaches its low in the statement:

"Only God knows how many hundred of thousands of men, women and children were tortured and murdered by the Soviet criminals because of (Eisenhower's actions. The blood of these innocent victims justified Eisenhower's decoration by the Soviets."

Important Symptoms

The reason why it is now prudent to have this look into the sewers is, very bluntly, that the sewers are threatening to well up into our public life. Neither Williams nor the Partisan Republicans have any real importance in and of themselves. Yet they are symptoms of something very important indeed. We do not yet hear open anti-Semitism on the floor of the United States Senate. Yet the attack on Anna Rosenberg early this winter stank of concealed anti-Semitism. Gen. Eisenhower is not yet the victim of public attacks like those sketched above. Yet Sen. Joseph W. McCarthy's recent denunciation of Gen. George C. Marshall was an experiment in the same art form.

Worse still, the disgusting nonsense contained in these poison pen pamphlets—of which more might be quoted—is actually beginning to be accepted as sound political currency by outwardly respectable politicians.

When the Partisan Republicans accuse Eisenhower of "never opposing the treacherous policy of Harry Hopkins, Alger Hiss, Dean Acheson and Reds whose records show they served the interests of Stalin," they speak the language of 20 senators. In the past fort-night, these reporters have several times been solemnly told about Williams' professor canard, as a sinister incident dug up by Senate Republicans of the Taft group, which would surely block Eisenhower's nomination. Probably these senators are faithful readers of Williams.

The truth is that too many of the more conservative politicians of both parties, but particularly of the Republican party, are beginning to suffer from a milder form of the same vicious disease that shows itself in this poison pen literature.

Among the Republicans, the acknowledged leader of these men is Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, who is of course utterly free of the disease himself. Yet thus far Taft has accepted the support of the infected (both Williams and the Partisan Republicans are strong Taftites, by the way); and in the case of Sen. McCarthy, he has even seemed to encourage the infection for political reasons. No one has attacked Franklin Delano Roosevelt's delay in repudiating Communist support more bitterly than Sen. Taft. And the Senator now owes it to his own high character and great talents—indeed he owes it to the country—to repudiate and rebuke all manifestations of this spreading and menacing disease, both underground and in the Senate, in the sharpest and most emphatic manner.

Nehru's Fallacy

While Soviet Russia will send a delegation to the San Francisco Conference on the Japanese treaty, India will boycott the conference. Russia will use sabotage as a weapon; India uses the boycott. Russia will speak long and loud; India will give the identical impression by silence.

Both countries have the same aim and purpose, namely, to seal off Asia from the United States, to close the entire Continent of Asia, if they can manage it by diplomacy, intrigue, revolution or war, from European and American commerce, credits and friendship. The failure of the Harriman mission to Iran is part of this intrigue. The Revolutionary movements in the Philippines, Burma and Malaya are phases of this program.

Nehru is a Socialist and has always publicly regarded himself as such. We know from Professor Karl A. Wittfogel's testimony before the McCarran Committee that in 1929 he attended a Russian-directed Communist conference at Frankfort-am-Main. Most of those who attended were then Communists, although we may assume that some were invited for the impression that such a conference would make on them. We know from this little tile in a grand mosaic of intrigue that as early as 1929, Nehru had close relations with international communism. From 1945 to this day, Nehru has in many official acts indicated that those relations still exist and are cordial.

Otto Friedman, in his book, "The Break-Up of Czech Democracy," makes an interesting point which, while applied to Czechoslovakia, fits current India. He wrote:

"The philosophers of Czechoslovak democracy failed, because they believed that they could preserve the democracy and independence of their own country, whilst supporting, through their foreign policy and propaganda, the expansion of Soviet communism in other countries . . ."

Precisely that has been Nehru's diplomacy. He has been trying to purchase the independence of his country from Soviet Russia by acting as Russia's agent in the conquest, by diplomacy, of other Asiatic countries. That game has brought no benefit anywhere in Europe; there is no reason to believe that it can succeed anywhere in Asia.

One reason that India, as many countries in Eastern Europe, fears Soviet Russia but does not fear America, is that since Teheran (1943), this country has appeased Russia. Therefore, countries which joined up with us, as Nationalist China and Iran did, could not know at what point the United States would desert its friends, for the sake of appeasement, as Chiang Kai-Shek, as Singman Rhee, as the Shah of Persia have at times been deserted, even though eventually they may have been picked up again. Even our mixed and uncertain policy to Israel gives, to other countries, evidence of an undetermined policy, largely dominated by domestic considerations.

It is the opportunistic, day-by-day policy that our State Department has pursued since 1943 which gives cause to other nations to question the wisdom of risking their national existence on the exigencies of American activities in the international field.

India fears Soviet Russia and distrusts the United States. Therefore, India risks American displeasure while acting as the Russian broker. The fallacy of such a policy is obvious from the American standpoint; to an Indian it represents clever manipulation of two great powers by a small one.

Nehru can continue to pursue this course only as long as the United States does not get very angry over it. All we need to do is to adopt a pro-Pakistan attitude, withhold assistance and commercial favors from India and give them to Pakistan, and Nehru's world would collapse about his ears.

Unfortunately, such a realistic course will not be pursued by the State Department as long as Great Britain insists that Nehru should be placated lest he take India out of the British commonwealth.

So, again, as with Nationalist China, American policy is being decided by what the British insist upon as their necessities. This country cannot long measure its conduct or control its attitudes on this basis, for while this nation has a continent to defend, Great Britain hopes to save the vestiges of empire trade. The two purposes are not identical; in fact, they are in conflict. Many of our difficulties with other countries are the result of this conflict of purpose. It prevents the United States from fixing its own policy and determining the nature of its relations to other nations.

It will be interesting to see how the British handle this situation at the forthcoming San Francisco Conference.

Pravda Wants To Know Just When Lecturer Is Lecturing In Siberia

MOSCOW (AP)—Officials of a lecture bureau in Siberia who collected money for lectures that never should have been given have been handed "severe punishment," Pravda said today.

The charge, said Pravda, was "stealing state funds." But there was much more to it than that. The Pravda account went this way:

The Novosibirsk city prosecuting attorney recently became interested in finding out how certain lecturers from the lecture bureau were able to deliver four of five lectures on the same day in places separated by distances requiring several days' travel.

He was interested particularly in a certain lecturer billed as "professor Alferov." The professor, investigation showed, was not a professor at all, but a city engineer. Further, he never delivered any lectures and never collected any money for lectures. But just the same, the books of the bureau credited him with speaking in many parts of Siberia.

"It developed," said Pravda, "there were certain individuals in the lecture bureau who occupied themselves with forging documents on fictitious lectures which were never given."

The investigation continued, and there were "more shortcomings."

In addition to the fake lectures, the investigation showed there were some real ones, given by lecturers whom Pravda labelled "pot-boiler artists."

Particularly, Pravda was incensed by the lecturer who told his audience that a meteor which fell in Siberia was really a space ship, from the planet Mars. The story was that the "space ship" was wrecked. This story had caused quite a stir among the peasants several months ago, and they wrote to the newspapers wanting to know when the space ship could be expected to return. Pravda was pretty mad about the story then, too. In fact, it touched off this investigation.

Another lecturer added to the confusion by telling his audience, concerning the wrecked space ship, that "I agree with this only in part—I say it was not wrecked, but only bounced against the earth and flew back to Mars."

This wasn't all that was wrong about the Novosibirsk lecture bureau, either. There was another lecturer who presented himself as an expert on X-rays, vitamins, culture, the conduct of life on other planets, the science of teaching and stomach ailments.

"Such performances," said Pravda, "are all too typical of Novosibirsk."

Pravda Wants To Know Just When Lecturer Is Lecturing In Siberia

MOSCOW (AP)—Officials of a lecture bureau in Siberia who collected money for lectures that never should have been given have been handed "severe punishment," Pravda said today.

The charge, said Pravda, was "stealing state funds." But there was much more to it than that. The Pravda account went this way:

The Novosibirsk city prosecuting attorney recently became interested in finding out how certain lecturers from the lecture bureau were able to deliver four of five lectures on the same day in places separated by distances requiring several days' travel.

He was interested particularly in a certain lecturer billed as "professor Alferov." The professor, investigation showed, was not a professor at all, but a city engineer. Further, he never delivered any lectures and never collected any money for lectures. But just the same, the books of the bureau credited him with speaking in many parts of Siberia.

"It developed," said Pravda, "there were certain individuals in the lecture bureau who occupied themselves with forging documents on fictitious lectures which were never given."

The investigation continued, and there were "more shortcomings."

In addition to the fake lectures, the investigation showed there were some real ones, given by lecturers whom Pravda labelled "pot-boiler artists."

Particularly, Pravda was incensed by the lecturer who told his audience that a meteor which fell in Siberia was really a space ship, from the planet Mars. The story was that the "space ship" was wrecked. This story had caused quite a stir among the peasants several months ago, and they wrote to the newspapers wanting to know when the space ship could be expected to return. Pravda was pretty mad about the story then, too. In fact, it touched off this investigation.

Another lecturer added to the confusion by telling his audience, concerning the wrecked space ship, that "I agree with this only in part—I say it was not wrecked, but only bounced against the earth and flew back to Mars."

This wasn't all that was wrong about the Novosibirsk lecture bureau, either. There was another lecturer who presented himself as an expert on X-rays, vitamins, culture, the conduct of life on other planets, the science of teaching and stomach ailments.

"Such performances," said Pravda, "are all too typical of Novosibirsk."

Americanism On Trial

By JOHN EDGAR HOOVER
Director Federal Bureau of Investigation
United States Department of Justice

All eyes were fixed on the speaker. She was a young lady, neatly dressed. Her voice was clear and loud, echoing and re-echoing through the hall.

This was a Communist women's meeting. The speaker had been a delegate to an international Communist conference. Now she was home telling her experiences to fellow Communists.

She was enthusiastic, bubbling with energy. Time after time she denounced American policies, praised Communism and upbraided those who disagreed with the party line. Everything was wrong in the United States; everything right in Communist countries—typical Communist harangue.

J. EDGAR HOOVER

Then she paused, her brown eyes narrowing. She took a sip of water and in a voice, rather low but charged with feeling, commented, "You know, comrades, I was never embarrassed to be a Communist, but I was embarrassed to be an American woman."

This statement lays bare, in the most ugly fashion, the thinking of the Communist—he has absolutely no loyalty to America. This woman is a native-born citizen, educated in American schools, protected by the American flag. She has prospered and enjoyed life in this country. Yet, she is ashamed to be an American! Nothing, to my mind, could be more foul and despicable. Here is communism stripped inside out—exposed as a treacherous conspiracy dedicated to the destruction of everything we hold dear.

A Communist cannot be an American—one excludes the other. There are some persons, most admittedly, befuddled by Marxist-Leninist double talk, who have proclaimed communism as "twentieth century Americanism" or as "improved Americanism." This is nonsense, sheer and absolute. Even the Communists themselves, deep in their own hearts, do not accept this point of view. The young Communist woman, in her enthusiasm, betrayed her true feelings—she was ashamed of being an American! Why? Because she, like all Communists, realizes that as long as true Americanism—belief in justice, honesty and fair play—reigns in this nation, they cannot succeed in their evil designs.

•—•—•

What happens when communism takes full charge of a people's destiny? The newspapers, radio and television proclaim the answer every day: suffering, misery, destruction, imprisonment and death.

Communism, in many areas of the world, has blighted freedom and mercy. The challenge is inescapable: either communism or free government.

Our answer must be—"more Americanism." The practice of free speech, democratic elections, freedom of the press, is America's best reply to the Communist challenge. If communism can destroy free government, free government, in turn, can eliminate the Communist virus. To be lethargic, uninterested and inert, will enable the Red Fascists to penetrate our freedoms; to be alert, wide-awake, on our toes, will force the Communists to retreat.

"I was embarrassed to be an American"—the woman boldly bragged. She is ashamed of the traditions of Washington and Lincoln, Franklin and Jefferson. Her soul has been captured by the devilish hates of Lenin and Stalin; her birthright of freedom has become a badge of dishonor. That, in words shocking and disconcerting, is America's challenge today.

This Communist hymn of hate must be answered — America's women can help in this great endeavor. "I am proud to be an American"—in this spirit we shall be victorious.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

A round face will never have a full-moon look, if these four quick ways to counteract it are used!

If your figure's line is that of a butterball and your face is that of a full moon, you probably have little sympathy with the artist's claim that curved lines are the most pleasing. Probably your life's crusade is straightening out curves.

And that's something the artist is a whizz at! To counteract a round line, says the artist, just cut across it with a straight vertical or diagonal line! When you do, the round line loses much of its roundness, and it even appears smaller.

Lines That Remodel

So when your goal is to diminish the roundness of your face, here's what to do:

1. Wear hats with medium-high, boxy crowns and diagonal brims. Immediately your face will appear longer and less circular.

2. For the same reason, wear V or surplice necklines, pointed or sharp-notched collars, necklaces that drape on the throat (not the chest) in a low V. Choose upward winging earbobs.

3. You can further attenuate your facial curves by arranging your hair to give height at your forehead. Sleek upward lines at the temples, soft waves set on the diagonal, moderate fullness behind the ears and on the neck in brushed-out curls are right for you.

De-Curving Make-up

4. Your make-up will be artfully applied when you square off the curves of your mouth in applying lipstick; encourage your eyebrows by penciling, brushing and cautious tweezing to slope up to a peak above the outside corners of your eyes, descending gradually to a point above and just beyond the eye sockets.

5. An extra trick for those who wear glasses lies in making sure that the bottom rim runs diagonally across the cheek and that the rims' general outline is angular.

Since you can remodel your face so successfully with a few verticals and diagonals, think of what you can do for your figure by using the same principles in choosing the lines fo your clothes!

P. S. from J. R. P.
GLASSES THAT ADORN

Wear your glasses as a smart accessory. Choose rims that are the most interesting shape for your face. This special leaflet is yours for the asking. Write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Shupe To Head UDF Drive In Rural Allegany County

Harry G. Shupe of Frostburg has been named chairman for the United Defense Fund (USO) for the county area outside of Cumberland, it was announced yesterday by Judge George Henderson, state leader.

Shupe was county chairman for the National War Fund campaign during World War II when $20,000 was raised outside of Cumberland. He is a past president of the Frostburg Rotary Club and is associated with Rep. J. Glenn Beall in the insurance business. Shupe has also been active in various Frostburg affairs and played an important part in the campaign to raise funds for the expansion of the Berkowitz pajama plant.

Allegany county's quota for United Defense Fund is $9,560, and this amount has been included in the Cumberland Community Chest goal. Whatever quotas are determined for the various towns in the county will be credited against the total combined with the Chest.

The campaign in the county will be conducted simultaneously with the Chest drive in Cumberland so as to make the effort as easy as possible through use of the same office, publicity and organization.

Judge Henderson also stated that the response from other communities and counties throughout the state is very encouraging. Annapolis, Perryville, and Salisbury, in addition to Baltimore City, have accepted their quotas and will also include the United Defense Fund with their local Chest campaigns. Other places have been contacted and a favorable response is expected.

Shupe will set up a county-wide organization with community chairmen and committees in all the towns. Meetings of these groups will be held early in September so that there will be a united effort throughout the county to raise the funds to support the essential services given to the armed forces, the USO and the other agencies which make up United Defense Fund.

Taverns Face Possible Loss Of Licenses

The operators of two taverns on the McMullen Highway were served with papers yesterday ordering them to appear before the Board of License Commissioners of Allegany County on September 18 at 10 a.m. to show cause why their licenses should not be suspended or revoked.

The orders, signed by Walter C. Capper, board chairman; Stanley Hamilton and Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., board members, cite the operators to appear to show cause why their license to sell alcoholic beverages should not be suspended or revoked for violations of the rules and regulations of the board.

Capper said the two licensees were cited on information furnished the board by two inspectors for the board.

The board cited two reasons for calling the two women before the board. The first charge is failure to clear tables of bottles containing alcoholic beverages before 1 a.m. while the second charge is that they are operating places in such a manner as to be a menace to the peace and safety of the community. It was stated in connection with the second charge that the two licensees habitually permitted large numbers of customers to have glasses and bottles containing alcoholic beverages on the tables after 1 a.m.

Shupe To Head UDF Drive In Rural Allegany County

Harry G. Shupe of Frostburg has been named chairman for the United Defense Fund (USO) for the county area outside of Cumberland, it was announced yesterday by Judge George Henderson, state leader.

Shupe was county chairman for the National War Fund campaign during World War II when $20,000 was raised outside of Cumberland. He is a past president of the Frostburg Rotary Club and is associated with Rep. J. Glenn Beall in the insurance business. Shupe has also been active in various Frostburg affairs and played an important part in the campaign to raise funds for the expansion of the Berkowitz pajama plant.

Allegany county's quota for United Defense Fund is $9,560, and this amount has been included in the Cumberland Community Chest goal. Whatever quotas are determined for the various towns in the county will be credited against the total combined with the Chest.

The campaign in the county will be conducted simultaneously with the Chest drive in Cumberland so as to make the effort as easy as possible through use of the same office, publicity and organization.

Judge Henderson also stated that the response from other communities and counties throughout the state is very encouraging. Annapolis, Perryville, and Salisbury, in addition to Baltimore City, have accepted their quotas and will also include the United Defense Fund with their local Chest campaigns. Other places have been contacted and a favorable response is expected.

Shupe will set up a county-wide organization with community chairmen and committees in all the towns. Meetings of these groups will be held early in September so that there will be a united effort throughout the county to raise the funds to support the essential services given to the armed forces, the USO and the other agencies which make up United Defense Fund.

Taverns Face Possible Loss Of Licenses

The operators of two taverns on the McMullen Highway were served with papers yesterday ordering them to appear before the Board of License Commissioners of Allegany County on September 18 at 10 a.m. to show cause why their licenses should not be suspended or revoked.

The orders, signed by Walter C. Capper, board chairman; Stanley Hamilton and Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., board members, cite the operators to appear to show cause why their license to sell alcoholic beverages should not be suspended or revoked for violations of the rules and regulations of the board.

Capper said the two licensees were cited on information furnished the board by two inspectors for the board.

The board cited two reasons for calling the two women before the board. The first charge is failure to clear tables of bottles containing alcoholic beverages before 1 a.m. while the second charge is that they are operating places in such a manner as to be a menace to the peace and safety of the community. It was stated in connection with the second charge that the two licensees habitually permitted large numbers of customers to have glasses and bottles containing alcoholic beverages on the tables after 1 a.m.

Drivers Urged To Be Careful; School To Open

Safety on the city's streets is the aim of the Cumberland Police Department as thousands of children return to school next week.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long has issued the following statement:

"As vacation ends and school begins, death once more stalks the streets where students cross. So once more we ask your cooperation.

"As last year, traffic crossing lines have been painted and Chief of Police R. E. Flynn will assign every available man to hazardous street intersections at school starting and ending times.

"Cruiser cars are assigned to school districts with specific orders to control speeding and stop reckless driving.

"It is not at all far fetched to say the difference between life and death for some child in Cumberland is only as great as the attention we give them.

"Now that our children are starting back to school, drivers need constant reminders that any laxity in safe driving habits near schools must be corrected immediately. Here are four good rules for driving near schools:

"1—Drive slowly: Be double sure you are in control of your car.

"2. Observe signs: Heed signs warning you where school traffic is especially heavy. Obey the signals of the special guards at crossings.

"3. Note the time: Watch out for peak school traffic periods.

"4. Check your car: take a little time now to have the mechanical condition of your car carefully checked. Don't let bad brakes, faulty steering or lazy windshield wipers undo your careful driving. A little effort on your part and cooperation with the Police Department will pay tremendous dividends. We hope that you feel the safety of our children is worth that effort.

"Be careful! The child you save may be your own."

Col. E. F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, warns motorists to "expect the unexpected from children."

Col. Munshower said in addition to such travel as private automobiles, bicycles and walking, 1,299 school buses will be operated in Maryland.

"Motorists who ignore the law requiring a full stop when meeting or overtaking a bus while it is loading or unloading risk an arrest for reckless driving," he said. He added that motorists should assume more than their legal responsibility at all times and places to compensate for youthful indiscretion.

In pointing out that 1950 saw 93 young people of high school age and below killed in Maryland traffic with another 3,530 injured, Col. Munshower reminded drivers that the vicinities of schools and playgrounds as well as all residential districts were danger spots and that it was imperative to drive at slow speeds and be prepared for a sudden stop.

Col. Munshower had a word of praise for the several thousand youths composing school-boy patrols who will give freely of their time and efforts to protect their schoolmates, both on foot and in buses.

Col. E. F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, warns motorists to "expect the unexpected from children."

Col. Munshower said in addition to such travel as private automobiles, bicycles and walking, 1,299 school buses will be operated in Maryland.

"Motorists who ignore the law requiring a full stop when meeting or overtaking a bus while it is loading or unloading risk an arrest for reckless driving," he said. He added that motorists should assume more than their legal responsibility at all times and places to compensate for youthful indiscretion.

In pointing out that 1950 saw 93 young people of high school age and below killed in Maryland traffic with another 3,530 injured, Col. Munshower reminded drivers that the vicinities of schools and playgrounds as well as all residential districts were danger spots and that it was imperative to drive at slow speeds and be prepared for a sudden stop.

Col. Munshower had a word of praise for the several thousand youths composing school-boy patrols who will give freely of their time and efforts to protect their schoolmates, both on foot and in buses.

Pre-School Dental Check-Up Urged By Health Department

As part of the program to prepare children for the new school term starting next month and to reduce absenteeism after classes start, the Allegany County Health Department yesterday urged a dental check-up for children.

The department also called attention to a statement by Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of the Division of Dental Health for the State Health Department. Dr. Leonard declared: "Regular attendance is essential to progress in school. Accordingly, prevention of conditions known to necessitate absence from school is always desirable.

"Decaying teeth, probably the most prevalent human disorder, are known to be a tremendous factor in school absenteeism. Since aching teeth are not conducive to study, or to participation in other school activities, they may seriously affect the degree of success that a child can attain in classroom work. Children should enter school each fall with the assurance that they have no defective teeth or other mouth ailments, and periodic rechecking during the academic year is also advisable in order to prevent needless pain and absence from school.

"But dental defects are not limited to school children. Preschool boys and girls, even those as young as two or three years of age, are often the victims of tooth decay. Nor does completion of schooling end the incidence of mouth ailments. Throughout life the teeth and mouth need continuing consideration and care in order to maintain good oral health.

"Regular visits to the family dentist should be supplemented by proper home care of the teeth. Adequate care includes the thorough cleansing of the teeth at least twice daily, one of these brushings to be carried out just before going to bed at night. Foods known to be factors in producing decay, especially excessive quantities of sweets, should most certainly be avoided."

Panel Will Recommend Pay Ceilings For Entertainers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has set up a three-man committee to recommend pay ceilings for such entertainment figures as Hopalong Cassidy, Clark Gable and Dagmar.

The panel is to confer privately with people in the business and talent ends of the movies, radio, television and stage, and come up with a report to the Salary Stabilization Board.

Up to now that agency has generally permitted show business to stick to normal pay practices, but board approval is required for unusually high salary increases.

Applications to the board are kept secret but it is known that Dagmar, TV's statuesque blonde, has asked an okay for a sizable pay boost.

The committee is supposed to suggest rules to prevent fancy salary increases which might tend to be inflationary. Named as chairman was Roy Hendrickson, former Agriculture Department official. Other members are two former motion picture officials, Philip F. Siff, and Neal Agnew.

The salary board has another committee drafting rules for salaries paid baseball, football and other professional sports players. Still another group is drafting standards for bonus payments of company stock.

Generally speaking, the salary board has jurisdiction over the professional and executive type of employes, while the Wage Stabilization Board makes wage limits for the bulk of the nation's workers.

Lightning Proves Fast On The Draw

MANDAN, N. D., Aug. 30 (AP) — Lightning fast on the draw?

Yes, says Jack Berger, Mandan bartender. He had just rung up a sale today when a bolt struck the register.

Coins were scattered in all directions. Berger was knocked down but unhurt, the cash register unharmed. Sole casualty was a telephone knocked out of order.

Town Marshal Jailed On Contempt Charge

SEYMOUR, Mo., Aug. 30 (AP) — The law in Seymour is in jail.

Its City Marshal, James H. Hamblin is serving a 10-day contempt of court sentence in the Webster County jail at Marshfield. It was imposed by Police Judge J. S. Holmquist.

Asked by newsmen about the specific charge against Hamblin, Judge Holmquist replied:

"Just general. He's in contempt of court all the time."

By way of further explanation, the judge said the marshal "abused me, tried to whip me and even let fellows out of jail and never let them come before me."

Tempting Swedish Dishes

We all like to hear about how other peoples live, what they do and, of course, what they eat. It usually makes us want to pack up and go to see for ourselves. But if you can't get away just now, you can at least enjoy at home some of the good foods they serve in Europe.

At this time of the year, nothing could be more tempting than a Smorgasbord set-up the way they do it in Sweden. In fact, if you try our recipes for today, you will certainly want to sample more of this typical Swedish cooking over in Stockholm. That city, by the way, is well-worth a visit. It is an interesting mixture of the old and new Sweden. Modern apartments and public buildings such as the City Hall contrast with the gabled houses, medieval churches and the magnificent Royal Palace in the old city; many boats, small sailing craft and ocean-going ships jostle one another in harbors and inlets. All these are mirrored in the ever-present sea which virtually surrounds and extends into the heart of the city.

When setting up a real Smorgasbord, remember that it should be eaten in courses like any other meal; that is, start with fish, continue through meats, egg dishes, vegetables and finish with cheese before serving dessert. Sprinkled throughout these courses are the "small hot dishes", which should only be eaten in very small portions. Of course, the Smorgasbord can be adapted to family meals as well as entertaining...you can cencentrate on few or even one delicious dish.

Herring is the star of the Smorgasbord. With this you might serve pickled cucumbers and one or more "little hot dishes." Several authentic Swedish recipes follow.

Herring Salad

2 5-ounce jars herring, diced or herring tidbits (in vinegar); 5 to 6 medium potatoes, peeled and boiled; 2 medium apples, peeled and diced; 1 medium onion, peeled and minced; 1 small dill pickle; Salt to taste; ½ teaspoon pepper; Vinegar or vinegar from pickled beets; 2 tblsp. sugar; Dill pickles; Parsley; Lettuce; Hard-boiled eggs.

Drain herring and reserve vinegar. Mix herring, potatoes, apples, pickle and onion, and toss thoroughly. Add the reserved vinegar, salt, pepper and sugar. Add more vinegar and seasoning to taste, if needed. Pack into 1½-qt. greased mold and chill 1 hour or more. Unmold on large plate. Garnish top with dill pickles and parsley and surround with lettuce, sliced hard-cooked eggs, and sprigs of parsley. Serve with cold beet sauce. 8 to 10 servings.

Beet Sauce

½ pt. heavy cream; ¼ tsp. salt; 1 tblsp. sugar; ½ cup minced pickled beets; 1 tblsp. beet vinegar.

Jansons Temptation

6-10 anchovies; 4-5 average size raw potatoes; 1-2 yellow onions; 2-4 tblsp. butter; 1½-2 cups cream.

Clean and bone anchovies. Peel and cut potatoes in strips. Peel and slice onions. Grease a shallow baking dish. Put in one layer of potatoes, the onions, then anchovies and the remaining potatoes. Dot with butter and sprinkle with anchovy sauce. Place in medium oven. After 10 minutes pour on a little of the cream and return to oven. After another 10 minutes pour on rest of the cream. Return to oven until ready (45-60 min. in all). 4 to 6 servings.

Inglada Gurkor

(Pickled Cucumbers)

2 to 3 cucumbers; 1 cup sugar; 1 to 1½ cups vinegar; pinch of salt and pepper; Garnish: 1 to 2 tblsp. finely chopped parsley.

Peel cucumbers and slice thinly. Make a brine of sugar,vinegar, and condiments and stir until sugar melts. Pour it over the cucumbers and chill in refrigerator a couple of hours before serving. Then sprinkle generously with the parsley and serve crisp and cold.

Filled Bacon Rolls

Filling can be anchovies, shrimp, calf or chicken liver, pieces of frankfurters or mushrooms, cream cheese, mussels or smoked oysters.

Put filling on bacon strip. Season to taste with salt, pepper and grated onions. Roll bacon and hold together with a toothpick. Grill, broil or fry in sizzling fat until crisp. Change toothpicks for new ones and arrange on large grapefruit, orange, melon or red cabbage, or simply pile in serving dish. Small crisp-fried pieces of white bread could be put on the same picks. Serve immediately.

Franks And Mushrooms

6 frankfurters; 4 tomatoes; butter; grated cheese.

Cut up franks in small slices, (fry, grill or broil slightly). Arrange in greased baking dish. Make a mushroom cream sauce and pour over the franks. Top with sliced tomatoes, sprinkle the dish with grated cheese and dot with butter. Grill 15-20 minutes until the top is golden brown. Serve immediately.

Anchovy Appetizer

Anchovies; raw yellow onion; 1 or 2 hard-cooked eggs; butter, seasoning.

Chop ingredients and stir together with utter in frying pan for a few minutes. Serve warm or hot with bread and butter.

Under weak moonlight, the human eye can distinguish a black automobile almost as easily as it can pick out a white one. Reason is that in such lighting, when there is only 1-1000th of a footcandle of light, the human eye loses its only color discrimination, and sees only silhouettes.

Tempting Swedish Dishes

We all like to hear about how other peoples live, what they do and, of course, what they eat. It usually makes us want to pack up and go to see for ourselves. But if you can't get away just now, you can at least enjoy at home some of the good foods they serve in Europe.

At this time of the year, nothing could be more tempting than a Smorgasbord set-up the way they do it in Sweden. In fact, if you try our recipes for today, you will certainly want to sample more of this typical Swedish cooking over in Stockholm. That city, by the way, is well-worth a visit. It is an interesting mixture of the old and new Sweden. Modern apartments and public buildings such as the City Hall contrast with the gabled houses, medieval churches and the magnificent Royal Palace in the old city; many boats, small sailing craft and ocean-going ships jostle one another in harbors and inlets. All these are mirrored in the ever-present sea which virtually surrounds and extends into the heart of the city.

When setting up a real Smorgasbord, remember that it should be eaten in courses like any other meal; that is, start with fish, continue through meats, egg dishes, vegetables and finish with cheese before serving dessert. Sprinkled throughout these courses are the "small hot dishes", which should only be eaten in very small portions. Of course, the Smorgasbord can be adapted to family meals as well as entertaining...you can cencentrate on few or even one delicious dish.

Herring is the star of the Smorgasbord. With this you might serve pickled cucumbers and one or more "little hot dishes." Several authentic Swedish recipes follow.

Herring Salad

2 5-ounce jars herring, diced or herring tidbits (in vinegar); 5 to 6 medium potatoes, peeled and boiled; 2 medium apples, peeled and diced; 1 medium onion, peeled and minced; 1 small dill pickle; Salt to taste; ½ teaspoon pepper; Vinegar or vinegar from pickled beets; 2 tblsp. sugar; Dill pickles; Parsley; Lettuce; Hard-boiled eggs.

Drain herring and reserve vinegar. Mix herring, potatoes, apples, pickle and onion, and toss thoroughly. Add the reserved vinegar, salt, pepper and sugar. Add more vinegar and seasoning to taste, if needed. Pack into 1½-qt. greased mold and chill 1 hour or more. Unmold on large plate. Garnish top with dill pickles and parsley and surround with lettuce, sliced hard-cooked eggs, and sprigs of parsley. Serve with cold beet sauce. 8 to 10 servings.

Beet Sauce

½ pt. heavy cream; ¼ tsp. salt; 1 tblsp. sugar; ½ cup minced pickled beets; 1 tblsp. beet vinegar.

Jansons Temptation

6-10 anchovies; 4-5 average size raw potatoes; 1-2 yellow onions; 2-4 tblsp. butter; 1½-2 cups cream.

Clean and bone anchovies. Peel and cut potatoes in strips. Peel and slice onions. Grease a shallow baking dish. Put in one layer of potatoes, the onions, then anchovies and the remaining potatoes. Dot with butter and sprinkle with anchovy sauce. Place in medium oven. After 10 minutes pour on a little of the cream and return to oven. After another 10 minutes pour on rest of the cream. Return to oven until ready (45-60 min. in all). 4 to 6 servings.

Inglada Gurkor

(Pickled Cucumbers)

2 to 3 cucumbers; 1 cup sugar; 1 to 1½ cups vinegar; pinch of salt and pepper; Garnish: 1 to 2 tblsp. finely chopped parsley.

Peel cucumbers and slice thinly. Make a brine of sugar,vinegar, and condiments and stir until sugar melts. Pour it over the cucumbers and chill in refrigerator a couple of hours before serving. Then sprinkle generously with the parsley and serve crisp and cold.

Filled Bacon Rolls

Filling can be anchovies, shrimp, calf or chicken liver, pieces of frankfurters or mushrooms, cream cheese, mussels or smoked oysters.

Put filling on bacon strip. Season to taste with salt, pepper and grated onions. Roll bacon and hold together with a toothpick. Grill, broil or fry in sizzling fat until crisp. Change toothpicks for new ones and arrange on large grapefruit, orange, melon or red cabbage, or simply pile in serving dish. Small crisp-fried pieces of white bread could be put on the same picks. Serve immediately.

Franks And Mushrooms

6 frankfurters; 4 tomatoes; butter; grated cheese.

Cut up franks in small slices, (fry, grill or broil slightly). Arrange in greased baking dish. Make a mushroom cream sauce and pour over the franks. Top with sliced tomatoes, sprinkle the dish with grated cheese and dot with butter. Grill 15-20 minutes until the top is golden brown. Serve immediately.

Anchovy Appetizer

Anchovies; raw yellow onion; 1 or 2 hard-cooked eggs; butter, seasoning.

Chop ingredients and stir together with utter in frying pan for a few minutes. Serve warm or hot with bread and butter.

Under weak moonlight, the human eye can distinguish a black automobile almost as easily as it can pick out a white one. Reason is that in such lighting, when there is only 1-1000th of a footcandle of light, the human eye loses its only color discrimination, and sees only silhouettes.

Sandwich Ideas To Go With Call Of School Bell

September! With school doors opening again it means to many mothers the beginning of months of planning and preparing lunch box meals—meals which must be well rounded to satisfy children's hearty appetites and provide them with the nutrients needed for busy days.

The Earl of Sandwich probably never dreamed of the popularity and wide use of his invention; however, today sandwiches are the basic food of most lunch boxes. With five days a week of planning, the homemaker must tax her repertoire in order to introduce a variety of sandwich fillings.

Dinner might well be planned with school lunches in mind. Left-over roast is perfect for slicing, grinding or chopping for various fillings. For instance, chopped roast pork may be combined with chopped apple and seasoned with a suggestion of ginger. This combination, as most others, is moistened with mayonnaise. Another nutrition-packed filling is made of ground cooked liver with a bit of crisp chopped bacon and minced onion. Baked beans, also from dinner, may be mashed and added to bacon for a happy surprise in the lunch box.

Ready-to-serve Braunschweiger or frankfurters may be chopped and combined with hard-cooked egg, minced onion and prepared mustard. To be kept in mind for breaking monotony are double or triple deck sandwiches. One triple combination is made up of a layer each of crisp bacon, jelly and cream cheese.

Manhattan island was discovered by Henry Hudson on Sept. 11, 1609.

Tomato Tempter

Scalloped tomatoes make a really appetizing dish for summer meals and a bit different way of using the plentiful garden product. You may use 6 fresh, skinned tomatoes, or 1 quart of cooked and drained tomatoes, depending on which you have on hand. Place a layer of tomato in a greased baking dish, add salt and pepper and then a thin layer of bread crumbs. Add butter cut into tiny pieces and put on the top of the crumbs. Now add another layer of tomato and proceed until the materials are used. Bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven (350-400F.) and serve in the baking dish. To give this dish the perfect touch, grated cheese may be added to each layer, or used as a delicious topping for the final layer.

Western Buffet Salad

Salad making may be considered an art by some authorities—but it certainly is an art that should be mastered by all smart cooks. If you're entertaining try this tempting platter of fresh fruits and let each person help himself. Served at a bridge luncheon or at a patio dinner, this salad is guaranteed to bring lots of compliments and can be made by even the most amateur salad artist. California Velencia oranges form the basis of this refreshing salad plate—they combine beautifully in color and flavor with the other fruits, forming a delightful dish. To make this salad, peel six or seven flavorful oranges—slice each orange crosswise, forming cart-wheel-like slices, arrange a row of these slices diagonally across a large square platter—then arrange another row from the other two corners, having the two lines of orange slices cross in the center. This will form a large X of oranges on the platter. Within each of the vacant sections, place one other kind of fresh fruit. For instance, we used tangy fresh grapefruit segments, berries for a contrast in color, mellow rich bananas, and attractive melon balls in various parts of the plate. Add an edging of endive or parsley and you'll have a stunning buffet fruit plate.

Toffee Squares

- ¾ cup lard
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 8 to 12 ounces chocolate chips
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Cream lard and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and blend. Add vanilla. Sift flour and salt together and add, mixing thoroughly. Spread batter on ungreased pan 10 x 15 inches. Bake in a moderately hot oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes. Top with chocolate chips, melt in oven 5 minutes. Spread chocolate, sprinkle with nuts. Cut while warm. Yield: 40 cookies.

Sandwich Ideas To Go With Call Of School Bell

September! With school doors opening again it means to many mothers the beginning of months of planning and preparing lunch box meals—meals which must be well rounded to satisfy children's hearty appetites and provide them with the nutrients needed for busy days.

The Earl of Sandwich probably never dreamed of the popularity and wide use of his invention; however, today sandwiches are the basic food of most lunch boxes. With five days a week of planning, the homemaker must tax her repertoire in order to introduce a variety of sandwich fillings.

Dinner might well be planned with school lunches in mind. Left-over roast is perfect for slicing, grinding or chopping for various fillings. For instance, chopped roast pork may be combined with chopped apple and seasoned with a suggestion of ginger. This combination, as most others, is moistened with mayonnaise. Another nutrition-packed filling is made of ground cooked liver with a bit of crisp chopped bacon and minced onion. Baked beans, also from dinner, may be mashed and added to bacon for a happy surprise in the lunch box.

Ready-to-serve Braunschweiger or frankfurters may be chopped and combined with hard-cooked egg, minced onion and prepared mustard. To be kept in mind for breaking monotony are double or triple deck sandwiches. One triple combination is made up of a layer each of crisp bacon, jelly and cream cheese.

Tomato Tempter

Scalloped tomatoes make a really appetizing dish for summer meals and a bit different way of using the plentiful garden product. You may use 6 fresh, skinned tomatoes, or 1 quart of cooked and drained tomatoes, depending on which you have on hand. Place a layer of tomato in a greased baking dish, add salt and pepper and then a thin layer of bread crumbs. Add butter cut into tiny pieces and put on the top of the crumbs. Now add another layer of tomato and proceed until the materials are used. Bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven (350-400F.) and serve in the baking dish. To give this dish the perfect touch, grated cheese may be added to each layer, or used as a delicious topping for the final layer.

Western Buffet Salad

Salad making may be considered an art by some authorities—but it certainly is an art that should be mastered by all smart cooks. If you're entertaining try this tempting platter of fresh fruits and let each person help himself. Served at a bridge luncheon or at a patio dinner, this salad is guaranteed to bring lots of compliments and can be made by even the most amateur salad artist. California Velencia oranges form the basis of this refreshing salad plate—they combine beautifully in color and flavor with the other fruits, forming a delightful dish. To make this salad, peel six or seven flavorful oranges—slice each orange crosswise, forming cart-wheel-like slices, arrange a row of these slices diagonally across a large square platter—then arrange another row from the other two corners, having the two lines of orange slices cross in the center. This will form a large X of oranges on the platter. Within each of the vacant sections, place one other kind of fresh fruit. For instance, we used tangy fresh grapefruit segments, berries for a contrast in color, mellow rich bananas, and attractive melon balls in various parts of the plate. Add an edging of endive or parsley and you'll have a stunning buffet fruit plate.

Toffee Squares

- ¾ cup lard
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 8 to 12 ounces chocolate chips
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Cream lard and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and blend. Add vanilla. Sift flour and salt together and add, mixing thoroughly. Spread batter on ungreased pan 10 x 15 inches. Bake in a moderately hot oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes. Top with chocolate chips, melt in oven 5 minutes. Spread chocolate, sprinkle with nuts. Cut while warm. Yield: 40 cookies.

Summer Special Barbecue Chicken Cranberry Sauce

Barbecued chicken and cranberry sauce for dinner tonight! A wonderful menu! Chicken and cranberry sauce are just about the best buys on the market today. As far as the family's concerned, foods don't come any better.

But, you say, we don't have a barbecue pit. Well, neither do we but we barbecue chicken right in the kitchen . . . carry it picnic style to the front porch and have ourselves a barbecue dinner in the easiest manner. There's cranberry sauce to go with the chicken course, a spicy sauce which gives the meal some zip. There's a crispy tossed vegetable salad with the family's dressing served on the side. Some chips, buttered rolls, iced tea, and chilled fruit for dessert. This is how we fix our barbecued chicken spiced cranberry sauce . . .

Barbecued Chicken . . . Oven Style

1 (3 to 3½ pound) frying chicken, cut in pieces for serving
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
½ cup melted butter or margarine
¼ cup lemon juice
2 teaspoons tomato paste
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
Dash of garlic powder (optional)

Sprinkle chicken with monosodium glutamate. Let stand 15 to 20 minutes. Mix remaining ingredients for sauce.

Dip pieces of chicken in sauce and arrange in heated shallow baking pan. Bake, uncovered, in moderately hot oven (400° F.) for an hour or until tender.

Serve with . . .

Cranberry Grape Relish

With fork, break up contents of 1 can chilled whole cranberry sauce. Add 1 teaspooon grated orange rind and ½ cup seedless grapes, cut in half.

Cranberry Pear Relish

1 pound can whole cranberry sauce
1 or 2 fresh pears, cored, peeled, and diced
½ lemon, put through food chopper rind and all
1 teaspoon powdered ginger

Cranberry Grapefruit Salad

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 pound can jellied cranberry sauce
3 grapefruit, sectioned
¾ cup almonds, halved

Place gelatine in custard cup. Add cold water. Let stand 2 minutes. Place custard cup in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Crush cranberry sauce with a fork. Add dissolved gelatine. Beat with a fork or rotary beater until smooth. Arrange some grapefruit sections and almonds on bottom of mold in desired manner. Cover with some of the cranberry gelatine. Chill until set. Repeat with layers of almonds, grapefruit, and gelatine until all are used. Chill until mold is thoroughly set. Serve on lettuce with dressing. Fewer almonds may be used, if desired.

Here's "Family Reunion" Loaf For Labor Day

With the Labor Day holiday, picnic baskets will be filled for one final time before being put away for the winter. For many, Labor Day may mean a backyard picnic. In any event, this "Family Reunion" ham loaf will fit the role.

Serve it hot if it's to be carried from the kitchen range to the backyard—cold if it's to be packed in the picnic basket. In the latter case, serve with potato chips and mixed vegetable salad. If on the lawn, you may want to bake the meat mixture in a ring and serve centered with a hot vegetable. In both cases, include French bread and a dessert of plump fresh peaches and chocolate fudge cake.

Family Reunion Ham Loaf

3 pounds ground smoked ham; 3 pounds ground fresh pork; 3 eggs; 1 large can evaporated milk; 1 can condensed tomato soup; 1 cup cracker crumbs.

Combine all ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Pack into two 5x9 inch loaf pans and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for two hours. Serve hot or cold.

TEEN-TEMPTERS — To all the teen-agers and "um-teen-agers" going on a picnic, we suggest this novel dessert which is not only taste-tempting and easy to pack, but is also very quick and easy to make. The cake itself is a simple, inexpensive one-egg recipe, the frosting can be mixed in a jiffy and is broiled right on the cake. The result is delightful combination of a light fluffy orange spice cake with a crunchy broiled ambrosia topping.

Summer Special Barbecue Chicken Cranberry Sauce

Barbecued chicken and cranberry sauce for dinner tonight! A wonderful menu! Chicken and cranberry sauce are just about the best buys on the market today. As far as the family's concerned, foods don't come any better.

But, you say, we don't have a barbecue pit. Well, neither do we but we barbecue chicken right in the kitchen . . . carry it picnic style to the front porch and have ourselves a barbecue dinner in the easiest manner. There's cranberry sauce to go with the chicken course, a spicy sauce which gives the meal some zip. There's a crispy tossed vegetable salad with the family's dressing served on the side. Some chips, buttered rolls, iced tea, and chilled fruit for dessert. This is how we fix our barbecued chicken spiced cranberry sauce . . .

Barbecued Chicken . . . Oven Style

1 (3 to 3½ pound) frying chicken, cut in pieces for serving
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
½ cup melted butter or margarine
¼ cup lemon juice
2 teaspoons tomato paste
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
Dash of garlic powder (optional)

Dip pieces of chicken in sauce and arrange in heated shallow baking pan. Bake, uncovered, in moderately hot oven (400° F.) for an hour or until tender.

Serve with . . .

Cranberry Grape Relish

With fork, break up contents of 1 can chilled whole cranberry sauce. Add 1 teaspooon grated orange rind and ½ cup seedless grapes, cut in half.

Cranberry Pear Relish

1 pound can whole cranberry sauce
1 or 2 fresh pears, cored, peeled, and diced
½ lemon, put through food chopper rind and all
1 teaspoon powdered ginger

Cranberry Grapefruit Salad

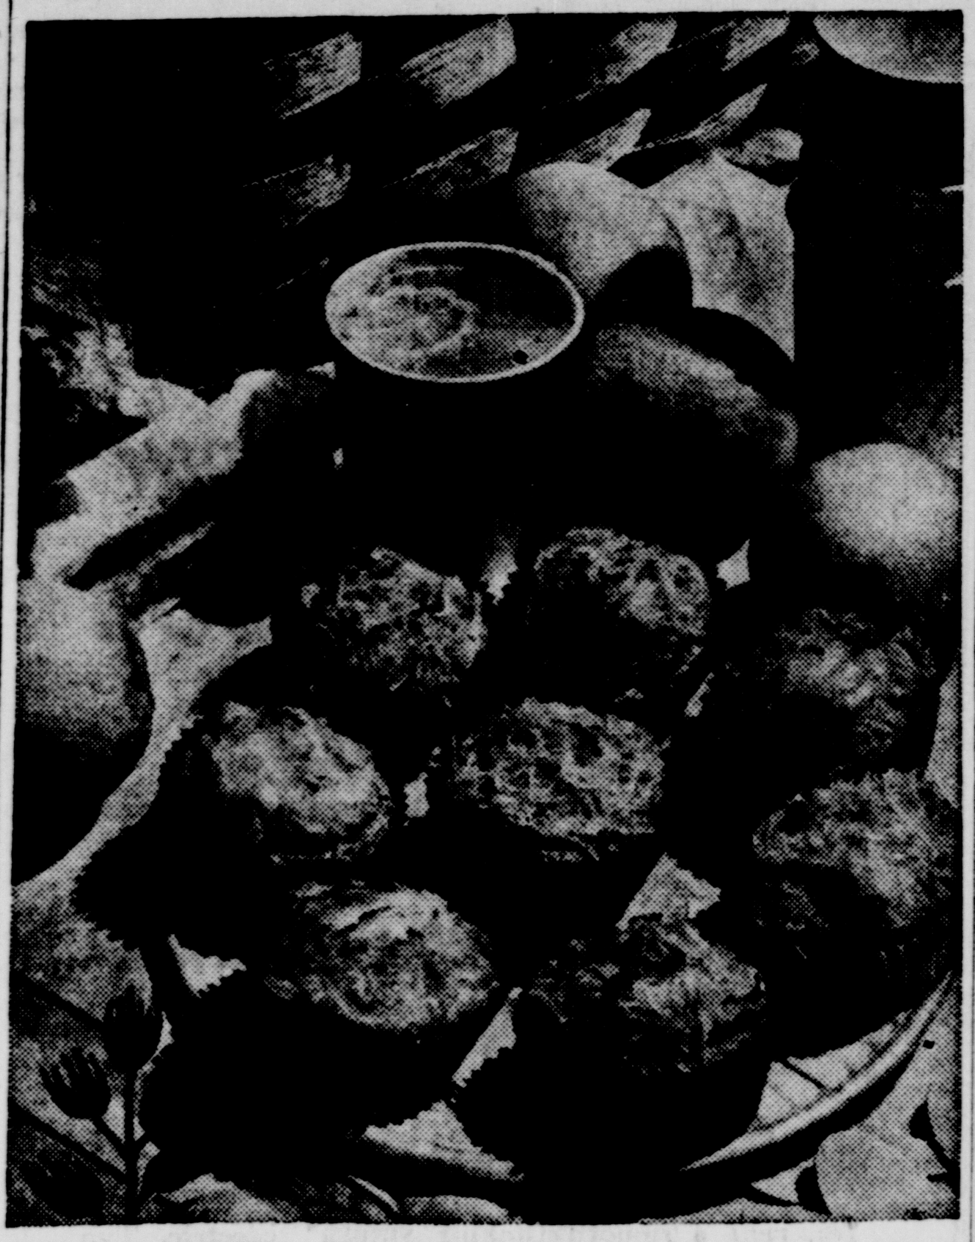
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 pound can jellied cranberry sauce
3 grapefruit, sectioned
¾ cup almonds, halved

Place gelatine in custard cup. Add cold water. Let stand 2 minutes. Place custard cup in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Crush cranberry sauce with a fork. Add dissolved gelatine. Beat with a fork or rotary beater until smooth. Arrange some grapefruit sections and almonds on bottom of mold in desired manner. Cover with some of the cranberry gelatine. Chill until set. Repeat with layers of almonds, grapefruit, and gelatine until all are used. Chill until mold is thoroughly set. Serve on lettuce with dressing. Fewer almonds may be used, if desired.



TEEN-TEMPTERS — To all the teen-agers and "um-teen-agers" going on a picnic, we suggest this novel dessert which is not only taste-tempting and easy to pack, but is also very quick and easy to make. The cake itself is a simple, inexpensive one-egg recipe, the frosting can be mixed in a jiffy and is broiled right on the cake. The result is delightful combination of a light fluffy orange spice cake with a crunchy broiled ambrosia topping.

Here's "Family Reunion" Loaf For Labor Day

With the Labor Day holiday, picnic baskets will be filled for one final time before being put away for the winter. For many, Labor Day may mean a backyard picnic. In any event, this "Family Reunion" ham loaf will fit the role.

Serve it hot if it's to be carried from the kitchen range to the backyard—cold if it's to be packed in the picnic basket. In the latter case, serve with potato chips and mixed vegetable salad. If on the lawn, you may want to bake the meat mixture in a ring and serve centered with a hot vegetable. In both cases, include French bread and a dessert of plump fresh peaches and chocolate fudge cake.

Family Reunion Ham Loaf

3 pounds ground smoked ham; 3 pounds ground fresh pork; 3 eggs; 1 large can evaporated milk; 1 can condensed tomato soup; 1 cup cracker crumbs.

Combine all ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Pack into two 5x9 inch loaf pans and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for two hours. Serve hot or cold.

Make Plans Now For Ripe Peach Jamboree

Here is a jam that you can bring out when the boss comes to dinner, with confidence that he will enjoy it. This jam is so easy to make there is no need to save it for special occasions. Serve it with whole wheat muffins for a treat that is bound to please.

PEACH WALNUT JAM

4 level cups diced Freestone peaches
1 package powdered pectin
6 cups sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon
½ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup chopped maraschino cherries.

Measure sugar in a dish to be added later.

All the measured sugar and bring to a full rolling boil. Boil for four minutes. Remove from heat and stir and skim by turns for five minutes. Pour into glasses which have been washed in hot soapy water, rinsed and sterilized. Seal. Makes about 10 glasses.

History Of State House Is Illustrated In New Booklet

A new brochure, Maryland's Historic State House, has been published by the Maryland Department of Information at Annapolis. This descriptive booklet contains a detailed history of the building and was written by Dr. Morris L. Radoff, state archivist.

Among the very fine prints, which make this booklet one to be treasured by every Marylander, are: the Old Senate Chamber where Washington resigned his commission to the Centinental Congress of the United States; portraits of Charles Carroll, William Stone, William Paca and Samuel Chase, the four Maryland signers of the Declaration of Independence; the houses of the Legislature; the Executive Reception Room; an inside view of the Dome; and, an exterior view of the oldest State Capitol in the nation in use today.

The last pages of the new publication contain a history and picture of the Old Treasury Building, which stands on State Circle, next to the Capitol. It is the oldest public building in Maryland and one of the oldest in the nation. This building was restored in 1949-50, which from 1735 housed many departments of State Government.

This booklet is available free of charge at the Maryland Department of Information, State Office Building, Box 706, Annapolis, Maryland.

Lack Of Rain Cuts Hampshire Peach Production By One-Third

The peach crop in the nearby Hampshire County, W. Va., fruit belt has been cut one-third to one-fourth by lack of rain during the late development state of the fruit.

R. L. Sumner, manager of the Mountain Fruit Sales, Inc., a large cooperative with headquarters in Romney, said that the early apple crop will also suffer unless rain does not fall soon. The size of peaches is smaller this year, he said.

The drought has cut into area food production and R. H. McHenry said that corn especially needs moisture.

Pasture land is drying up along with the general vegetable crops, but McHenry asserts that a heavy rain in a few days would work wonders.

In peach growing, the dry weather has had some beneficial effects. Sumner reported the lack of rain has resulted in remarkable lasting qualities for the fruit being marketed.

Also brown rot, which will cut a peach crop considerably if aided by wet weather, has been retarded greatly.

Sumner said the million-dollar peach crop from Hampshire County is being marketed in the area formerly served by the Illinois and Michigan orchards.

Peach trees in the Chicago trading section were badly damaged by cold weather last winter and this summer there are not enough peaches for a commercial crop.

The Elbertas are moving into the markets with prices holding up from $2.50 to $2.75 per bushel for U. S. No. 1 varieties. Smaller peaches are bringing a dollar less, Sumner added.

The apple production this year is expected to be high, but Sumner said rain is needed to fill out the fruit.

Police Ball Work Begins

Although the 29th annual ball of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association is four months away, work began yesterday.

Austin L. Warnick, chauffeur at Engine Company No. 3, West Side, is general chairman of the event scheduled December 23 in the State Armory.

He announced that Tommy Tucker and his nationally known orchestra will furnish the music.

Capt. Vincent Wegman, who is in charge of Central Fire Station, will handle the program and publicity. Soliciting for the yearbook advertisements will begin next Tuesday.

The program-yearbook will contain a history of the association, picture of the Police and Fire departments and their officials.

Other committees on decorations and ticket sales will be named later, Warnick announced. The dance is held annually to provide funds for the sick, accident and death benefit fund of the association.

Sumner said the million-dollar peach crop from Hampshire County is being marketed in the area formerly served by the Illinois and Michigan orchards.

Peach trees in the Chicago trading section were badly damaged by cold weather last winter and this summer there are not enough peaches for a commercial crop.

The Elbertas are moving into the markets with prices holding up from $2.50 to $2.75 per bushel for U. S. No. 1 varieties. Smaller peaches are bringing a dollar less, Sumner added.

The apple production this year is expected to be high, but Sumner said rain is needed to fill out the fruit.

Police Ball Work Begins

Although the 29th annual ball of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association is four months away, work began yesterday.

Austin L. Warnick, chauffeur at Engine Company No. 3, West Side, is general chairman of the event scheduled December 23 in the State Armory.

He announced that Tommy Tucker and his nationally known orchestra will furnish the music.

Capt. Vincent Wegman, who is in charge of Central Fire Station, will handle the program and publicity. Soliciting for the yearbook advertisements will begin next Tuesday.

The program-yearbook will contain a history of the association, picture of the Police and Fire departments and their officials.

Other committees on decorations and ticket sales will be named later, Warnick announced. The dance is held annually to provide funds for the sick, accident and death benefit fund of the association.

Held In Vandalism

City Police are holding Andrew Jackson, 506 Necessity Street, for allegedly destroying property at the Blue Ridge Bus Terminal on North Mechanic Street.

Authorities said Jackson and three other suspects being sought tore a comb vending machine from the wall in a lavatory. The prisoner was nabbed Wednesday night.

State Fair Plans Cattle Judging

Livestock and dairy judging contests will be a big part of the 4-H activities at Timonium State Fair, according to Mylo S. Downey, state boys club leader. Both of the contests will be held on Saturday, September 1, with the dairy cattle contest getting under way at 7 a. m. and the livestock judging event beginning at 9 a. m.

The eight high individuals in the State Contest will be given further training and will receive free trips to represent Maryland in interstate and National contests. Small cash prizes will go to the 15 high individuals in the judging of each of the four major breeds, with $200 in all being awarded.

In 1950 the top four individuals in this contest went on to win the national championship at Waterloo, Ia. Then in June of this year the team members embarked on a trip to the international dairy judging contests in England. They trained for the contest in England and Scotland and after winning the contest on July 4 took a sightseeing trip through part of Europe.

Fifteen cash prizes will also be awarded in the beef cattle, swine, and sheep divisions of the livestock contest.

The eight highest scoring individuals in all divisions of the contest will be selected to represent Maryland at the International Livestock Judging Contest at Chicago and at the Atlantic Rural Exposition in Richmond, Va.

The Mary Hildabridle Missionary Society of St. John's Lutheran Church will have a family picnic in Grove 1, Constitution Park at 6 p. m. today. A meeting will follow supper.

Allegany Girls 4-H Trail will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in the home demonstration agent's office.

A cabinet meeting of the Sub-District MYF will be held September 4 at 7:30 p. m., in Central YMCA. All local MYF presidents and councilors are urged to be present.

The Miller family reunion will be held Sunday at Fairview Christian Church, Bedford county, Pa. It is to be an all-day outing. All are to bring picnic lunches.

Today Is Deadline For Tax Discounts

Today is the last day on which Allegany County residents can receive 3 per cent discounts on state and county real estate taxes and as a result the three tax collectors in the county are expecting a busy day.

Ernest B. Treat, collector in the Cumberland area, will have his office at the Court House open from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. today to receive payments. Mailed payments postmarked before midnight tonight also will receive the discount.

Beginning tomorrow, September 1, one-half per cent interest will be added on county taxes. The interest will be required on state taxes beginning October 1.

10,000 In State May Lose Draft Deferment

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30 (AP)—Maryland Selective Headquarters estimated today that more than 10,000 men in the state probably will lose their deferments when new draft regulations take effect.

All that is holding them back is President Truman's signature on the new Universal Military Training and Service Act.

The new act provides for induction of married, childless registrants and many others who previously flunked pre-induction physical or mental tests.

The act also will make another 6,500 youths available for induction by lowering the draft age from 19 to 18½ years.

There are now about 15,000 draft-age men in Maryland now holding dependency deferments, the Selective Service Headquarters said. Another 11,000 hold 4-F classifications as physically or mentally unacceptable.

12 Area Men To Be "Sworn In" Today

Twelve area men will be sworn into the armed forces today at Martinsburg, W. Va.

Albert F. Lemmert, 20, Mt. Savage, and James Richard Hotchkiss, 18, Mt. Savage, have enlisted in the Army, while 10 others have enlisted in the Air Force.

They are Alfred E. Kline, 20, RFD 4, city; Dennis E. Sneather, 21, Romney, W. Va.; Floris D. Raines, 21, Springfield, W. Va.; John J. Andrews, 20, 125 New Hampshire Avenue; Earl F. Twigg, Jr., 21, RFD 4, city; Herbert A. Veach, 20, Augusta, W. Va.; Adrain L. Malick, 21, Augusta, W. Va.; Edward Smith, 21, 7 Boone Street; Anthony Lewis Drees, 20, Frostburg; and George G. Davis, 21, Frostburg.

Plans Corn Roast

Duke Memorial Bible Class will hold its annual corn and wiener roast today at 6:30 p. m. in Grove No. 4, Constitution Park.

Games will be provided and 15-year-old Freddy Hillegas will entertain with his piano accordion, vocal selections and imitations. Freddy has received many prizes in contests at Thomas S. Post Playground in the past two years, and was runner-up in the Constitution Park amateur contest held this summer.

Red Bloc, West Europe Nations Reportedly Hold Trade Parleys

GENEVA, Switzerland, (AP)—The United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (ECA) said today Russia and her Comunist satellites have been holding secret talks with representatives of major West European countries concerning large-scale shipments westward of grain and timber.

The ECA said the talks arose out of a meeting of trade experts from East and West Europe, called by the commission's executive secretary, Gunnar Myrdal of Sweden. Delegates of 16 European countries officially studied the question of whether full-scale East-West trade conferences under ECE auspices had any chance of success.

(The trade conference concided with a Soviet propaganda campaign aimed at increasing East-West trade restrictions imposed in the cold war.)

Myrdal announced at the end of the nine-day meeting that the experts had failed to agree on holding an immediate full-scale conference to negotiate westward shipments of grain and timber from the Communist countries.

Myrdal said, however, that the meeting had led to some "modest but concrete" results, including the initiation of bilateral trade talks between the Communist countries and the major trading countries of Western Europe.

Myrdal disclosed that the Western representatives at the experts' meeting for the first time submitted specific lists of products which they were prepared to offer to the Communist countries as payment for their grain and timber.

Western reluctance to provide such lists has been one of the stumbling blocks of previous attempts by the commission to stimulate East-West trade.

The bilateral talks are to continue in the various capitals, Myrdal said, adding that he would remain in constant touch with the governments concerned and call a full-scale conference as soon as prospects appeared favorable.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30—(INS)—Robert Young, tops as an actor and one of the most respected men in Hollywood (for this he his piled up a lousy fortune), has a new and somewhat secret idea for his next independent.

Robert Young

His Cavalier Pictures Corporation, in which Bob is boss with Eugene Rodney, will make "1600 Pennsylvania Avenue," as the post office will tell you, the most famed address in the USA—the White House.

Outside of admitting the original story by Sidney Bidell and Frederic Frank is about the White House—there's considerable secrecy about the plot. But it isn't political propaganda—they promise.

The MGM lot was like a graveyard after news of Robert Walker's death. Bob was a mixed up boy and a very unhappy one. But to his co-workers he was a lovable, sensitive and appealing personality. Everyone, who knew him, liked him and worried about him.

Bob once said to me, it was a few months before he voluntarily entered Menninger's Clinic, "it's unfair to blame the shape I'm in on the breakup of my marriage to Jennifer Jones. I was born neurotic."

It was true. But, with a talent like him and so many things to interest him on his personal comeback, he might have whipped out of it. He will be missed and long remembered.

Already there are rumors that newcomer Richard Anderson, former messenger boy on the lot, will inherit Bob Walker's role opposite June Allyson in "Bowery To Bellevue."

Young Anderson scores a big hit with Janet Leigh in "Just This Once," but he has never had a break as big as a co-starring role.

Joanne Dru keeps working and the Treasury Department keeps picking up the big part of her salary checks. The hassie with the income tax department dates back to a property settlement of $31,000 which Dick Haymes promised to pay Joanne and never has.

She's taking it all like a good sport—glad she's keeping busy. Busy is the word, for no sooner does she finish playing Mrs. Dizzy Dean in "Bride Of St. Louis" that she starts as Dale Robertson's leading lady in "Return Of The Texan," both on the 20th lot.

Bette Davis gets her way and plays a bit role in Gary Merrill's movie, "Phone Call From A Stranger," after a lot of seesawing about whether a start of the caliber of Bette should emote in a minor part, even in her spouse's picture. Sentiment has won out and Bette is in.

In the past, Bing Crosby has walked through a scene of a Bob Hope picture and vice versa. But usually high-priced talent doesn't go in for bit scenes—their agents don't like it.

Barbara Stanwyck and Producer Armand Deutsch dining at a Strip cafe, their first date—but from the looks of them, hardly their last.

Mervyn Leroy is proud of the gold medal of merit given him by Gen. Vandenberg following the air wingding. L. B. Mayer received a similar honor.

There's quite a story behind Sheldon Leonard's getting the Bugsy Siegel-type role in "Young Man In A Hurry" with Russell Nype. When Leonard and Bugsy were kids in New York, they played on the same amateur handball team.

Charles Laughton, who became an American citizen last year, has made a record "What The American Way Of Life Means To Me," which should be heard by all Americans and translated into all languages for the world to hear.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Three Ring Circus

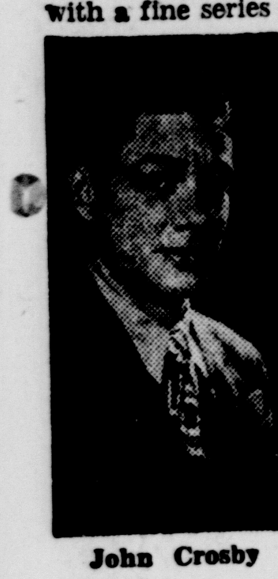
The Columbia Broadcasting System, which has not been exactly conspicuous for courage this past year, has at least partially attoned for some of its liberal hesitancies with a fine series of radio documentaries on crime, which, like the man-eating crocodile, is an entirely non-controversial subject.



John Crosby

In a series of five broadcasts titled "The Nation's Nightmare," the country's criminals were given a thorough going-over which may or may not result in any very drastic action.

This has been a great year for the exposure of crime. It has not yet been exactly sensational for the conviction of criminals. Perhaps next year, an imposing array of district attorneys with flashing smiles and telegenic personalities will spring up and send platoons of gamblers, narcotic salesmen and politicians to jail right in front of the leering cameras. Then the D. A.'s will all go on to become either governors or narators on "Gangbusters."

● — ● — ●

While I still harbor some doubts as to the motives of those who are deploring the practice of murder with such great vehemence, CBS deserves great acclaim for the elaborate research and thorough workmanship of its crime series. The most harrowing of them was "Crime on the Waterfront", a real shocker. CBS picked up a lot of their material for this one right on the New York and New Jersey water front and frequently faced physical danger in so doing. At one point a crowd of longshoremen threatened to throw a CBS truck in the river. While this particular broadcast was on the air, a man identifying himself as a longshoreman union official called the network and threatened all forms of retaliation.

That's no idle threat either. If you listened to the broadcast, you'd discover they play real rough along the waterfront. "The record of racketeering, exploitation, extortion, conspiracy and murder is so foul that it's hard to believe even when you have documented proof before you. But it's true, shamefully and unquestionably true," declared Bill Down, the narrator, at the outset of this program.

● — ● — ●

There follows a horrendous sightseeing tour around Manhattan Island. Each pier area and the men who control them, all men with long police records, was identified by name. "The waterfront from the Fulton Fish Market on the east to Pier 9 on the West Side, the famous tip of Manhattan Island, controlled by Socks Lanza, pal of Lucky Luciano, — 10 arrests, now out on parole after conviction for extortion."

The slave conditions of the longshoremen to their hiring boss has been told often before but it was retold in condensed, simple and dramatic form. The shipping interests as well as the unions have a marked preference for ex-convicts as hiring bosses because they keep the men in line. Once in power, the mobsters fleece the longshoremen through a dozen rackets—numbers, book-making, kick-backs, loan-sharking. The man who doesn't play along doesn't work.

But that is small potatoes next to the organized graft on the waterfront which costs the insurance companies $60,000,000 a year. As explained by one longshoreman: "Yer see, they work with the checker, the fellow who checks the cargo as it comes off the ship. The checker is supposed to get the longshoremen to put the valuable cargo in certain spots on the dock. Let's say they want to steal $500,000 worth of watches from Switzerland. The hirin' boss tells the checker and the checker has it put somewhere else. The checker never marks it as coming off the ship, see. It never did arrive in this country, so it's lost somewhere between here and France or wherever the ship came from."

Supporting the appalling conditions on the waterfront, CBS declared, were a united front of shipping interests, unions, influential businessmen and the police, a tough bunch to fight. As summed up by one longshoreman, no one wanted to monkey with the system because everyone profited by it.

● — ● — ●

"The big boys (both business and political) need the tough guys. They need the tough guys to keep me in line so I don't get too brazen, upset their way of runnin' things. They also need the police department to keep the tough guys in line. If the tough guys go too far the police cut 'em down and then they got the politicians to see that the police don't go too far and they've got the politicians 'cause — well, he kin use the musclemen to line up the vote for him. It's a three-ring circus. The legitimate guy is in the middle."

There is a lot more, all equally grim, and if you'd like to hear the full picture, CBS plans to rebroadcast it on September 27, 9:30 p. m. EDT.

Eight Local Men To Get Physicals

Eight local men will go to Martinsburg, W. Va. September 17, for pre-induction armed forces physical examinations, according to P. Emmett Fahey, clerk co-ordinator.

Six registrants have been called from Draft Board No. 28, and two were called from Board No. 29. The men will leave at 6:55 a. m. September 17.

"The Authority on Authorities"

REVERSE DEFENSE PLAN

AGAINST a suit contract, it is usually best for the defenders to cash their high honors as soon as possible, to prevent the declarer from getting discards which will enable him to ruff one or more of those threatening weapons. But just the reverse is the case when the defense is against a No Trump game. Then it is usually best for them to concentrate on developing some of their lower cards into trick-takers, as the high ones alone seldom are numerous enough to beat him.

♥ 6 3 2
♦ K Q 5 3
♣ Q 10 7 4 2

West:

East:

South:
♠ A 9 5 4
♦ A J 6
♣ 6 5 3

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | 1 NT | 2 ♣ |
| 2 NT | 3 ♥ | Pass | 3 ♠ |
| Pass | Pass | 3 NT | Dbl |

After noting that bidding, you would hardly need be told that the players were all more or less novices—especially East's failure to raise to 4-Spades. But you would be sure that East and West at least were the veriest of tyros if you watched the poor chaps' defense against the No Trump game.

West scored his club K and A, then led the 8 of his partner's hearts, East winning with both his K and A and then returning the spade 8. South won that with his A and then proceeded to make the contract. He followed that with the diamond A, J, K and Q, then led the heart 6 to the Q. This happened to squeeze West. South still held the spade 9-5 and club 6 and dummy the club Q-10-7. Remember that the club 10 finesse was marked by East's discards.

West at this stage held the spade K and club J-9-8, as he had to discard on the heart Q. If he tossed a club, three club tricks would end it. So he discarded the spade K, making the 9 good. That card, the club 6 to the 10 and the club Q then gave South his contract.

What punishment could have been meted out if West, after scoring the club K and seeing the dummy, had switched to the heart 8 and East put on his 10, or if West had shifted on the second trick to his spade K. Either of those plays would have been real defensive tactics against a No Trump game. But the scoring of the top cards at the outset constituted use of anti-suit defense when against a No Trump contract.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Radio And Television

Three Ring Circus

The Columbia Broadcasting System, which has not been exactly conspicuous for courage this past year, has at least partially attoned for some of its liberal hesitancies with a fine series of radio documentaries on crime, which, like the man-eating crocodile, is an entirely non-controversial subject. In a series of five broadcasts titled "The Nation's Nightmare," the country's criminals were given a thorough going-over which may or may not result in any very drastic action.

John Crosby

This has been a great year for the exposure of crime. It has not yet been exactly sensational for the conviction of criminals. Perhaps next year, an imposing array of district attorneys with flashing smiles and telegenic personalities will spring up and send platoons of gamblers, narcotic salesmen and politicians to jail right in front of the leering cameras. Then the D. A.'s will all go on to become either governors or narators on "Gangbusters."

●—●—●

While I still harbor some doubts as to the motives of those who are deploring the practice of murder with such great vehemence, CBS deserves great acclaim for the elaborate research and thorough workmanship of its crime series. The most harrowing of them was "Crime on the Waterfront", a real shocker. CBS picked up a lot of their material for this one right on the New York and New Jersey water front and frequently faced physical danger in so doing. At one point a crowd of longshoremen threatened to throw a CBS truck in the river. While this particular broadcast was on the air, a man identifying himself as a longshoreman union official called the network and threatened all forms of retaliation.

That's no idle threat either. If you listened to the broadcast, you'd discover they play real rough along the waterfront. "The record of racketeering, exploitation, extortion, conspiracy and murder is so foul that it's hard to believe even when you have documented proof before you. But it's true, shamefully and unquestionably true," declared Bill Down, the narrator, at the outset of this program.

There follows a horrendous sightseeing tour around Manhattan Island. Each pier area and the men who control them, all men with long police records, was identified by name. "The waterfront from the Fulton Fish Market on the east to Pier 9 on the West Side, the famous tip of Manhattan Island, controlled by Socks Lanza, pal of Lucky Luciano, — 10 arrests, now out on parole after conviction for extortion."

The slave conditions of the longshoremen to their hiring boss has been told often before but it was retold in condensed, simple and dramatic form. The shipping interests as well as the unions have a marked preference for ex-convicts as hiring bosses because they keep the men in line. Once in power, the mobsters fleece the longshoremen through a dozen rackets—numbers, book-making, kick-backs, loan-sharking. The man who doesn't play along doesn't work.

But that is small potatoes next to the organized graft on the waterfront which costs the insurance companies $60,000,000 a year. As explained by one longshoreman: "Yer see, they work with the checker, the fellow who checks the cargo as it comes off the ship. The checker is supposed to get the longshoremen to put the valuable cargo in certain spots on the dock. Let's say they want to steal $500,000 worth of watches from Switzerland. The hirin' boss tells the checker and the checker has it put somewhere else. The checker never marks it as coming off the ship, see. It never did arrive in this country, so it's lost somewhere between here and France or wherever the ship came from."

Supporting the appalling conditions on the waterfront, CBS declared, were a united front of shipping interests, unions, influential businessmen and the police, a tough bunch to fight. As summed up by one longshoreman, no one wanted to monkey with the system because everyone profited by it.

"The big boys (both business and political) need the tough guys. They need the tough guys to keep me in line so I don't get too brazen, upset their way of runnin' things. They also need the police department to keep the tough guys in line. If the tough guys go too far the police cut 'em down and then they got the politicians to see that the police don't go too far and they've got the politicians 'cause — well, he kin use the musclemen to line up the vote for him. It's a three-ring circus. The legitimate guy is in the middle."

There is a lot more, all equally grim, and if you'd like to hear the full picture, CBS plans to rebroadcast it on September 27, 9:30 p. m. EDT.

Eight Local Men To Get Physicals

Eight local men will go to Martinsburg, W. Va, September 17, for pre-induction armed forces physical examinations, according to P. Emmett Fahey, clerk co-ordinator.

Six registrants have been called from Draft Board No. 28, and two were called from Board No. 29. The men will leave at 6:55 a. m. September 17.

REVERSE DEFENSE PLAN

AGAINST a suit contract, it is usually best for the defenders to cash their high honors as soon as possible, to prevent the declarer from getting discards which will enable him to ruff one or more of those threatening weapons. But just the reverse is the case when the defense is against a No Trump game. Then it is usually best for them to concentrate on developing some of their lower cards into trick-takers, as the high ones alone seldom are numerous enough to beat him.

After noting that bidding, you would hardly need be told that the players were all more or less novices—especially East's failure to raise to 4-Spades. But you would be sure that East and West at least were the veriest of tyros if you watched the poor chaps' defense against the No Trump game.

West scored his club K and A, then led the 8 of his partner's hearts, East winning with both his K and A and then returning the spade 8. South won that with his A and then proceeded to make the contract. He followed that with the diamond A, J, K and Q, then led the heart 6 to the Q. This happened to squeeze West. South still held the spade 9-5 and club 6 and dummy the club Q-10-7. Remember that the club 10 finesse was marked by East's discards.

West at this stage held the spade K and club J-9-8, as he had to discard on the heart Q. If he tossed a club, three club tricks would end it. So he discarded the spade K, making the 9 good. That card, the club 6 to the 10 and the club Q then gave South his contract.

What punishment could have been meted out if West, after scoring the club K and seeing the dummy, had switched to the heart 8 and East put on his 10, or if West had shifted on the second trick to his spade K. Either of those plays would have been real defensive tactics against a No Trump game. But the scoring of the top cards at the outset constituted use of anti-suit defense when against a No Trump contract.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Savage River Dam Helps Hike Flow Of Potomac

Water from the Savage River dam is being used to help alleviate conditions along the Potomac River due to extremely dry weather this month.

Robert Golden, official U. S. weather observer here, said yesterday he has noticed a gradual rise in the water readings at the Wiley Ford recording station, and had been informed by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers here that the rise was due to the flow from the Savage River dam.

It has been reported that about 12,000,000 gallons daily is being released from the dam, high above Westernport, into the Potomac near Luke.

The extra water provides the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke with a vitally needed supply and also cuts down on the pollution in the Potomac.

Officials of the Water Survey agency of the U. S. Geological Survey office here said the rise in the river in Cumberland has been from a recent low of 2.66 feet to the 3.08 reading yesterday.

It was also pointed out the dam, only recently completed, did not impound a large amount of water this summer, and that the release of water into the Potomac at present is only a minimum amount. At that, the river flow has been greatly increased.

Next summer, after water has been impounded during the winter and spring, the huge dam should have sufficient water to allow for the use of much larger amounts, officials said.

Ex-Police Chief Indicted On 2 Murder Counts

The Somerset county, Pa., grand jury has returned two murder indictments against Ned L. Hoyt, former police chief of Confluence, who is free under $10,000 bond.

Hoyt was arrested May 1 in the fatal shooting of William Wallace Conway and his son, Donald Wayne Conway, after a fracas on a Confluence street. Both men were killed instantly.

Also indicted in connection with the disturbance preceeding the shooting was Robert Lytle, of Confluence. The grand jury returned true bills against him on charge of obstructing an officer and assault and battery. Hoyt is the prosecutor in both cases.

Clayton Allen Terhune, of Paterson, N. J., was indicted on a murder charge for the roadside cabin slaying of Clayton E. Jenkins, architect of Downingtown, Pa. The killing occurred May 1 at Emerald Park near Stoystown.

Terhune had been held in Somerset county jail since he was captured the day after the Jenkins slaying.

A fourth murder indictment was against Marshall Ellsworth Rugg, of Route 1, Confluence, for the fenceline slaying of his brother-in-law, Frank B. Basinger, also of Route 1, Confluence. Basinger died of a bullet wound June 16 inflicted following an argument with Rugg over a property line. The defendant posted $10,000 bond for his release.

State Stars Dot Terps' Grid Lineup

Three Cumberlanders On Varsity Squad

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 30—(AP)—There'll be an unusual number of home-grown specimens in the 1951 football crop coming out tomorrow at the University of Maryland.

At least nine Marylanders are on the squad which Coach Jim Tatum will show off to the press. This includes one freshman who is eligible for the varsity this year.

Five natives will be regulars. At the defensive ends will be two Cumberland juniors, John Alderton and Bill Ruehl. Alderton is one of the two returning lettermen at end and probably will see offensive action, too.

Also defensive specialists are Dave Cianelli, co-captain from Hagerstown, and Lynn Davis, a Baltimore halfback. Cianelli has been switched around from the backfield to the line but Coach Tatum now has settled him down as a line backer.

Running the offensive show for the second straight year will be Jack Scarbath of Baltimore at quarterback.

Three Marylanders are among the sophomores moving up for their first crack at varsity duty. Ken Davis of Hyattsville is among the halfbacks, Donald Decker of Cumberland is a guard and Leonard Mahoney of Baltimore an end.

Coach Tatum has indicated he will carry Dick Bielski, a first-year fullback from Baltimore, on the varsity. Bielski is getting meticulous grooming to succeed fullback Ed Modzelewski who is playing his last season.

John Alderton and Donald Decker are graduates of Fort Hill High School while Bill Ruehl is an Allegany High School alumnus. Decker and Alderton both played on city championship elevens under the tutelege of Coach William P. Hahn at Fort Hill. Also attending Maryland this year and vying on the Freshman squad will be all-state quarterback Lynn Beightol of Fort Hill.

Mrs. Eiler Captures 2nd Flight Title

McGregor Upset By Vic Seixas In Hard Match

Aussie Loses After Bitter 4-Set Fight

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP) — The National Tennis championships finally exploded in a terrific match today when Vic Seixas, 27-year-old Philadelphian, outfought, outplayed and finally outlasted big Ken McGregor, Australia's second ranking star, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5, 6-4, before 10,000 howling fans in the stadium.

Twice in the blazing match it looked as though Seixas had thrown away certain victory. In the third set he led at 4-0, only to have McGregor put on a fighting rally and carry him to deuce. But Vic dug in again and finally won the crusial set by breaking McGregor's service in a titanic 12th game that went to deuce eight times.

Much the same thing happened in the fourth set. Seixas, playing a magnificent brand of tennis which belied his seventh seeding among American players in the tournament, smashed his way to a 5-0 lead, and again McGregor tried to bar the door. The Aussie won four straight games, and with his own service coming up appeared certain to knot it at 5-5.

Much of the drama of the match was packed into the next game. On one critical point McGregor appeared to have served an ace, but the linesman said he had been blinded by the sun, and the umpire from his chair called it a fault. McGregor, flustered, then served a double fault, one of six he committed during the set.

By pulling out the sizzler, Seixas qualified to tackle steady Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in his quarter-final match on Saturday. Flam, his doubles partner in recent tournaments, won his way through the fourth round with a 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, victory over unseeded Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J.

Budge Patty of Los Angeles, the former Wimbledon champion and eighth home seed, easily handled Mervyn Rose, the third seeded Australian, by scores of 1-6, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5.

This left only one foreigner, Frank Sedgman, of Australia, in the men's division of the championships, but England still was strongly represented in the women's department. Three of the eight survivors were from across the water.

One of the English girls, pulled something of surprise when she swatted out young Beverly Baker of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-4, 7-5. Her Wightman Cup teammate, Mrs. J. Walker-Smith, eliminated Mrs. Baba Lewis of Newtonville, Mass., 9-7, 8-6.

Neither Doris Hart of Miami, the favorite, nor Shirley Fry of Akron, O., the No. 2 American seed, saw action today. Miss Tuckey will meet Miss Fry in the next round.

Braves Maul Cubs, 16-2

BOSTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Boston's Braves ended their most successful home stand of the season tonight when they mauled the Chicago Cubs 16-2 before 5,941 gleeful spectators. The Tribe, which open a road trip in Philadelphia Saturday night, won 14 of 18 games in this home stand and moved from the second division to third place in the National League. Score:

Idle Yanks Take Over As Indians Drop 6-2 Verdict

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, who love to knock off the big guys, kicked the light-hitting Cleveland Indians out of first place today, beating Bob Feller, 6 to 2.

Showing the same disregard for pennant contenders they did a few weeks ago by taking a series from the New York Yankees, they made it two out of three over Cleveland.

Feller, frustrated in his second try for his 21st victory lasted only two and two-third innings. But it wasn't entirely his fault.

Bob Kennedy, normally an excellent right fielder, ran back near the wall in the third inning for Pitcher Morris Martin's hard-hit ball with the bases loaded.

Kennedy got his glove on it, then let it bounce out. All three base runners, scampering at their fastest because two were out, scored. And Martin pulled up at second for a two-base error.

Kiner's Homer Trips N. Y. As Bucs Win, 10-9

Big Ralph Blasts 37th In Ninth

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—Ralph Kiner blasted his 37th home run of the season in the ninth inning to break a tie and give the Pittsburgh Pirates an uphill 10-9 victory over the New York Giants today.

The defeat was a heart-breaker for the Giants, who had built up an early 8-1 lead and seemed headed for an easy triumph.

As a result, the New Yorkers now trail the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers by 6½ games. Kiner's circuit clout moved him in front in the home run race and boosted the Bucs into sixth place.

Murry Dickson, who dropped a seven-hitter to the Giants yesterday, worked the last two innings and received credit for his 18th victory. The loser was Larry Jansen, who was charged with his 10th defeat against 17 victories.

There were seven home runs in the game. Frank Thomas, Pete Castiglione and Gus Bell homered for the Pirates, in addition to Kiner. Willie Mays hit his 18th and 19th for the Giants. Bill Rigney got the other. Box:

Slow-balling Russ Minnicks evened the Rocking Chair League semi-final playoff series for the Moose yesterday by blanking the Elks 9-0 in the second game at Stitcher field.

In addition to holding the second-place Elks to eight hits and permitting only one man to reach third base Minnicks clouted a two-run homer in the sixth inning.

Claude Comer and Joe Geatz smacked the offerings of Elks hurler Bill Underdonk for six hits between them with Geatz pacing the attack with four for four. Frank Williams also collected two bingles and starred afield at third base for the Moose.

Roy Whitman, Pooch Orndorff and Windy Wallis each garnered two hits for the losers with Orndorff being the only Elks runner to reach third.

Move—Board Will

injuries which brought on the decision.

Hoey has been the target of a number of "political, sectional, factional" disputes, Paye charged.

Such "political, snide factionalism," Paye declared, has "thoroughly wrecked the wonderful recreational job" Hoey has accomplished.

Mrs. Fuller B. Whitworth, secretary, agreed that Monday's meeting was a blunder but said the idea behind the meeting was a step in the right direction.

Hoey Cites Incidents

It was at that stage of the meeting that Paye moved that the Board submit the letter to the Mayor and Council, with the unanimous recommendation that the city officials do all in their power to persuade Hoey to change his mind. This motion was dropped, however, when the action to withhold the resignation until after the September 20 meeting was adopted with Hoey's permission.

Some of the reasons for the action were related by Hoey in the latter part of the meeting.

Hoey said the real reason was "a lot of petty things, adding he had "had enough."

A few of the items he related included criticism directed toward him at the Swimming Meet at North End Playground. One team, he said, swam wrong and was disqualified. Hoey was criticized.

Summons Is Served

Similar action followed a ruling on by-laws at a Hot Stove League game.

Abuse through phone calls during the Little League finals was also noted.

He admitted that the action of the Rec Board was the "final straw."

Lewyn C. Davis, another member, said the idea of the Monday meeting was for the board to assume part of the criticism which he felt the board and not Hoey should bear.

In the middle of the Intra-City Playground Picnic, Hoey said, a city officer served a warrant in connection with 48 parking tickets placed on city recreation department vehicles.

Hoey declined to leave the picnic, which was attended by up to 2,000 youngsters.

Hoey told the Board he had no complaints about his salary, which was set at $4,500 for the current year.

Mrs. Roeder Comments

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property said last night, "I feel Mr. Hoey has done a marvelous job in furthering the recreation program in Cumberland."

"The present program has been successful from every angle and I am anxious to know his reason for handing in his resignation." Mrs. Roeder said she hoped he would remain in Cumberland as director of recreation and assures him full cooperation from Mayor and City Council will be given him in the future as in the past.

Mrs. Roeder added she thought Mr. Hoey was planning to turn in his resignation because he had a better position in the offing.

State Stars Dot Terps' Grid Lineup

Three Cumberlanders On Varsity Squad

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 30—(AP)—There'll be an unusual number of home-grown specimens in the 1951 football crop coming out tomorrow at the University of Maryland.

At least nine Marylanders are on the squad which Coach Jim Tatum will show off to the press. This includes one freshman who is eligible for the varsity this year.

Five natives will be regulars. At the defensive ends will be two Cumberland juniors, John Alderton and Bill Ruehl. Alderton is one of the two returning lettermen at end and probably will see offensive action, too.

Also defensive specialists are Dave Cianelli, co-captain from Hagerstown, and Lynn Davis, a Baltimore halfback. Cianelli has been switched around from the backfield to the line but Coach Tatum now has settled him down as a line backer.

Running the offensive show for the second straight year will be Jack Scarbath of Baltimore at quarterback.

Three Marylanders are among the sophomores moving up for their first crack at varsity duty. Ken Davis of Hyattsville is among the halfbacks, Donald Decker of Cumberland is a guard and Leonard Mahoney of Baltimore an end.

Coach Tatum has indicated he will carry Dick Bielski, a first-year fullback from Baltimore, on the varsity. Bielski is getting meticulous grooming to succeed fullback Ed Modzelewski who is playing his last season.

John Alderton and Donald Decker are graduates of Fort Hill High School while Bill Ruehl is an Allegany High School alumnus. Decker and Alderton both played on city championship elevens under the tutelege of Coach William P. Hahn at Fort Hill. Also attending Maryland this year and vying on the Freshman squad will be all-state quarterback Lynn Beightol of Fort Hill.

McGregor Upset By Vic Seixas In Hard Match

Aussie Loses After Bitter 4-Set Fight

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP) — The National Tennis championships finally exploded in a terrific match today when Vic Seixas, 27-year-old Philadelphian, outfought, outplayed and finally outlasted big Ken McGregor, Australia's second ranking star, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5, 6-4, before 10,000 howling fans in the stadium.

Twice in the blazing match it looked as though Seixas had thrown away certain victory. In the third set he led at 4-0, only to have McGregor put on a fighting rally and carry him to deuce. But Vic dug in again and finally won the crusial set by breaking McGregor's service in a titanic 12th game that went to deuce eight times.

Much the same thing happened in the fourth set. Seixas, playing a magnificent brand of tennis which belied his seventh seeding among American players in the tournament, smashed his way to a 5-0 lead, and again McGregor tried to bar the door. The Aussie won four straight games, and with his own service coming up appeared certain to knot it at 5-5.

Much of the drama of the match was packed into the next game. On one critical point McGregor appeared to have served an ace, but the linesman said he had been blinded by the sun, and the umpire from his chair called it a fault. McGregor, flustered, then served a double fault, one of six he committed during the set.

By pulling out the sizzler, Seixas qualified to tackle steady Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in his quarter-final match on Saturday. Flam, his doubles partner in recent tournaments, won his way through the fourth round with a 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, victory over unseeded Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J.

Budge Patty of Los Angeles, the former Wimbledon champion and eighth home seed, easily handled Mervyn Rose, the third seeded Australian, by scores of 1-6, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5.

This left only one foreigner, Frank Sedgman, of Australia, in the men's division of the championships, but England still was strongly represented in the women's department. Three of the eight survivors were from across the water.

One of the English girls, pulled something of surprise when she swatted out young Beverly Baker of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-4, 7-5. Her Wightman Cup teammate, Mrs. J. Walker-Smith, eliminated Mrs. Baba Lewis of Newtonville, Mass., 9-7, 8-6.

Neither Doris Hart of Miami, the favorite, nor Shirley Fry of Akron, O., the No. 2 American seed, saw action today. Miss Tuckey will meet Miss Fry in the next round.

Idle Yanks Take Over As Indians Drop 6-2 Verdict

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, who love to knock off the big guys, kicked the light-hitting Cleveland Indians out of first place today, beating Bob Feller, 6 to 2.

Showing the same disregard for pennant contenders they did a few weeks ago by taking a series from the New York Yankees, they made it two out of three over Cleveland.

Feller, frustrated in his second try for his 21st victory lasted only two and two-third innings. But it wasn't entirely his fault.

Bob Kennedy, normally an excellent right fielder, ran back near the wall in the third inning for Pitcher Morris Martin's hard-hit ball with the bases loaded.

Kennedy got his glove on it, then let it bounce out. All three base runners, scampering at their fastest because two were out, scored. And Martin pulled up at second for a two-base error.

Big Ralph Blasts 37th In Ninth

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—Ralph Kiner blasted his 37th home run of the season in the ninth inning to break a tie and give the Pittsburgh Pirates an uphill 10-9 victory over the New York Giants today.

The defeat was a heart-breaker for the Giants, who had built up an early 8-1 lead and seemed headed for an easy triumph.

As a result, the New Yorkers now trail the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers by 6½ games. Kiner's circuit clout moved him in front in the home run race and boosted the Bucs into sixth place.

Murry Dickson, who dropped a seven-hitter to the Giants yesterday, worked the last two innings and received credit for his 18th victory. The loser was Larry Jansen, who was charged with his 10th defeat against 17 victories.

There were seven home runs in the game. Frank Thomas, Pete Castiglione and Gus Bell homered for the Pirates, in addition to Kiner. Willie Mays hit his 18th and 19th for the Giants. Bill Rigney got the other. Box:

Boston Kayoes Detroit, 10-4

Sox Gain Ground In Pennant Race

DETROIT, Aug. 30 (AP) — Boston's free-swinging Red Sox slammed out 14 hits today as they pummeled the Detroit Tigers for a 10-4 decision and moved to within four-and-a-half games of the American League leading New York Yankees.

Dom DiMaggio and Billy Goodman collected three hits apiece, while Bobby Doerr got two including home run No. 13.

The victory gave the Bostonians a 2-1 edge in the series and left them hot in pursuit of New York and Cleveland which are leading the American League race. Box:

A large attendance is expected at the two-day football and basketball rules interpretation clinic to be held at Fort Hill High School today and tomorrow.

Porter, executive secretary, National Federation of State High School Athletic Association, Chicago, will discuss changes in the 1951 football and basketball rules and give an interpretation of the rules. The technicolor films, Modern Football and Basketball Today, will be shown by A. A. Schabinger, director, Official Sports Film Service, Chicago.

The program will get underway at 10 o'clock this morning with an address of welcome by Superintendent of Schools of Allegany County Charles L. Kopp. Arthur G. Ramey, director of physical education for the Board of Education of Allegany County will preside at the local sessions.

The program is divided into scheduled meetings with the first set from 10 until noon today. The second will get underway at 1:30 this afternoon and continue until 4 o'clock. An evening clinic will be held starting at 8.

Tomorrow's sessions will begin at 10 a. m. and the clinic will conclude at 11:30 a. m.

Elks Blanked By Minnicks In RC Playoff

Moose Evens Its Series, 9 To 0

Slow-balling Russ Minnicks evened the Rocking Chair League semi-final playoff series for the Moose yesterday by blanking the Elks 9-0 in the second game at Stitcher field.

In addition to holding the second-place Elks to eight hits and permitting only one man to reach third base Minnicks clouted a two-run homer in the sixth inning.

Claude Comer and Joe Geatz smacked the offerings of Elks hurler Bill Underdonk for six hits between them with Geatz pacing the attack with four for four. Frank Williams also collected two bingles and starred afield at third base for the Moose.

Roy Whitman, Pooch Orndorff and Windy Wallis each garnered two hits for the losers with Orndorff being the only Elks runner to reach third.

The two teams will meet for the third and final game of their best-of-three series Friday at 6 o'clock at Stitcher field. The winner of the series will meet the Eagles in the finals for the title. The score:

MOOSE .............. 104 102 1—9 11 1

Move-Board Will

injuries which brought on the decision.

Hoey has been the target of a number of "political, sectional, factional" disputes, Paye charged.

Such "political, snide factionalism," Paye declared, has "thoroughly wrecked the wonderful recreational job" Hoey has accomplished.

Mrs. Fuller B. Whitworth, secretary, agreed that Monday's meeting was a blunder but said the idea behind the meeting was a step in the right direction.

Hoey Cites Incidents

It was at that stage of the meeting that Paye moved that the Board submit the letter to the Mayor and Council, with the unanimous recommendation that the city officials do all in their power to persuade Hoey to change his mind. This motion was dropped, however, when the action to withhold the resignation until after the September 20 meeting was adopted with Hoey's permission.

Some of the reasons for the action were related by Hoey in the latter part of the meeting.

Hoey said the real reason was "a lot of petty things, adding he had "had enough."

A few of the items he related included criticism directed toward him at the Swimming Meet at North End Playground. One team, he said, swam wrong and was disqualified. Hoey was criticized.

Summons Is Served

Similar action followed a ruling on by-laws at a Hot Stove League game.

Abuse through phone calls during the Little League finals was also noted.

He admitted that the action of the Rec Board was the "final straw."

Lewyn C. Davis, another member, said the idea of the Monday meeting was for the board to assume part of the criticism which he felt the board and not Hoey should bear.

In the middle of the Intra-City Playground Picnic, Hoey said, a city officer served a warrant in connection with 48 parking tickets placed on city recreation department vehicles.

Hoey declined to leave the picnic, which was attended by up to 2,000 youngsters.

Hoey told the Board he had no complaints about his salary, which was set at $4,500 for the current year.

Mrs. Roeder Comments

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property said last night, "I feel Mr. Hoey has done a marvelous job in furthering the recreation program in Cumberland."

"The present program has been successful from every angle and I am anxious to know his reason for handing in his resignation." Mrs. Roeder said she hoped he would remain in Cumberland as director of recreation and assures him full cooperation from Mayor and City Council will be given him in the future as in the past.

Mrs. Roeder added she thought Mr. Hoey was planning to turn in his resignation because he had a better position in the offing.

Fairacre Invitation Golf Tourney Begins

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Aug. 30—(AP)—Landon Buchanan of Roanoke shot a three under par 68 for medal honors as the 27th Fairacre Inviational golf tournament got under way here today. Buchanan had the only sub-par round in the field of more than 100 golfers.

Defending Champion John Rice, also of Roanoke, soared to a 75 and George Fulton Jr., Roanoke, who took the crown in 1949, shot a 76.

Blacksburg's young brother team of Jimmy and Billy Deemer landed in the championship flight. Jimmy toured the tough Cascades course in 75 while brother Billy had a 79.

Three men from Indian Springs Country Club in Maryland—Earl Spicer, Frank Miller and Bob Ickes—had 80's to round out the 16-man championship flight.

TWO THOUSAND FANS who didn't believe what they had heard, and hardly believed what they saw, turned out for an exhibition softball game at Lakewood, O., between the local Schrader company nine and a touring, four-man nine known as The King and His Court. The seven-inning game ended in a 2-2 deadlock. The King is Eddie Feigner. His Court is composed of a catcher, first baseman and shortstop. A fifth man is substitute. They have been playing as a four-man team since 1946, averaging six games a week. Last year they won 114 games and lost 29. Feigner is an amazing hurler. He almost makes a softball talk. During the games, he pitches one inning blindfolded. Another inning he pitches from second base, and from the hurler's mound on his knees. The shortstop also is the outfielder on the few occasions when one is needed. Their teamwork has to be, and is, remarkable, especially their bunt defense. And their popularity is growing. (International)

Busanda Wins Easily In 71st Saratoga Cup

Eric Guerin Ties Arcaro For Lead

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP)—Ogden Phipps' Busanda, a black four-year-old daughter of War Admiral, ran away and hid from three male rivals in the 71st running of the historic Saratoga Cup before 11,922 today. She led the entire distance of one mile and six-furlongs, covered in 2:59, and in so doing became reconed with not only the best of her own division but a member of the handicap and cup ranks of considerable stature, as well.

Eric Guerin rated her along masterfully, looking back over his shoulder on several occasions, so confident was he of the filly's ability in the old classic, which dates back to 1865. At the end of the long journey, she was 3½ lengths before Gustave Ring's Lone Eagle, recent winner of the Saratoga Handicap. William J. Ziegler Jr.'s Bit O' Fate was 4½ lengths farther away, while last to finish was Greentree's Big Stretch, which again put in a disappointing effort. He was second choice to Lone Eagle. Guerin completed a double, giving him 22 winners here, deadlocked with Arcaro.

Busanda has beaten male stars before this year, in the Suburban Handicap at Belmont. Against her own kind she was winner of the Top Flight and the Newcastle. However, she sulked in the Saratoga Handicap last week, finishing sixth, beaten 11 lengths by Lone Eagle.

The Phipps filly earned $10,950 and paid $8.20, $3.30. There was no show betting. In all she has won five of 17 races this year and $113,110. Last season she gleaned $32,300.

FOUR OF A KIND MAKE NINE

TWO THOUSAND FANS who didn't believe what they had heard, and hardly believed what they saw, turned out for an exhibition softball game at Lakewood, O., between the local Schrader company nine and a touring, four-man nine known as The King and His Court. The seven-inning game ended in a 2-2 deadlock. The King is Eddie Feigner. His Court is composed of a catcher, first baseman and shortstop. A fifth man is substitute. They have been playing as a four-man team since 1946, averaging six games a week. Last year they won 114 games and lost 29. Feigner is an amazing hurler. He almost makes a softball talk. During the games, he pitches one inning blindfolded. Another inning he pitches from second base, and from the hurler's mound on his knees. The shortstop also is the outfielder on the few occasions when one is needed. Their teamwork has to be, and is, remarkable, especially their bunt defense. And their popularity is growing. (International)

Busanda Wins Easily In 71st Saratoga Cup

Eric Guerin Ties Arcaro For Lead

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP)—Ogden Phipps' Busanda, a black four-year-old daughter of War Admiral, ran away and hid from three male rivals in the 71st running of the historic Saratoga Cup before 11,922 today. She led the entire distance of one mile and six-furlongs, covered in 2:59, and in so doing became reconed with not only the best of her own division but a member of the handicap and cup ranks of considerable stature, as well.

Eric Guerin rated her along masterfully, looking back over his shoulder on several occasions, so confident was he of the filly's ability in the old classic, which dates back to 1865. At the end of the long journey, she was 3½ lengths before Gustave Ring's Lone Eagle, recent winner of the Saratoga Handicap. William J. Ziegler Jr.'s Bit O' Fate was 4½ lengths farther away, while last to finish was Greentree's Big Stretch, which again put in a disappointing effort. He was second choice to Lone Eagle. Guerin completed a double, giving him 22 winners here, deadlocked with Arcaro.

Busanda has beaten male stars before this year, in the Suburban Handicap at Belmont. Against her own kind she was winner of the Top Flight and the Newcastle. However, she sulked in the Saratoga Handicap last week, finishing sixth, beaten 11 lengths by Lone Eagle.

The Phipps filly earned $10,950 and paid $8.20, $3.30. There was no show betting. In all she has won five of 17 races this year and $113,110. Last season she gleaned $32,300.

BRYANT AT NAVY

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—One coaching change has been made in Navy's 1951 football staff. Bob Bryant, former Philadelphia Eagle and San Francisco '49er tackle, has replaced Don Clark under Coach Eddie Erdelatz, Bryant was line coach at Arizona last season. Clark has joined the Southern California staff.

Injured Fighter's Condition Critical

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (INS)—Welterweight George Flores, critically injured in a Madison Square Garden semi-final last night, showed "alight improvement" late today in his battle for life at St. Clare's Hospital.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello of the New Yok State Athletic Commission said the young fighter's condition took a turn for the better following an afternoon spinal tap—the second tap since a blood clot was removed from his brain early this morning.

The 20-year-old Flores, the father of a three-weeks-old infant, has not regained consciousness since his operation.

Earlier, Dr. Charles Muzzicato, one of the attending physicians, said the first spinal tap indicated "increasing pressure" on Flores brain and that if the second tap showed no improvement, another operation may be attempted.

A CASE OF MUMPS

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Bert McLachlan, Michigan State's 220-yard and 440-yard Western Conference freestyle swim champion, missed the 1951 Senior AAU outdoor swim championship because he was bedded with a case of the mumps.

GOLF MAGICIANS

VICTORIA, B. C., (AP) — R. D. Clay was plenty pleased when he scored a hole in one on the eighth hole of the Victoria Golf Club recently. But so was his opponent, H. F. Hepburn, who duplicated the feat on the same hole.

BIG FISH—Rev. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, this city, landed this 15-pound rock fish on Tuesday while fishing in the Susquehanna River from the Harford County, Md., side of the big stream. He and three others in the party caught a total of 39 fish. The rock pictured above was the biggest in the lot.

Odds Vary For Next Robinson-Turpin Bout

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Three of Britain's leading bookmakers believe middleweight champion Randy Turpin of England is close to an even money shot to beat Ray Robinson again in their return 15-rounder at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 12. In New York, Robinson is rated a 12 to 5 favorite by bookmakers to win back his crown.

Bookmaking is legal in Britain. It is illegal in New York.

The three British bookmakers offered three different prices on the outcome. If you like Robinson you can get 4 to 5 odds from James McLean and 8 to 11 from Douglas Stuart and Manny King.

If you like Turpin you can get 11 to 10 from King, even money from Stuart and 4 to 5 from McLean.

Mutuel Mistake Costly To Cashier

TIMONIUM, Md., Aug. 30 (AP)—A cashier at a mutuel window at Timonium race track today made a $428 mistake. He paid off two $6 combination tickets in the first race at $217.40 each when they were worth only $3.40 each.

And because each cashier is held completely responsible for his errors, he will have to make up the loss out of his $14 a day salary.

The cashier, asking that his name not be used "because it makes me look like a darn fool," explained that he thought the number was eight when actually it was six.

No. 8 in the race was Blitz-Dart, who returned $156 to win and $217.40 across the board. No. 6 was Elk Water who finished third at $3.40.

RAUCH FOR RATTERMAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach Jimmy Phelan of the New York football Yanks has settled on Johnny Rauch as his regular quarterback. The former Georgia star succeeds George Ratterman who plans to play in Canada this fall. The Yanks failed to pick up the option on Ratterman's contract it has been reported.

Injured Fighter's Condition Critical

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (INS)—Welterweight George Flores, critically injured in a Madison Square Garden semi-final last night, showed "slight improvement" late today in his battle for life at St. Clare's Hospital.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello of the New Yok State Athletic Commission said the young fighter's condition took a turn for the better following an afternoon spinal tap—the second tap since a blood clot was removed from his brain early this morning.

The 20-year-old Flores, the father of a three-weeks-old infant, has not regained consciousness since his operation.

Earlier, Dr. Charles Muzzicato, one of the attending physicians, said the first spinal tap indicated "increasing pressure" on Flores brain and that if the second tap showed no improvement, another operation may be attempted.

A CASE OF MUMPS

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Bert McLachlan, Michigan State's 220-yard and 440-yard Western Conference freestyle swim champion, missed the 1951 Senior AAU outdoor swim championship because he was bedded with a case of the mumps.

GOLF MAGICIANS

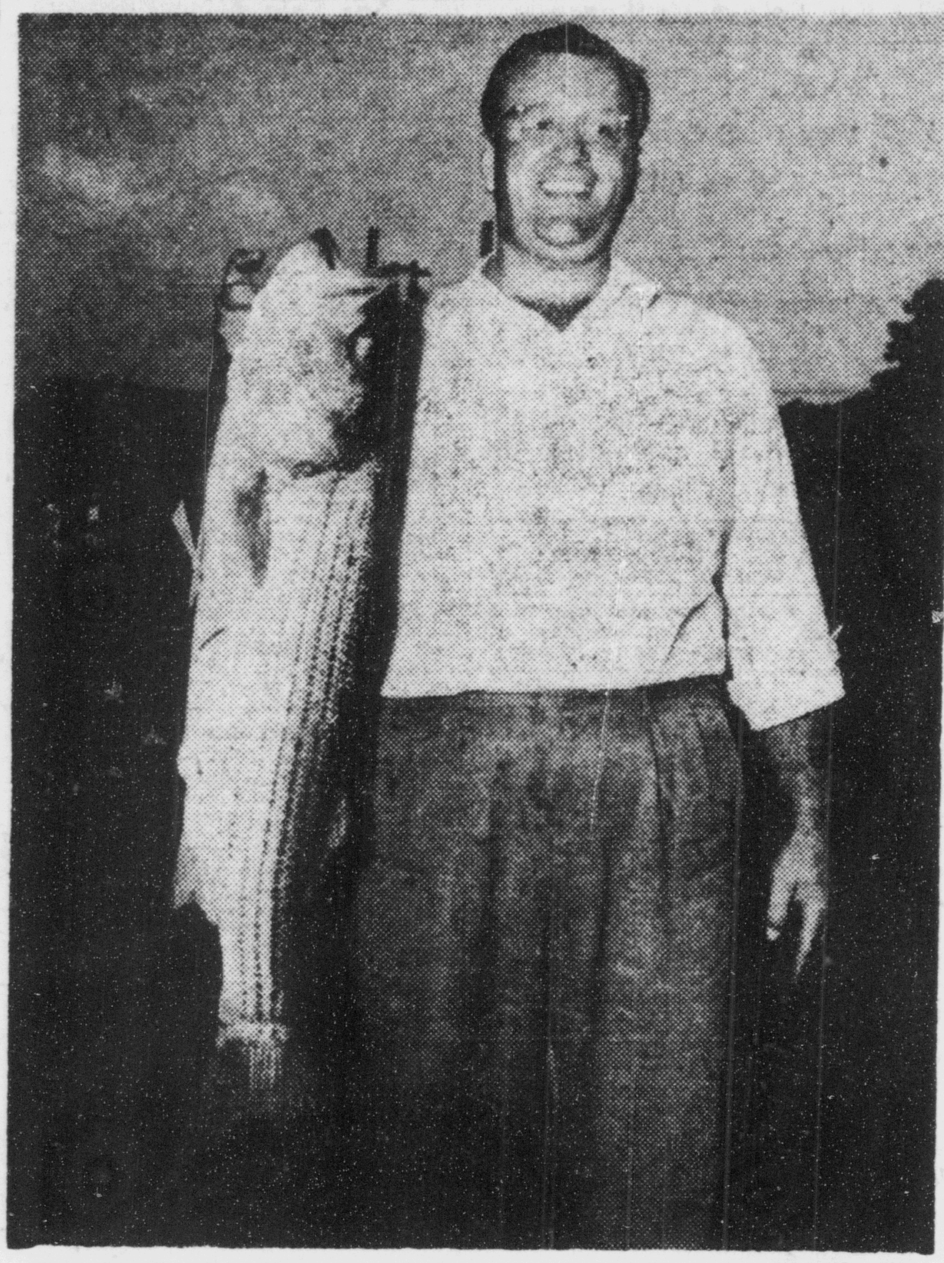
VICTORIA, B. C., (AP) — R. D. Clay was plenty pleased when he scored a hole in one on the eighth hole of the Victoria Golf Club recently. But so was his opponent, H. F. Hepburn, who duplicated the feat on the same hole.



BIG FISH—Rev. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, this city, landed this 15-pound rock fish on Tuesday while fishing in the Susquehanna River from the Harford County, Md., side of the big stream. He and three others in the party caught a total of 39 fish. The rock pictured above was the biggest in the lot.

Odds Vary For Next Robinson-Turpin Bout

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Three of Britain's leading bookmakers believe middleweight champion Randy Turpin of England is close to an even money shot to beat Ray Robinson again in their return 15-rounder at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 12. In New York, Robinson is rated a 12 to 5 favorite by bookmakers to win back his crown.

Bookmaking is legal in Britain. It is illegal in New York.

The three British bookmakers offered three different prices on the outcome. If you like Robinson you can get 4 to 5 odds from James McLean and 8 to 11 from Douglas Stuart and Manny King.

If you like Turpin you can get 11 to 10 from King, even money from Stuart and 4 to 5 from McLean.

Mutuel Mistake Costly To Cashier

TIMONIUM, Md., Aug. 30 (AP)—A cashier at a mutuel window at Timonium race track today made a $428 mistake. He paid off two $6 combination tickets in the first race at $217.40 each when they were worth only $3.40 each.

And because each cashier is held completely responsible for his errors, he will have to make up the loss out of his $14 a day salary.

The cashier, asking that his name not be used "because it makes me look like a darn fool," explained that he thought the number was eight when actually it was six.

No. 8 in the race was Blitz-Dart, who returned $156 to win and $217.40 across the board. No. 6 was Elk Water who finished third at $3.40.

RAUCH FOR RATTERMAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach Jimmy Phelan of the New York football Yanks has settled on Johnny Rauch as his regular quarterback. The former Georgia star succeeds George Ratterman who plans to play in Canada this fall. The Yanks failed to pick up the option on Ratterman's contract it has been reported.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are men inconsiderate of women?

Answer: A good many of them are, through no fault of their own. For to be considerate of another person, you must have at least some idea of how it feels to be in his (or her) place. A man who has never tried to cook can hardly realize what getting dinner for a family involves, nor can one who goes to work each day imagine how it feels to be "cooped up" in a home. The increasing separateness of the working lives of husbands and wives—especially where the husband is away from home all day—tends to make mutual understanding harder and make either sex seem inconsiderate to the other.

May pain which you do not feel affect you?

Answer: Yes. The fact that an anesthetic keeps your conscious mind from feeling the sensations of an operation does not mean that your unconscious mind is not affected by them and may not even "remember" them when something happens to recall them. Dr. Fred D. Karchner of the University of Utah College of Medicine tells of a mother who recalled her sufferings at the birth of her first baby while having a second, though she had been anesthetized at the time. In the interim, the experience had caused her nightmares and given her an increased fear of childbirth. Anesthetics are indeed a "blessing," but not an unmixed one.

Is maturity a fixed point?

Answer: No, say Lawrence K. Frank and Wilton Marion Krogman in Child Development. Maturation is a development or "continuous change" that goes on in living organisms as long as life endures, even after visible "growth" has ceased. The rate of progress varies with each individual but an individual of any age is "immature" in so far as he is unable to change so as to adjust himself to new conditions and requirements. If you "live in the past" you are not really living—or "maturing"—at all, and to say at any given time, "I am mature," is as foolish as the legendary college student, grasping his diploma, shouting: "Hooray, now I'm educated!"

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

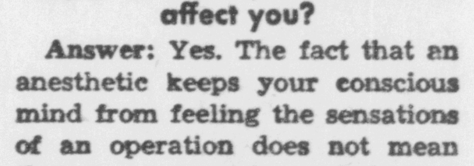
By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

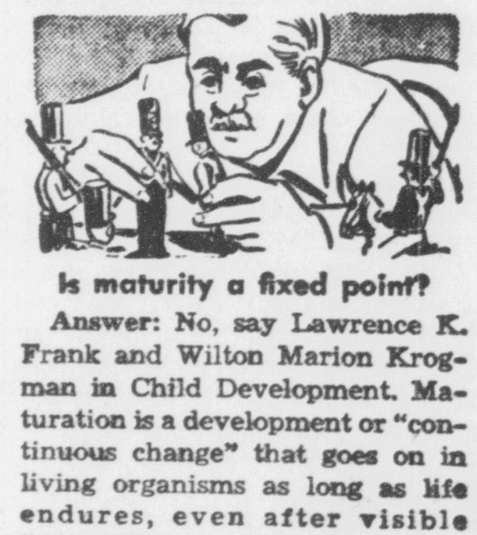
Are men inconsiderate of women?

Answer: Yes, a good many of them are, through no fault of their own. For to be considerate of another person, you must have at least some idea of how it feels to be in his (or her) place. A man who has never tried to cook can hardly realize what getting dinner for a family involves, nor can one who goes to work each day imagine how it feels to be "cooped up" in a home. The increasing separateness of the working lives of husbands and wives—especially where the husband is away from home all day—tends to make mutual understanding harder and make either sex seem inconsiderate to the other.



May pain which you do not feel affect you?

Answer: Yes. The fact that an anesthetic keeps your conscious mind from feeling the sensations of an operation does not mean that your unconscious mind is not affected by them and may not even "remember" them when something happens to recall them. Dr. Fred D. Karchner of the University of Utah College of Medicine tells of a mother who recalled her sufferings at the birth of her first baby while having a second, though she had been anesthetized at the time. In the interim, the experience had caused her nightmares and given her an increased fear of childbirth. Anesthetics are indeed a "blessing," but not an unmixed one.



Is maturity a fixed point?

Answer: No, say Lawrence K. Frank and Wilton Marion Krogman in Child Development. Maturation is a development or "continuous change" that goes on in living organisms as long as life endures, even after visible "growth" has ceased. The rate of progress varies with each particular but an individual of any age is "immature" in so far as he is unable to change so as to adjust himself to new conditions and requirements. If you "live in the past" you are not really living—or "maturing"—at all, and to say at any point, "I am mature," is as foolish as the legendary college student, grasping his diploma, shouting: "Hooray, now I'm educated!"

Move Gets Underway To Keep Hoey On Job

Board Will Delay Action On Letter

The City Recreation Board announced last night it will not transmit a letter of resignation from Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, until after it meets with him on September 20.

The delay in action on the letter to the Mayor and Council via the Recreation Board was taken with Hoey's permission at a lengthy board meeting in Central YMCA last night.

Hoey, with the Board's permission, will keep several appointments made in connection with job offers in other cities.

The Board also gave Hoey a unanimous vote of confidence for the "splendid" recreation program he has developed and expressed regret for the series of petty criticisms the board said were "unjustly directed" toward Hoey as director of the program.

Promises Cooperation

The group also pledged "wholehearted co-operation" of the board in the future recreation program for the city.

The parliamentary procedure making possible the delay in a decision was made possible by the fact that the letter of resignation was handed to the Board, which would transmit it to the Mayor and Council for action.

The resignation said:

"I hereby submit my resignation as director of Recreation for the City of Cumberland effective October 1.

"I express sincere appreciation for those who co-operated so enthusiastically in our program and earnestly condemn those too weak to aid, but strong in their condemnation of our work."

Board Is Shocked

The Recreation Board was hastily assembled last night following the action taken by Hoey yesterday morning.

Clifton Van Roby, newly elected chairman of the board, said he was "shocked immensely" by the action and said he was sure Hoey was led to the action by a series of events which have taken place within the last few weeks.

Roby said he felt that Hoey had become disturbed because he was not invited to a meeting of the Board Monday night.

At that meeting, Roby was elected chairman of the board to replace John I. Spiker, whose term had expired. Also discussed were plans for easing some of the burden which the rec leader has been bearing alone for some time. Chief business discussed, Roby said, was the clarification of the duties of the Board, which has been inactive during the summer.

Roby said the Board felt Cumberland "would be a terrific loser" if Hoey were to leave at the present stage of the rec program.

Homer Berry, a member of the Board, said Hoey informed him Tuesday night that he was quitting and that he had tried unsuccessfully to dissuade him.

Paye Cites Attacks

In an eloquent speech, Albert S. Paye, another member of the board, said Monday's meeting, when the Board met without inviting Hoey was the "insult" added to a series of

Beall Addresses Oakland Moose

Congressman J. Glenn Beall was in Oakland last night to address about 50 candidates for membership in the Oakland Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, in what he termed a non-political speech.

Contacted at the Moose Home shortly before he was to address the Moose lodge, Congressman Beall said that his remarks would include no mention of his probable candidacy for the United States Senate next year.

Beall said he was in Garrett County yesterday for the first time in some six or eight months and was contacted to speak to the new Moose members in Oakland.

69 Buses Pass First Inspection Of School Year

16 Vehicles Will Be Rechecked Later

Eighty-one per cent of the 77 school buses and eight automobiles used to transport Allegany County children to school passed the pre-school inspection this week, Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation in the county school system announced yesterday.

First Of Three

The test, the first of three required by state law each year, was conducted Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Ramey supervised the inspections. The actual checks were made by Marion Abbott and Harry Mann, Department of Motor Vehicle employes who are assigned to school bus inspections, and David Davis, Frostburg mechanic.

Ramey explained that four of the buses and one car among the 85 tested will require tightening up of their steering mechanisms. Three other buses were found to have loose exhaust connections.

Seven other buses and one other car were found defective in certain minor respects. These included such faults as first aid kit not completely filled, light bulb burned out, and cracked glass in exterior rear vision mirror.

Notices Sent

Owners of all of the defective buses and cars have been notified in writing to have the necessary corrections made promptly, before school starts next Thursday, September 6. Rules of the Department of Motor Vehicles and of the State Department of Education require the repairs in 10 days.

Abbott and Mann will return to this county Thursday, September 13, to recheck the 16 vehicles which failed the test, Ramey reported.

The transportation supervisor also said yesterday that all contractors and operators of school buses have undergone physical examinations, required annually, within the past two weeks. Reports on these examinations are coming to Ramey's office.

A "School Day" for the owners and operators of the school buses has been scheduled for Friday, September 14. This program of instruction will get under way at 10 a. m. and run until about 2 p. m.

Groups Go To Bat For Rec Director

Cumberland's Dapper Dan Club and Hot Stove League, with some 700 members, went to bat last night to keep Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey on the job.

Hoey, popular head of the city's recreation program, submitted his resignation unexpectedly yesterday to the City Recreation Board.

He gave no reason for his action then, but last night at the joint Dapper Dan Club and Hot Stove League meeting Hoey said he quit because of too much outside criticism and interference.

"Innumerable petty things built up over a period of time until they became unbearable," Hoey told the two groups.

He was invited to attend their meeting that was called to protest his resignation. Some of the "petty things" he recited to the two organizations. They included uncalled-for "riding" of players as well as managers in the Little League and Hot Stove League.

Both groups, the Dapper Dans and the Hot Stove League, acted to support Hoey "to the limit" in their efforts to keep him here.

They said they plan to "expend every effort" to make Hoey change his mind about his resignation.

In carrying out this plan, both groups said jointly that they intend to contact every service and fraternal organization in Cumberland in order to keep Hoey on the job.

In addition, they will send to the Mayor and Council a resolution in support of Hoey's record and asking the Council to use every resource in their power to keep him in his present post.

Both the Dapper Dans and the Hot Stove League representatives voiced their opposition to "political appointees" on the City Recreation Board and emphasized that they intend to include in their resolution to the Mayor and Council a provision that members of the recreation board be appointed because they are "recreation-minded" and not because they might serve some political benefit.

Dapper Dan officials said Cumberland is "going back to the horse and buggy days fast enough" without losing the recreation program that Hoey has built up.

They pointed out that juvenile delinquency has dwindled to practically nothing in the city since Hoey became recreation director, and cited as the reason for it that the youngsters became interested in and participated in recreation projects instead of roaming the streets and getting into trouble.

"We feel we can't get a man to replace Ed Hoey, the kid's friend," said one Dapper Dan official, pointing out that Hoey worked "endless hours" in setting up the recreation program and carrying it out.

"He has been fortunate in having some capable assistants, but he needed still more," said another Dapper Dan, relating that if a home plate had to be laid at some playground, "Ed Hoey had to do the job."

William V. Keegan, chairman of the executive board of the Dapper Dan Club and a member of the City Council when the recreation program was set up and Hoey was hired, likewise expressed his concern at Hoey's resignation.

"He came in here to virgin territory where he knew nobody and built a recreation program that was the envy of many cities many times the size of Cumberland," Keegan declared.

Keegan explained that the program was developed in the short period of two years and, "as it is presently operating has unlimited possibilities for the future."

The former commissioner pointed out that Hoey "had rules he had to go by" and "worked day and night to keep the program operating and improving."

Gas Company Seeks Full Use Of New Supply

$2,200,000 Pipelines Project Now Planned

Steps are being taken by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, through a $2,200,000 project, to make full use of the new supply of gas found in the fields in Garrett County and Preston County, W. Va., it was disclosed last night.

The company hopes to have the project completed during the coming winter and if fortunate by New Year's Day.

Seek Authority

Yesterday in Washington the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, Pittsburgh, asked the Power Commission for authority to build natural gas pipelines costing almost $2,200,000 in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

A local spokesman said the company here anticipates prompt approval by the commission of the firm's request as the commission's policy has been to encourage the development of natural gas supplies.

The two subsidiaries of the Columbia Gas System, Inc., said the project would help provide the greatest possible production from gas fields in Maryland and West Virginia.

Cumberland plans to build 46 miles of new pipelines, to install 2,080 horsepower at two new compressor stations, and to convert an existing station to two-stage operation, at an estimated cost of $2,180,137.

Manufacturers wants to build about 100 feet of gas line and to exchange a compressor cylinder with a similar cylinder at a Cumberland station, for about $11,000.

From Mt. Lake Park

Cumberland's program includes a 35-mile, 10-inch line from the Mountain Lake Park area to a connection with Manufacturers' system on the Pennsylvania-West Virginia state line in Monongalia County, W. Va.

The remaining 11 miles would be built in various sections of Garrett County and Preston County, W. Va.

Manufacturers would build its 100 feet of line in Fayette County, Pa., from the end of Cumberland's proposed 35-mile line to a connection with a line leading to Waynesburg, Pa.

The companies said the construction would increase production from the Garrett County and Terra Alta, W. Va. gas fields and from the older producing fields on Cumberland's system, and would improve gas service in Albright and Kingwood, W. Va.

Heart Group Drive Opens

The Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association will begin its membership drive tomorrow, according to Thomas F. Conlon, president.

Solicitations will be by letters urging receivers to enlist to aid sufferers from the two crippling diseases. Any contribution of $1 or more will make a person a member of the association, Conlon said.

Funds from the drive, which will begin the fourth year of the heart fund, will be used to continue the services of the association's visiting nurse and car.

An educational display is being set up in a storeroom at 20 North Centre Street. John Manuel is chairman of the display committee, while Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson is in charge of the medical information making up the program.

VFW Burns Mortgage At Lonaconing

Membership Praised For Community Work

Members of Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, burned the mortgage on their post home at Lonaconing last night and Mayor Virgil Alexander, on behalf of the townsfolk, presented a large key to the city to Post Commander Benjamin Zarger.

The post acquired the spacious and beautiful stone structure from the Town of Lonaconing following a referendum about five years ago. It was once a NYA center, built by young people of the area when the country was working its way out of a great economic depression.

Members of the post aided by the auxiliary, have worked diligently since then to pay for and improve the building and grounds. It is one of the most active community centers in Western Maryland.

The mortgage was presented to Alexander Gardner, the post's first commander, by James McKelvie of Lonaconing. Assisted by Harold James, post adjutant, Gardner burned it in a large silver bowl.

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick, former state legislator, and a native of Lonaconing was guest speaker for the event. Magistrate Dick recalled the long history of the building, reminded his friends and neighbors there of the high principles of the VFW, and complimented the membership on the community service they render.

Other speakers included VFW officials from other posts and the State Department, followed by a mass induction of all post members with James Stemple of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW, here officiating.

One of the highlights of the program was the presentation by Commander Zarger of a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Jessie Neat, mother of the deceased soldier whose name is immortalized by the post.

The three-day celebration opened Wednesday night with a fun festival, featuring a male beauty contest staged by members of the post and the appearance of the famous Lonaconing Sad Sacks.

Tonight, a street parade has been planned featuring a number of musical and marching units including the Elkins, W. Va., bag pipe band, dressed in kilts. The unit is known as H. W. Daniels American Legion Post Highlanders.

The Lonaconing City Band, which gave a concert last night will also march, as will the Barton Citizens Band, Frostburg Arion Band, Henry Hart Post Drum Corps, Fulton Meyers American Legion Drum Corps, Potomac Fire Company Junior Band, Hyndman, Pa., Band, Farrady Post Legion Corps of Frostburg, and the Mt. Savage Junior Order Band, as well as a number of fire companies, town officials, Legion and VFW officials and an honor guard. The parade will start promptly at 7:30 p. m.

The program last night opened with a formal retreat by the town's active Military Police Army Reserve unit.

Police Plan To Attend School

Representatives from the Cumberland Police Department and the local State Police barracks at LaVale anticipate attending the initial class of the Police "In Service" School September 11 at College Park.

"Traffic" will be the subject for the opening session with members of the Maryland State Police and the American Automobile Association delivering lectures, visual instructions, and showing motion pictures. Lectures will be by Major R. M. Ridgely, Cpl. J. A. McIsaac, TFC J. F. White, Claud R. McCamment, and Richard Hartman.

"Court Room Procedure" and "Conduct on the Witness Stand" will be the subjects for the class November 13, and on January 8, 1952, the classes will hear lectures on "Reports and Files" and "Evidence."

On March 11, "Boys Clubs as a Police Activity" will be subject of a lecture as well as "The Value of Photography in Evidence."

On May 11, "Criminal Investigation" and "Interrogation" will be topics of discussion. The school is open to members of Police Departments, Mayors and Council members of Maryland municipalities and is being conducted by the University of Maryland in co-operation with the State Police, American Automobile Association, Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the state's attorneys and magistrates of Prince George's County.

Partial Sun Eclipse Due Tomorrow

Virginia, Carolina To See Full Show

If you're up to see the sunrise tomorrow morning, don't be alarmed if it turns into a strange sight.

The sun will rise partly eclipsed and will appear as a crescent in this area. At the eclipse center, the sun will be a rare sight, a thin ring of fire around a black moon.

The ring will be seen only in Virginia and North Carolina, which it crosses in a path 95 miles wide. The ring ends in North Carolina at about Boone. Westward of that point, the eclipse will be partial, a Crescent sun as in all the rest of the Eastern United States.

This partial eclipse will be visible west of the Mississippi River and will end on a line approximately between Galveston, Tex., and Bismarck, N. D.

A ring eclipse is due to the fact that the moon is too far from earth to completely blot the sun. The moon's shadow is a long cone. Anywhere inside the cone you see a total eclipse of the sun. But this time the earth is just beyond the end of the cone.

The ring-spectacle centers between Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News, Va., as the sun rises. Richmond and Roanoke, Va., will be just on the northern edge of this central ring. Salisbury, N. C will be on the southern edge.

The American Museum of Natural History is sending up a plane, with news photographers and observers to get above clouds to see the eclipse rise out of the Atlantic.

Draws Six Month Term

William L. McKenzie, Potomac Park, was sentenced to 60 days in County Jail yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court for violating his parole. His trial climaxed a series of six court appearances in the past year, all of which involved domestic troubles.

Ridgedale Activity Winners Receive Prizes At Festival

Nancy Diehl, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman O. Diehl, 819 Mann's Terrace, was awarded first prize last night in the Ridgedale Playground activities competition.

Second place went to 12-year-old Mike Small of Springfield Boulevard, and third, to Carol Jean Decker, nine, 814 Mann's Terrace.

Mrs. Harry Yeager presented the prizes at opening night ceremonies for the playground's festival.

Other features of the two-day festival are a sideshow, grab bag and scramble table. The show gets under way at 7 p. m. and closes at around 10 p. m.

The playground's folk dancing team, which won the recent intracity dancing festival, will perform the "Two Head Ladies Cross Over," their winning dance.

Playground officials said donations of baked goods for tonight's celebration would be appreciated.

B&O Backshops To See Increase In Repair Work

Steam Maintenance To End At Glenwood

The Baltimore and Ohio Backshops here will see an increase in heavy repair of steam locomotives with the closing of similar shops in Glenwood, near Pittsburgh, today.

Chester F. Williams, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the railroad, said last night an average of six steam locomotives a month will receive heavy repair work in the local backshops from the Pittsburgh area. He said Stability of employment in the local backshops, heretofore not maintained, will be realized by the additional work.

From now on, Glenwood, which will repair its last steam locomotive today, will handle only diesel-electric locomotives. The shops at Glenwood, Williams explained, will completely renovate diesel-electric locomotives from all over the railroad's system.

The Cumberland diesel servicing facilities are able to cope with "running repair," and the Glenwood shops take care of heavy repair or complete renovation.

The last steam engine to be repaired at Glenwood was No. 1065, a switcher. The Baltimore and Ohio has already spent $900,000 of more than $1,000,000 set aside for new diesel facilities at Glenwood.

With its new equipment Glenwood will be able to handle major repair and overhaul jobs on 200 diesel units a year. It is the most complete diesel repair facility on the system, although the railroad maintains other diesel shop facilities in Cumberland, East St. Louis, Baltimore and Washington.

3 Turned Over To Va. Police

Three armed youths taken into custody by city police Monday morning have been turned over to Virginia State Police and the Sheriff of Giles County, Va., on charges of breaking and entering and grand larceny.

The trio, according to police, will be given a hearing at Pearisburg, Va. They had been held in city jail as suspects in a garage and accessories store robbery Sunday night at White Gate, Va. Several hundred dollars worth of auto accessories, canned goods, a .22-calibre rifle and 25 cartons of cigarets were reported stolen.

Police identified the three as James Rummer, 18, Bowman's Addition, who has been reported AWOL from the Army at Fort Belvoir, Va., since August 4, Bryon Teter, 23, Bowman's Addition, and Donald Clark, 16, Poplar Hill, Va.

The trio was taken into custody while sleeping in a parked car in a alley between Polk and Hanover streets. Two automatic pistols were found in the automobile.

Investigation of the trunk showed what police termed as "loot" including accessories normally sold at a garage or accessories store. They were known to have been driving a 1946 Oldsmobile which police said they traded for a 1950 Chevrolet at a garage somewhere in Virginia.

Woman Cyclist Hurt In Crash

Riding on the motorcycle with Miss Miller was Miss Rosemary Blake, 21, 723 North Mechanic Street. Miss Blake was not seriously hurt, police said.

The car was driven by Mrs. Phyllis Corbin, 28, 322 Paca Street. Riding with her was her husband, David Corbin, 28. Police said Mr. and Mrs. Corbin were not hurt.

Investigating the accident were City Police officers Kenneth Morrissey, John J. Powers, Charles Thompson and Joseph Stitcher. Police said no charges were preferred. Miss Miller was admitted to Allegany Hospital.

Drum Corps To Parade

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Drum and Bugle Corps will participate in the parade being held in Lonaconing tonight. Members are asked to meet at the post home at 6:15 p. m.

The Weather

About the only thing on the mind of the average Cumberlander yesterday was to "beat the heat." The sun was out in all its glory and really bore down on the residents of the Queen City. The thermometer at the official weather station at Constitution Park soared to a high of 93 and the low was reported at 57. As the clock struck 8 last night the mercury registered 80 degrees. The humidity was 37 per cent and no rainfall. Forecast for today is continued warm.

Move Gets Underway To Keep Hoey On Job

Board Will Delay Action On Letter

The City Recreation Board announced last night it will not transmit a letter of resignation from Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, until after it meets with him on September 20.

The delay in action on the letter to the Mayor and Council via the Recreation Board was taken with Hoey's permission at a lengthy board meeting in Central YMCA last night.

Hoey, with the Board's permission, will keep several appointments made in connection with job offers in other cities.

The Board also gave Hoey a unanimous vote of confidence for the "splendid" recreation program he has developed and expressed regret for the series of petty criticisms the board said were "unjustly directed" toward Hoey as director of the program.

Promises Cooperation

The group also pledged "wholehearted co-operation" of the board in the future recreation program for the city.

The parliamentary procedure making possible the delay in a decision was made possible by the fact that the letter of resignation was handed to the Board, which would transmit it to the Mayor and Council for action.

The resignation said:

"I hereby submit my resignation as director of Recreation for the City of Cumberland effective October 1.

"I express sincere appreciation for those who co-operated so enthusiastically in our program and earnestly condemn those too weak to aid, but strong in their condemnation of our work."

Board Is Shocked

The Recreation Board was hastily assembled last night following the action taken by Hoey yesterday morning.

Clifton Van Roby, newly elected chairman of the board, said he was "shocked immensely" by the action and said he was sure Hoey was led to the action by a series of events which have taken place within the last few weeks.

Roby said he felt that Hoey had become disturbed because he was not invited to a meeting of the Board Monday night.

At that meeting, Roby was elected chairman of the board to replace John I. Spiker, whose term had expired. Also discussed were plans for easing some of the burden which the rec leader has been bearing alone for some time. Chief business discussed, Roby said, was the clarification of the duties of the Board, which has been inactive during the summer.

Roby said the Board felt Cumberland "would be a terrific loser" if Hoey were to leave at the present stage of the rec program.

Homer Berry, a member of the Board, said Hoey informed him Tuesday night that he was quitting and that he had tried unsuccessfully to dissuade him.

Paye Cites Attacks

In an eloquent speech, Albert S. Paye, another member of the board, said Monday's meeting, when the Board met without inviting Hoey was the "insult" added to a series of

Groups Go To Bat For Rec Director

Cumberland's Dapper Dan Club and Hot Stove League, with some 700 members, went to bat last night to keep Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey on the job.

Hoey, popular head of the city's recreation program, submitted his resignation unexpectedly yesterday to the City Recreation Board.

He gave no reason for his action then, but last night at the joint Dapper Dan Club and Hot Stove League meeting Hoey said he quit because of too much outside criticism and interference.

In addition, they will send to the Mayor and Council a resolution in support of Hoey's record and asking the Council to use every resource in their power to keep him in his present post.

69 Buses Pass First Inspection Of School Year

16 Vehicles Will Be Rechecked Later

Eighty-one per cent of the 77 school buses and eight automobiles used to transport Allegany County children to school passed the preschool inspection this week, Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation in the county school system announced yesterday.

First Of Three

The test, the first of three required by state law each year, was conducted Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Ramey supervised the inspections. The actual checks were made by Marion Abbott and Harry Mann, Department of Motor Vehicle employes who are assigned to school bus inspections, and David Davis, Frostburg mechanic.

Ramey explained that four of the buses and one car among the 85 tested will require tightening up of their steering mechanisms. Three other buses were found to have loose exhaust connections.

Seven other buses and one other car were found defective in certain minor respects. These included such faults as first aid kit not completely filled, light bulb burned out, and cracked glass in exterior rear vision mirror.

Notices Sent

Owners of all of the defective buses and cars have been notified in writing to have the necessary corrections made promptly, before school starts next Thursday, September 6. Rules of the Department of Motor Vehicles and of the State Department of Education require the repairs in 10 days.

Abbott and Mann will return to this county Thursday, September 13, to recheck the 16 vehicles which failed the test, Ramey reported.

The transportation supervisor also said yesterday that all contractors and operators of school buses have undergone physical examinations, required annually, within the past two weeks. Reports on these examinations are coming to Ramey's office.

A "School Day" for the owners and operators of the school buses has been scheduled for Friday, September 14. This program of instruction will get under way at 10 a. m. and run until about 2 p. m.

Beall Addresses Oakland Moose

Congressman J. Glenn Beall was in Oakland last night to address about 50 candidates for membership in the Oakland Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, in what he termed a nonpolitical speech.

Contacted at the Moose Home shortly before he was to address the Moose lodge, Congressman Beall said that his remarks would include no mention of his probable candidacy for the United States Senate next year.

Beall said he was in Garrett County yesterday for the first time in some six or eight months and was contacted to speak to the new Moose members in Oakland.

VFW Burns Mortgage At Lonaconing

Membership Praised For Community Work

Members of Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, burned the mortgage on their post home at Lonaconing last night and Mayor Virgil Alexander, on behalf of the townsfolk, presented a large key to the city to Post Commander Benjamin Zarger.

The post acquired the spacious and beautiful stone structure from the Town of Lonaconing following a referendum about five years ago. It was once a NYA center, built by young people of the area when the country was working its way out of a great economic depression.

Members of the post aided by the auxiliary, have worked diligently since then to pay for and improve the building and grounds. It is one of the most active community centers in Western Maryland.

The mortgage was presented to Alexander Gardner, the post's first commander, by James McKelvie of Lonaconing. Assisted by Harold James, post adjutant, Gardner burned it in a large silver bowl.

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick, former state legislator, and a native of Lonaconing was guest speaker for the event. Magistrate Dick recalled the long history of the building, reminded his friends and neighbors there of the high principles of the VFW, and complimented the membership on the community service they render.

Other speakers included VFW officials from other posts and the State Department, followed by a mass induction of all post members with James Stemple of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW, here officiating.

One of the highlights of the program was the presentation by Commander Zarger of a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Jessie Neat, mother of the deceased soldier whose name is immortalized by the post.

The three-day celebration opened Wednesday night with a fun festival, featuring a male beauty contest staged by members of the post and the appearance of the famous Lonaconing Sad Sacks.

Tonight, a street parade has been planned featuring a number of musical and marching units including the Elkins, W. Va., bag pipe band, dressed in kilts. The unit is known as H. W. Daniels American Legion Post Highlanders.

The Lonaconing City Band, which gave a concert last night will also march, as will the Barton Citizens Band, Frostburg Arion Band, Henry Hart Post Drum Corps, Fulton Meyers American Legion Drum Corps, Potomac Fire Company Junior Band, Hyndman, Pa., Band, Farrady Post Legion Corps of Frostburg, and the Mt. Savage Junior Order Band, as well as a number of fire companies, town officials, Legion and VFW officials and an honor guard. The parade will start promptly at 7:30 p. m.

The program last night opened with a formal retreat by the town's active Military Police Army Reserve unit.

Police Plan To Attend School

Representatives from the Cumberland Police Department and the local State Police barracks at La-Vale anticipate attending the initial class of the Police "In Service" School September 11 at College Park.

"Traffic" will be the subject for the opening session with members of the Maryland State Police and the American Automobile Association delivering lectures, visual instructions, and showing motion pictures. Lectures will be by Major R. M. Ridgely, Cpl. J. A. McIsaac, TFC J. F. White, Claud R. McCamment, and Richard Hartman.

"Court Room Procedure" and "Conduct on the Witness Stand" will be the subjects for the class November 13, and on January 8, 1952, the classes will hear lectures on "Reports and Files" and "Evidence."

On March 11, "Boys Clubs as a Police Activity" will be subject of a lecture as well as "The Value of Photography in Evidence."

On May 11, "Criminal Investigation" and "Interrogation" will be topics of discussion. The school is open to members of Police Departments, Mayors and Council members of Maryland municipalities and is being conducted by the University of Maryland in co-operation with the State Police, American Automobile Association, Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the state's attorneys and magistrates of Prince George's County.

Wife Still Missing

Mrs. Betty Jane Stewart, 22, 107 Ashley Street, who was reported missing by her husband yesterday morning, has not been located, according to police. She is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 90 pounds, has brown eyes and black hair and was wearing a blue dress and black oxfords.

Partial Sun Eclipse Due Tomorrow

Virginia, Carolina To See Full Show

If you're up to see the sunrise tomorrow morning, don't be alarmed if it turns into a strange sight.

The sun will rise partly eclipsed and will appear as a crescent in this area. At the eclipse center, the sun will be a rare sight, a thin ring of fire around a black moon.

The ring will be seen only in Virginia and North Carolina, which it crosses in a path 95 miles wide. The ring ends in North Carolina at about Boone. Westward of that point, the eclipse will be partial, a Crescent sun as in all the rest of the Eastern United States.

This partial eclipse will be visible west of the Mississippi River and will end on a line approximately between Galveston, Tex., and Bismarck, N. D.

A ring eclipse is due to the fact that the moon is too far from earth to completely blot the sun. The moon's shadow is a long cone. Anywhere inside the cone you see a total eclipse of the sun. But this time the earth is just beyond the end of the cone.

The ring-spectacle centers between Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News, Va., as the sun rises. Richmond and Roanoke, Va., will be just on the northern edge of this central ring. Salisbury, N. C will be on the southern edge.

The American Museum of Natural History is sending up a plane, with news photographers and observers to get above clouds to see the eclipse rise out of the Atlantic.

Draws Six Month Term

William L. McKenzie, Potomac Park, was sentenced to 60 days in County Jail yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court for violating his parole. His trial climaxed a series of six court appearances in the past year, all of which involved domestic troubles.

Ridgedale Activity Winners Receive Prizes At Festival

Nancy Diehl, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman O. Diehl, 819 Mann's Terrace, was awarded first prize last night in the Ridgedale Playground activities competition.

Second place went to 12-year-old Mike Small of Springfield Boulevard, and third, to Carol Jean Decker, nine, 814 Mann's Terrace.

Mrs. Harry Yeager presented the prizes at opening night ceremonies for the playground's festival.

Other features of the two-day festival are a sideshow, grab bag and scramble table. The show gets under way at 7 p. m. and closes at around 10 p. m.

The playground's folk dancing team, which won the recent intracity dancing festival, will perform the "Two Head Ladies Cross Over," their winning dance.

B&O Backshops To See Increase In Repair Work

Steam Maintenance To End At Glenwood

The Baltimore and Ohio Backshops here will see an increase in heavy repair of steam locomotives with the closing of similar shops in Glenwood, near Pittsburgh, today.

Chester F. Williams, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the railroad, said last night an average of six steam locomotives a month will receive heavy repair work in the local backshops from the Pittsburgh area. He said Stability of employment in the local backshops, heretofore not maintained, will be realized by the additional work.

From now on, Glenwood, which will repair its last steam locomotive today, will handle only diesel-electric locomotives. The shops at Glenwood, Williams explained, will completely renovate diesel-electric locomotives from all over the railroad's system.

The Cumberland diesel servicing facilities are able to cope with "running repair," and the Glenwood shops take care of heavy repair or complete renovation.

The last steam engine to be repaired at Glenwood was No. 1065, a switcher. The Baltimore and Ohio has already spent $900,000 of more than $1,000,000 set aside for new diesel facilities at Glenwood.

With its new equipment Glenwood will be able to handle major repair and overhaul jobs on 200 diesel units a year. It is the most complete diesel repair facility on the system, although the railroad maintains other diesel shop facilities in Cumberland, East St. Louis, Baltimore and Washington.

3 Turned Over To Va. Police

Three armed youths taken into custody by city police Monday morning have been turned over to Virginia State Police and the Sheriff of Giles County, Va., on charges of breaking and entering and grand larceny.

The trio, according to police, will be given a hearing at Pearisburg, Va. They had been held in city jail as suspects in a garage and accessories store robbery Sunday night at White Gate, Va. Several hundred dollars worth of auto accessories, canned goods, a .22-calibre rifle and 25 cartons of cigarets were reported stolen.

Police identified the three as James Rummer, 18, Bowman's Addition, who has been reported AWOL from the Army at Fort Belvoir, Va., since August 4, Bryon Teter, 23, Bowman's Addition, and Donald Clark, 16, Poplar Hill, Va.

The trio was taken into custody while sleeping in a parked car in a alley between Polk and Hanover streets. Two automatic pistols were found in the automobile.

Investigation of the trunk showed what police termed as "loot" including accessories normally sold at a garage or accessories store. They were known to have been driving a 1946 Oldsmobile which police said they traded for a 1950 Chevrolet at a garage somewhere in Virginia.

Woman Cyclist Hurt In Crash

Miss Mary Catherine Miller, 21, 17 Prospect Square, suffered a possible leg fracture and severe facial laceration about midnight when her motorcycle collided with a car at Lee and Washington streets.

Riding on the motorcycle with Miss Miller was Miss Rosemary Blake, 21, 723 North Mechanic Street. Miss Blake was not seriously hurt, police said.

The car was driven by Mrs. Phyllis Corbin, 28, 322 Paca Street. Riding with her was her husband, David Corbin, 28. Police said Mr. and Mrs. Corbin were not hurt.

Investigating the accident were City Police officers Kenneth Morrissey, John J. Powers, Charles Thompson and Joseph Stitcher. Police said no charges were preferred. Miss Miller was admitted to Allegany Hospital.

Drum Corps To Parade

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Drum and Bugle Corps will participate in the parade being held in Lonaconing tonight. Members are asked to meet at the post home at 6:15 p. m.

The Weather

About the only thing on the mind of the average Cumberlander yesterday was to "beat the heat." The sun was out in all its glory and really bore down on the residents of the Queen City. The thermometer at the official weather station at Constitution Park soared to a high of 93 and the low was reported at 57. As the clock struck 8 last night the mercury registered 80 degrees. The humidity was 37 per cent and no rainfall. Forecast for today is continued warm.

McCarthy Would Risk Senate Seat In Acheson-Jessup Trial

State Dept. Critic Flings Challenge But Admits It's Hopeless Gesture

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis)—saying it was a hopeles gesture—offered today to risk his Senate seat in a jury trial of Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Ambassador Philip K. Jessup.

"There is no way on God's earth I can get them into court," McCarthy told newsmen afterwards.

Nevertheless, he flung his trial-by-jury dare in a speech to the 52nd annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars—shortly after the veterans demanded Acheson's ouster as state secretary.

Yoser Would Resign

McCarthy offered to resign if a jury should find Acheson and Jessup innocent of his charges of Communist coddling.

But he demanded the resignations of Acheson, Jessup and "that whole motley crowd" should the jury uphold his charges.

McCarthy conceded that such a jury trial was out of the question. American courts do not try purely political cases, unless libel or slander is involved.

But his critics have demanded that he prove his charges in court and McCarthy said he's ready and willing.

McCarthy, himself a Marine veteran and VFW member, was loudly cheered before, during and after his 90-minute speech. This was in contrast to yesterday, when some delegates booed mention of McCarthy's name.

Once during his speech, a delegate shouted loudly:

"McCarthy for president."

Accuses Lattimore, Service

The fiery Wisconsin Republican strode to the convention platform after telling newsmen he would "name names" of what he terms Communists in government.

"If the statements are libelous, I will be speaking without senatorial immunity," he added.

Administration supporters have accused McCarthy of hiding behind senatorial immunity and hurling his charges without fear of libel action.

However, the men he named today he had accused before from the Senate floor — Acheson, Jessup, Owen Lattimore, John S. Service and Gustavo Duran.

All have denied his Senate charges that they were Communists or Red sympathizers.

Senators Back $1,045,000,000 Excise Tax Hike

Committee Accepts Most House Boosts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee today tentatively voted to boost excise (sales) taxes by about $1,045,000,000 a year.

It did this by accepting most of the major increases on excises included in the House-passed $7,200,000,000 bill.

House increases accepted by the senators were made on such items as distilled liquor, beer, cigarets, gasoline, diesel fuel, motor cars, trucks, buses and many electric and gas appliances.

The finance committee made some changes in the House bill on excises, the effect of which was to increase the revenue to be derived from these levies.

Appliances List Expanded

The biggest of these added vacuum cleaners, washing machines and garbage disposal units to the list of appliances on which the House imposed a 10 per cent manufacturers' excise tax. This would add an estimated $55,000,000 a year in revenue.

The net effect of the Senate committee changes in excises so far was to add about $36,000,000 in revenue to the House bill.

The senators will continue working on excises tomorrow. They are about half way through the list but already have taken up the items which produce most of the revenue.

Would Expire Dec. 31, 1953

Before it went to work on the excises, the Finance group had pared down the new revenue in the House measure by about $1,500,000,000. It had done this by voting for smaller hikes in corporation and personal income levies than the House approved.

In its work excises, the Senate committee accepted one House provision which would lose $104,000,-4000 annually as compared with present law. This was a section repealing the three and one-half per cent tax on sales of electric energy by private utilities.

The senators also voted to fix an expiration date for all the increases in excises—Dec. 31, 1953.

Gob Apparently Talks Way Right Back Into Navy

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—Frank Crozier, it appears, has talked his way right back into Uncle Sam's Navy.

After his discharge last week, Crozier protested the Navy made a big mistake last spring when it called him back to service. He said his reserve enlistment had run out and he was a civilian.

That set the Navy to digging into its records.

Today, the Navy admitted it made a big mistake all right—not in calling Crozier back but in letting him go.

The Third Naval District said the 25-year-old Yorktown Heights, N. Y., gob was legally recalled to service but illegally discharged later because of a mixup. In the eyes of the Navy, he's still in.

"The illegal discharge has been cancelled," a statement said. "At present Crozier is on inactive duty."

The Navy said Crozier signed "an extension of enlistment agreement" May 28, 1950, agreeing to remain in the reserves until June 28, 1954.

Climbing 1,000 MPH, Rocket Plane Reaches New Heights

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., Aug. 30 (AP)—A tiny rocket-powered plane has reached new heights, hitting a speed of around 1,000 miles an hour in its climb, the Navy announced tonight.

The exact altitude to which Test Pilot Bill Bridgeman took the Douglas Skyrocket was not made public. But the Navy's statement made clear it topped the accepted world's record of 72,394 feet set by U. S. Army Captains Orvil Anderson and Albert Stevens in a balloon between Rapid City and White Lake, S. D., in 1935.

The Skyrocket, with Bridgeman piloting, is the same plane which the Navy last month announced had gone faster and higher than any other aircraft. Figures were not made public at that time, either, but aviation experts conceded the craft had topped the 1,000 mph-plus credited unofficially to the experimental Bell X-1, and its 63,000-foot altitude.

This time the Navy said the 1,000 mph figure had been achieved while "climbing away from the earth," and Bridgeman had to go into a steeper climb to conserve his power for the altitude mark. When he "reached the planned altitude," the announcement said, Bridgeman "leveled off to obtain high speed performance data." What speed he achieved was not made public.

Dewey Receives Badge From VFW

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey (center) smiles as he receives a specially-prepared gold badge from Charles H. Ralls, Seattle, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mrs. Dewey watches the presentation. The governor, addressing the VFW at its national encampment yesterday in New York City, called on the free world to draw a definite Pacific defense line with a promise of "the same kind of bloody nose you got in Korea" to any aggressor who stepped across. Dewey suggested that the "stop communism" line run from the Arctic to New Zealand.

Report Squelched By Academy Head

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 30. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy, today said "no cadet found guilty and separated has been restored to duty, and there is no intention of doing so."

His statement was issued after Attorney Robert Daru told a New York City bar inquiry into the cribbing scandal that seven of the accused cadets had been "restored to duty."

An academy spokesman said yesterday that several Cadets whose names had cropped up during the academy investigation had been cleared. He did not specify whether these were among the 90 accused originally or others whose names were drawn into the inquiry.

Three Ex-Cadets Testify

He said at that time none of the 82 cadets who have left the campus had been recalled and restored to duty.

At the second day of a public hearing in New York City being conducted by the Committee on Justice of the New York Civil and Criminal Courts Bar Association, three of the expelled cadets testified.

They said they did not get hearings before the cadets' honor committee as provided by the honor code.

Coercion Is Hinted

A fourth cadet, George Madison McCullough, Siloam Springs, Ark., told the committee he had signed a statement for academy authorities under what he believed to be coercion.

The statement, he later told reporters, dealt with his participation in the alleged cribbing.

Daru told the justice committee today he had been asked to reveal his source of information concerning the alleged restorations but that he had declined.

Price Lid Taken Off Holiday Fruit Cake

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The government raised the canners' price of Alaska red salmon today and took the price lid off fruit cake for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

As a result of the orders the Office of Price Stabilization predicted:

Holiday fruit cake prices will be "slightly higher to consumers to cover higher costs of production," and

The six and one fourth cents a can increase for a one-pound can of salmon eventually will be passed on to the public.

Allied Position In Korea Strong, Truman Asserts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—President Truman declared emphatically today that United Nations forces in Korea are stronger than ever in case large-scale war is renewed.

He added he is 100 per cent behind Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's handling of the stalemated cease-fire negotiations.

A reporter asked at a news conference today whether the Allied position is stronger, in the event that full-scale fighting is resumed. The President's reply was: Certainly we are.

On other subjects, the President said:

1—The effort in Congress to cut his $8,500,000,000 foreign aid request by $1,000,000,000 is misplaced economy in a very serious situation. He said it is a pity to upset the whole applecart when the aid program is on the verge of success.

2—The case of William N. Oatis, AP reporter imprisoned in Czechoslovakia on spy charges, will never be closed, at least as far as the U. S. is concerned, until the newsman gets out of jail. This was his reply to a defiant statement yesterday by the Czech ambassador, Vladimir Prochazka, that the case is closed from a juridical point of view.

Russian Delegation Rents 'Frisco Estate

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30. (AP)—The Russian delegation to the Japanese peace treaty conference today rented a luxurious suburban estate, reportedly for three weeks—far beyond the time the meeting is scheduled to end.

The time of the lease may be significant, since the treaty conference is scheduled to last only from Sept. 4 to 8. The Russians are expected to try to stall and delay the signing.

A real estate firm which closed the deal insisted, however, the Russian lease ran only for 10 days. The company said the deal was closed with three Russians.

Herbert Hoover Calls For Return To Old Virtues

"Decay Of Integrity" In Public Life Cited

DES MOINES, Aug. 30 (AP)—Herbert Hoover appealed today for a return to the old virtues lest "the lights go out of America" because of "the decay of integrity and the rotting of patriotism" in public life.

The former President showed obvious concern over "disclosures of dishonor in high places" and "the frustration of Congress in groping for some sort of code of ethics which might protect the citizen from his own officials."

Accepts Iowa Award

However, he declared to thousands of state fair visitors in accepting an Iowa award for distinguished citizenship, right will prevail because "moral indignation is on the march again."

Hoover declared the nation is facing "a cancerous growth of intellectual dishonesty in public life," and commented:

"The practical thing we can do if we really want to make the world over again is to try out some of the old virtues that made this country.

"I realize that such suggestions will raise that cuss word 'reactionary'. But some of these old things are slipping badly in American life.

Group Pressures Hit

"And if they slip too far, the lights will go out of America, even if we win these cold and hot wars.

"There are group pressures which smell from both the decay of integrity and the rotting of patriotism. Dishonor in public life has a double poison."

Hoover was born at West Branch, Ia., 77 years ago last Aug. 10. The former President deferred his customary birthday address until today to make it coincide with acceptance of the award.

Italy Uses Phantom State To Dodge Pact

ROME, Aug. 30. (AP) — Italy is transferring her old warplanes to the soverign and military Order of Malta—a phantom state without area or population—to dodge peace treaty limits on her air force.

The order of Malta now has an "air force" one-fourth as big as Italy's as a result. Converted bombers are to be used as air ambulances by the order in one of its principal activities, the maintenance of hospitals and first aid to war injured.

The planes are based on Italian military air fields and are flown by Italian air force crews, paid by Italy. But, in addition to the Italian air force circle insignia on the wings, they now bear the big white Maltese cross of the order.

Fulbright Backs Truman

Charge Plane Dropped Flare Over Kaesong

Ridgway's Offer Still Unanswered

TOKYO, Friday, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Communists last night charged formally that an Allied plane dropped a flare over Kaesong Wednesday and demanded that the "culprits be severely punished."

The note, the latest in a series of Red charges that the Allies violated the neutrality of the Kaesong armistice talk site, was handed yesterday to a U. N. liaison officer at Panmunjom, east of Kaesong.

The Red officer, in handing over the note, also voiced charges that Allied armed personnel had violated the neutral zone.

No Allied Confirmation

The text of the note was broadcast earlier by the Peiping radio. It was signed by Lt. Gen. Nam Il, the North Korean who heads the Communist negotiating team. It was addressed to Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief negotiator for the United Nations command.

There was no Allied confirmation of the reported flare-dropping.

An earlier Peiping broadcast today charged the Allies with threatening to bomb Kaesong, where the armistice negotiations were suspended by the Communists Aug. 23.

The talks were halted following a Red charge that a U. N. plane bombed Kaesong Aug. 22. The top Communist leaders have continued to ignore a proposal Wednesday by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme U. N. commander, that the talks be resumed.

Ridgway's refusal to reopen an investigation of the alleged Aug. 22 bombing was described by the Reds as an attempt "to cover up the flagrant lies he has handed the world."

Economic Chiefs Ask "Workable" Controls System

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — Continued inflation and inevitable price increases in some cases were predicated today by top economic officials in pleading for a "workable" controls program.

"An absolute holding of the price line may not be possible; some cost increases are bound to occur," Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle told the Senate Banking Committee.

"I think we're going back to the same old thing of the dog chasing his tail and never catching it," said Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson. He added while "you can't stop" the inflationary trend, "you can slow it up."

Both witnesses urged the comcommittee to knock from the new controls act three provisions denounced by President Truman. These prohibit price ceilings that do not reflect business costs increases since Korea, permit customary percentage markups in wholesale and retail prices and ban the use of livestock slaughtering quotas.

The committee plans to hear more witnesses tomorrow, limiting its consideration to the President's request to erase from the law the three sections he doesn't like, and then recess until Sept. 10.

OPS Memo To Its Publicity Men Stirs Up Row In Capital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — A set of instructions in which OPS told its publicity men to avoid "excessive" use of such words as "controls" and "spending" stirred up a row today.

Rep. Boggs (R-Del issued a statement declaring the Office of Price Stabilization is "operating a gigantic propaganda mill to confuse and confound the American people." He said the instructions should be labelled "a lesson in government by deceit and dishonesty.'

Max R. Hall, assistant OPS director for public information, called Boggs' statement "wholly unjustified." He said the instructions contained nothing deceitful.

Boggs quoted an OPS instruction, entitled "Copy Problem No. 7", which said:

"Certain phrases and expressions, which in themselves are not objectionable, may be over used or come to have objectionable connotations among persons critical of OPS.

"Things to avoid:

"1. Excessive reference to controls and price control program.

"2. Reference to 'defense spending.'

"3. Positive statements that OPS has stopped or can stop inflation.

"4. References to the 'lull in prices.'

"5. References to 'extra money.' "

Bombing Cuts Rashin-USSR Railway Line

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — Railway lines that link North Korea with the Russion base at Vladivostok were cut by the Saturday bombing of Rashin, about 18 miles from the Soviet border, the Air Force reported today.

Basing its report on aerial photographs, the Air Force said the pictures also indicated heavy hits on Rashin's railway yards and the smashing of all rail and road communications south of Rashin.

Rashin was ruled out of bounds for American bombers early in the war, in orders from Washington to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. It was explained there was danger of involvement with Russia if a U. S. plane should mistakenly fly over or bomb Russian soil.

Last Saturday's raid, by B-29s, was the first since last August to hit the key transportation and port city. An Air Force spokesman said the city has been used as a stock piling and transhipment point for Red arms and equipment. He would not say whether more attacks are in store.

Senators Open Drive For New Aid Bill Slash

Debate Limitation Plan Is Approved

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — Eleven senators moved to slash an additional $500,000,000 off the administration's $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill tonight after President Truman sharply denounced an earlier billion-dollar cut.

As the Senate headed into a night session, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) quarterbacked a new economy drive in which two Democrats and eight other Republican senators joined him.

Urging others to support the move, Dirksen told the Senate:

"Americans can die by suicide — suicide by the fiscal (money) route."

Debate To Be Limited

After some further discussion, the Senate agreed to a debate limitation plan under which there may be a final vote on the bill late tomorrow.

The Senate will meet two hours early tomorrow, limit debate to half an hour on most amendments and then divide two hours of debate between backers and opponents on each of three issues:

1. An attempt by four Democratic senators to restore the total to the full $8,500,000,000 asked by the President.

2. The attempt by Dirksen and others to cut it a half million dollars deeper.

3. An effort by Sens. Aiken (R-Vt) and Moody (D-Mich) to atatch an authorization for the St. Lawrence seaway and power project to the foreign aid bill.

Smith, Thye Oppose New Cut

When all amendments are out of the way, the Senate then would have an hour for debate on final passage.

Dirksen said Sens. Byrd (D-Va), McClellan (D-Ark), Welker (R-Ida), Wherry (R-Neb), Malone (R-Nev), Case (R-SD), and Schoepel (R-Kans) were with him in offering an amendment for a new $500,000,000 cut.

But Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and Sen. Thye (R-Minn) argued against any further reductions.

"What we are doing here today is not aiding foreign countries but trying to insure the safety of the United States," Smith said.

Strike Probe Board Named By President

Panel Will Report Back September 4

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — President Truman invoked the Taft-Hartley Act emergency provisions tonight in an effort to end the nationwide copper strike.

The President appointed a board of inquiry to look into the circumstances of the walkout of 58,000 mine, mill and smelter workers and report back to him September 4. Under the law, Mr. Truman could ask for an injunction to end the strike as soon as he gets the report, but not until then.

Mr. Truman's defense mobilization lieutenants have declared the strike is hurting defense production, and that it is urgent production be resumed.

Seward Heads Panel

Mr. Truman appointed Ralph Seward, Washington, chairman, and Joseph L. Miller, Washington, and Allan Dash, Philadelphia, as members of the inquiry board. Dash has been a member of a special panel of the Wage Stabilization Board which investigated a similar strike of CIO steel workers at the Garfield, Utah plant of American Smelting and Refining Co.

The President acted while feverish eleventh hour negotiations were underway, aimed at settling the dispute at the Kennecott Copper Co., Salt Lake City, Utah.

The strike, which began last Monday morning, was called by the mine, mill and smelter workers, an independent formerly in the CIO. Members of a dozen AFL unions refused to go through picket lines, so that virtually all copper production has been cut off.

If the government gets an injunciton against the strike, after the inquiry board has reported. The injunction would be good for 80 days.

Besides Kennecott and American Smelting and Refining ,the companies named by the President in his order appointing the board are Phelps-Dodge Corp., Anaconda Copper Mining Co., the International Smelting and Refining Co., and scores of others in the non-ferrous metals industry.

AFL Organizer "Stunned"

H. B. Douglas, AFL organizer in the Kennecott negotiations, said that the unions and the company were "the closest to a settlement we have been, and we are very hopeful that we can reach agreement by tomorrow morning."

He added, however, that "we are stunned by action by the President which adds considerably to our difficulties."

Douglas disclosed that the negotiating meetings were put off until tomorrow morning to allow the company to obtain some cost figures from Salt Lake City by plane. On the basis of those figures, it may be possible for the company or the unions to yield on the fractional amount now separating them on wages.

The President's action was the first time he invoked Taft-Hartley in a strike since using it in the coal mine shutdowns of February, 1950. He has worked for the repeal of the act and has even been critical of the emergency provisions which he will now be using.

U. S.-Philippines Alliance Signed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The United States and the Philippines signed a new defense treaty today which President Truman welcomed as "a strong step toward security and peace in the Pacific."

The first of a series of formal agreements aimed at blocking Communist or other aggression in the Pacific, it follows the pattern of the 12-nation North Atlantic alliance by binding the U. S. and its former ward to "act to meet the common dangers" in event of an attack on either.

Mr. Truman, speaking at the close of a colorful 34-minute ceremony, termed the treaty a natural development of the Philippine-American partnership tested in World War Two. He pledged to Philippine President Elpidio Quirino that "we shall always be your friends."

From Quirino and Philippine Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo came predictions that the two-nation mutual defense compact eventually will be broadened into a general Pacific security alliance such as they have been urging for the past two years.

Bomber Crash-Lands

BRYAN, Tex., Aug. 30. (AP) — A B-25 light bomber crash-landed in a field near here today but the five crewmen were not seriously injured.

Elkton's Mayor Sticks To Guns

ELKTON, Md., Aug. 30 (AP) — Mayor Henry H. Mitchell today affirmed his contention some things the town council discusses shouldn't be put in the newspapers.

The council has been doing most of its business in secret executive sessions since Aug. 1, after Elkton's two weeklies printed a story the mayor told them to keep out.

"If they would just keep out of the paper these things that shouldn't be printed, there wouldn't be anything to it," the mayor said today.

He made his statement in reply to a protest by a spokesman for the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and chairman of ASNE's special committee on freedom of information, wrote the mayor:

'Perhaps there is some explanation that is not known to us. It can never be an explanation, of course ,that the city government simply dislikes the newspapers or that it objects to what a paper publishes. That battle was settled in the Constitution of the United States and in many court decisions since.

"Public business cannot be conducted behind a screen of secrecy; nor can any government official or body dictate to the press what it shall print.

"There are nations in which that system is used; we do not think you want Elkton compared with them."

London Girl Given Height In Candy

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—An 11-year-old London girl had the sweetest surprise of her life today. She was given a made-to-measure stick of candy—just as long as she is tall—four feet something.

Joyce Dickinson got it for being No. 6,039,196 attending the Festival of Britain. That meant the festival broke the record of the great exhibition of 1851, when 6,039,195 cash customers were admitted.

Bee Sting Is Almost Fatal To Md. Farmer

THURMONT, Md., Aug. 30 (AP)—Frank W. Warner, 60-year-old farmer of nearby Rocky Ridge, almost lost his life again today after being stung by a bee.

Warner has a rare alergy for bee stings that could cause death in a relatively short time if not treated quickly, explained Dr. M. Franklin Birely, his physician.

Warner was stung while working in a field near his home. He managed to summon his family before collapsing into shock. They immediately summoned Dr.Birely who pulled him through with stimulants.

L. A. Police Seek Ghostly Sniper

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30 (AP) —Police shook down a wide area today hunting a ghostly sniper whose third strike in three nights killed a young mother as she sat at a roadside stand munching a hotdog.

Nina Marie Bice, 25, fell off the stool dead last night, a .22 bullet in her head.

A bullet of the same caliber wounded another woman Monday night. The following night a .22 bullet broke a living room window in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Walter in suburban Norwalk, but hit no one.

Mrs. Lois Kreutzer, 21, Rivera, felt what she thought was a bee sting on her chest as she was making a telephone call in an outside booth near her home Monday night.

Ballistics experts today said the bullets apparently were made by the same manufacturer.

Scores of police and sheriff's officers began shaking down the area. All the shootings were within a radius of 20 miles. There were few clues. No one has reported seeing the gunman.

Bus Wreck Kills 29

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 30. (AP)—A bus rolled off a mountain road today between Kazerun and Bushire in Fars Province, killing 29 passengers and injuring 20 others, the newspaper Etelaat reported.

Marine Who Gave His Life To Save Buddy Is Honored

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—A slender young Marine corporal stood at attention today, his face an unreadable mask, while the Medal of Honor was presented to the mother of a comrade killed in action.

The medal winner, Pfc Eugene A. Obregon, 19, had given his life to save the corporal, Bert M. Johnson, also 19, during last September's assault on the ravaged city of Seoul.

Johnson stood beside his rescuer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter R. Obregon, Los Angeles, during the presentation ceremony in the office of Secretary of the Navy Kimball.

"I couldn't tell you how it made me feel," said Johnson, a soft-voiced youngster from Grand Prairie, Texas, after the ceremony ended. "I just knew that I wouldn't be alive if it had not been for Pfc Obregon. I thought for sure I'd had it."

Lt. Col. R. A. Churley read the citation:

"While serving as an ammunition carrier of a machine gun squad in a Marine rifle company which was temporarily pinned down by hostile fire, Pfc Obregon observed a fellow marine fall wounded in the line of fire. Armed only with a pistol, he unhesitatingly dashed from his covered position to the side of the casualty."

"Firing his pistol with one hand as he ran," the colonel continued, "he grasped his comrade by the arm with his other hand and, despite the great peril to himself, dragged him to the side of the road. Still under enemy fire, he was bandaging the man's wounds when hostile troops of approximately platoon strength began advancing toward his position."

"Quickly seizing the wounded Marine's carbine," the citation went on, "he placed his own body as a shield in front of him and lay there firing accurately and effectively into the hostile group until he himself was fatally wounded by enemy machine-gun fire."

Cruise Ships Collide

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Aug. 30 (AP)—Two cruise ships collided almost bow-on today in fog-curtained Chatham Sound, 29 miles northwest of this port

No one was reported injured in the grinding crash between Canadian National Steamships' Prince Rupert and Canadian Pacific Steamships' Princess Kathleen.

The Kathleen was badly holed while the Rupert reported she was slightly damaged. Force of the impact threw many of the 480 passengers on the two ships out of their bunks.

Charge Plane

quoted a Communist telepress correspondent identified as C. T. Sim as saying Kaesong residents "take this last American violation of the Kaesong neutral zone x x x as a threat to bomb the city and put an end to the peace talks."

"I was awakened by the zooming of the plane and saw the vivid glare of the flare as it floated westwards with the wind. Men of the conference staff house confirmed that the parachute flare was dropped by a B-26 just north of the conference site and the plane later circled back in the direction of the floating flare."

Cornell Wilde Divorced By Patricia Knight

RENO, Nev., Aug. 30 (AP)—Blonde, beautiful Patricia Knight, movie actress today obtained a divorce from her actor husband, Cornell Wilde.

The divorce was granted on the general grounds of extreme mental cruelty, the nature of which was not specified. Judge A. J. Maestretti approved a sealed property settlement.

Burlesque Patrons Yell "Take It Off"; Off Comes Plaster

UNION CITY, N. J., Aug. 30 (AP)—Burlesque patrons in the second balcony of the Hudson Theatre last night stamped their feet and shouted "take it off."

And off it came—the plaster from the ceiling—forty square feet of it.

"A Man's Best Friend"

John Wheeler

There was a friend of mine, a young lady, who got a job as a woman's page writer on the New York Evening Journal years ago, and naturally was anxious to make good. Some editors think a test of popularity is the mail attracted, so she consulted me as to how she could inspire her readers to spend money for paper, ink, and stamps.

"Why don't you do a piece about a dog?" I suggested. "Let's see. Turn out a strong dose on what an outrage it is to keep one in a New York apartment—it is unfair to both the owner and the animal."

She took my advice and shortly after the paper hit the street, the letters started denouncing her because she had no love for "man's best friend." In fact, many claimed their pets had much more intelligence than the writer, and several aimed their shots at the editor and made them so violent she pretty nearly lost her job. She squared the matter by publishing a subsequent article, swallowing her words syllable by syllable. All this proves the old adage—"love me, love my dog"—to be true.

Many newspaper editors recognize the sentimental appeal of canines. Old James Gordon Benett, who owned the New York Herald, had a pack of Pomeranians he carried around with him in a portable kennel, as well as a cow on his yacht to have fresh milk for the mutts and then for the guests and crew if any was left over. While being paid at space rates, it was a cinch to dope up a tear-jerking dog story and be sure to get it in the paper at $8 a column in those days.

Every time Captain Patterson of the New York Daily News had a reporter write a piece about a stray dog needing a home, the paper would get hundreds of offers. To satisfy readers, they would dig up several spares and distribute them around to make more persons and dogs happy.

He was also the publisher of Liberty magazine when I was filling in as editor, and he hit on the idea of running a contest offering as prizes your favorite breed for the correct answers. We split up the anatomies of greyhounds, setters, Pekingese, St. Bernards, etc., and strawed them around the pages; the idea being the contestants were to cut them out and paste them together to make whole dogs. We naturally got a lot of queer-looking specimens. As I recall it, there were to be 50 prizes which were purchased from kennels, and these were shipped in midsummer under very sad circumstances. Because of the delays and the heat, many of the animals arrived dead. Then we began to get telegrams denouncing us such as,

"We expected a live dog and you send a dead one. What do I do now?"

We placated our customers, waited for a cool spell, and carefully crated substitutes.

In my life, I have had many dogs but never one in the city. Once when a boy my mother got a fox terrier for my sister and me and had him "altered" as we used to say politely in Yonkers. He was the laziest critter I ever saw, lying around most of the time and sleeping. In those days, we had what was called a hot-air furnace, and the heat came up through open registers. When the wind blew, you could deep freeze a steer in one part of the house and roast him on the other side of it.

Well, this dog, which was probably called Rex, would swallow anything blind, and one night ate a yeast cake, tinfoil and all, the kind used to make bread rise. Then he settled himself comfortably on the hot-air register, and the dose worked on him the same as on dough. He began to swell rapidly, and we shoved him out of the door just in time. After that we kept the yeast cakes under lock and key.

Years ago, as a starry-eyed young reporter, I covered a trial down in Wheeling, West Virginia, where a lady was accused of poisoning her husband with doses of Fowler's solution of arsenic and sugar of lead. She had been looking over the fence, and carrying on a flirtation with a piano salesman. Somewhere the horse got his tail over the dashboard, so they decided to dispose of one angle of the triangle. The doctors treated him for everything from housemaid's knee to bubonic plague, and he got worse, because each time he asked for a drink of water, he got it garnished with the above ingredients.

One day their dog drank some of the dregs and took sick, too, which made the nurse suspicious, and the water was analyzed in time to save the husband's life. This shows it pays to keep a pet around the house if you are suspicious your wife may be poisoning you. Let him taste everything before you do. All this reminds me of Ring Lardner's suggestion of the best way to soothe a crying child or dog. Say,

New Sources Of Sulphur

Final dissipation of the present world shortage of sulphur is now expected by the end of the year 1953. One of the basic chemical elements, sulphur is indispensable in manufacturing and in agriculture. Defense requirements, piled on top of normal needs, have created a world deficit estimated by James Boyd, director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, at 1,000,000 long tons a year.

Half that deficit can be covered by sulphur to be extracted from a new deposit whose discovery was announced August 22 by the Freeport Sulphur Company. The company predicts that the deposit, at Garden Isle Bay in Louisiana, in the marshes of the lower Mississippi River delta, will be yielding sulphur at the rate of 500,000 long tons annually within the next two and a half years.

Another Freeport mining plant at Bay Ste. Elaine in Louisiana is to be completed in 1952. The Freeport company is building this plant on barges at Grand Ecaille, 75 miles away, to be floated to the unstable marshland site at Bay Ste. Elaine. Conservation measures and development of two other new projects, Stark's Dome in Louisiana and the Spindle Top mine in Texas, are expected eventually to furnish enough new sulphur to meet world needs at present levels of demand.

Sulphur, vital in the production of gasoline, is frequently found in connection with oil explorations. The dome at Garden Isle Bay was discovered by the Texas Company, which is producing oil from the flanks of the formation. Sulphur rights were leased from the Texas Company by Freeport.

With sulphur as with oil, shortage scares in the past have repeatedly been dissipated by new discoveries. Proved oil reserves in continental United States are larger today than at any previous time. This despite the great drain of World War II on American oil resources.

Sulphur is a strategic element not only in the production of munitions but also in the manufacture of fertilizers and insecticides. It plays a large part, too, in the making of rubber, rayon, paint, paper, and other materials.

Italy, Norway, and the United States are the three foremost exporters of sulphur in the non-Communist world. Italy and the United States are represented on the Sulphur Committee of the International Materials Conference which held its first meeting in Washington in March. Other members are Australia, Belgium (representing the Benelux nations), Brazil, Canada, France, New Zealand, Switzerland, the Union of South Africa and the United Kingdom.

The Sulphur Committee on July 11 announced that it had unanimously recommended to governments an allocation of available world supplies of sulphur for July-September 1951. Of total world production and stocks of 1,415,400 long tons, to be allocated outside the Soviet bloc, the share of the United States and Canada was 1,050,000 long tons. Outside its allocation, the United States was to export 250,000 long tons to other countries. Most other countries included in the plan—excepting Italy and Norway—would import most or all of their allocations.

The allocations were arrived at "by common consent of the members of the committee after careful examination of each individual case." The committee will recommend firm allocations for the last quarter of 1951 early in September.

Turkeys R In Season

It is one of the oldest of American customs to eat turkey at Thanksgiving time. There is no good reason, however, for not eating it the year round. It is not necessary to wait for a month with an R in it. And Americans are gradually waking up to this fact, according to the turkey growers.

Where only 10 per cent of Americans 15 years ago ever ate turkey except at Thanksgiving or Christmas, about 35 per cent do so now. The idea is catching on. But Americans eat only 5.3 pounds per capita of turkey in a year. That is three times what it was in 1930, but it's small compared to the 146 pounds of red meat they eat.

The turkey business figures to do a lot of expanding. Prices are more reasonable than formerly, especially in comparison with beef. Turkey and beef on the hoof now cost the same. In 1930 turkey cost more than twice as much.

One reason people formerly bought turkeys only for holiday feasts was that they were so hard to get rid of. The man who has been through the routine of turkey hot, turkey warmed over, turkey cold, turkey hash and turkey soup after Thanksgiving and again after Christmas can hardly be blamed if it takes him 10 months to work up a yen for turkey again.

But the turkey growers are doing something about that. For one thing, they have developed pygmy turkeys about half the usual size—no larger than a big roasting chicken. And they are teaching butchers how to cut and sell cut-up turkey. When a bird weighs as much as a lamb, why make people buy them whole? Nobody asks the customers to buy a whole lamb.

Other concessions to the consumer are helping to popularize America's traditional fowl. Boneless frozen fillets are begining to go on the market. Pin-feathers are being removed by a more efficient process. Transparent plastic packaging adds to attractiveness.

If this sort of thing keeps on, the industry may be surprised at the results. It is remarkable what can be done by regarding the consumer's convenience and preferences seriously.

A Lesson From The Sky

The American steel industry, progressive institution that it always has been, is not likely to let go unnoticed a report that comes from Dr. H. H. Nininger, director of the American Meteorite Museum in Arizona. According to Dr. Nininger there is something about a meteor which makes non-corrosive the tiny drops of steel alloy which it contains.

Globules of steel, for instance, which have been lying on the ground and exposed to the elements for as long as 50,000 years have accumulated a layer of rust that is less than the thickness of fine tissue paper. From these facts, Dr. Nininer assumes that the great metallurgical laboratories, by experimenting with these meteoric droplets, could "unlock their secret and find out what makes them non-corrosive."

In view of the economic damage for which rust is responsible, Dr. Nininger is not overstating the case when he says the discovery he has in mind would revolutionize the steel industry.

Childhood Insomnia

Sleeping sickness in children sometimes are so severe as to upset the best regulated households. Most parents try everything before deciding to consult the physician. The failure to do the right things often aggravates the condition and makes treatment more difficult.

The child may have trouble getting to sleep or with awakening at night, or both. More discipline frequently is the answer when this occurs to the boy or girl over 3 years of age. These rascals are testing the ability of the parents to set and adhere to a limit when they should go to bed. With younger tikes, other causes usually are responsible. In general insomnia revolves about the anxiety created through separation. The little one who is most likely to fuss when left alone has acquired a sense of insecurity. He realizes unconsciously his dependence upon the family and fears being deserted or unprotected during sleep. Unless corrected, a vicious circle is established because grownups also are robbed of sleep and the nervous tension that follows adds to the confusion and anxiety.

Insecurity is not the only cause and most physicians go into the subject more thoroughly before blaming this aspect. Examination is done initially to determine whether a physical ailment exists. Even adults would stay awake if they had pinworms, an irritating eczema, scabies, difficulty in breathing, or a dry nose. There also is a possibility that the sleeping quarters are not adequate or perhaps the apartment is noisy or stuffy. In some instances an uncongenial sitter is employed. When the quarters consist of only one room it is advisable to put up a screen and while the baby is going to sleep the lights must be dimmed and the radio or television turned off.

When the youngster suffers from a separation anxiety, the problem is more challenging and requires some work on the part of the parents. Dr. O. William Anderson of Seattle recommends that either father or mother stay with the child. The tot must not be led to believe that this is being done because fear exists. Calmness can be encouraged if the parent will sit and read, knit, or crochet. Nothing is said and the grownup remains for a little while after the infant falls asleep in case he awakens or has been playing 'possum. This matter of fact attitude may surprise the child at first, especially when he has had trouble for a long time. Sometimes junior will be satisfied if the door is kept open or a night light is left on.

A somewhat similar plan is followed with the youngster who awakens in the night. The parents should respond immediately and walk in quietly and unhurriedly. This attitude has a calming effect, particularly if it is accompanied by smoothing the sheet, patting the tot on the back, and giving him a good night kiss. Otherwise it may be necessary to sit for a short time until the youngster realizes that his protector is on the job. The fact that father or mother is not worried or angry will inspire confidence and relaxation. Ultimately, the anxiety of being separated disappears entirely and normal sleep habits are established.

LIKES THEM RAW

K. W. writes: Is there any harm in taking a small amount of raw potato every day?

REPLY

Not if it doesn't cause distress. Raw potatoes take longer to digest than cooked potatoes.

OLD WIVES' TALE

Mrs. E. writes: My girl friend and I each have three children. She gives her youngsters a laxative once a month and thinks I should do the same for mine. Is a monthly laxative needed?

REPLY

No. Your friend's idea goes back to the days of sulfur and molasses or a "good dose" of salts on Saturday night. The plan is not logical and is condemned because it is likely to upset the normal bowel habit.

FACIAL PARALYSIS

J. M. writes: What are the symptoms of Bell's palsy?

REPLY

Paralysis of one side of the face. The victim is unable to close the eyelid on the affected hide and since the muscles of the mouth do not function, it is impossible to whistle, smile, or show the teeth. The lips droop on the involved side and drooling is not uncommon because saliva cannot be held back.

FALLING TEETH

Mrs. T. writes. What causes me to dream every night about my teeth falling out?

REPLY

This dream is said to occur in individuals who grit their teeth at night. There is a possibility that the dream is associated with dread of having false teeth fall out in company or on special occasions.

THE MORNING DASH

Mrs. W. writes: My daughter is on a bland diet because of stomach discomfort but she doesn't seem to be getting better. I claim her indigestion is caused by taking nothing but coffee in the morning and hurrying to work. I am trying to induce her to get up earlier in the morning and eat a good breakfast but she prefers to sleep late. Don't you think I have a point?

REPLY

You certainly have. On the other hand, other factors such as nervousness and anxiety should be considered also.

FOOT DISORDERS

B. H. writes: Can athlete's foot cause Buerger's disease?

REPLY

Since the cause of Buerger's disease is not known, this possibility has been considered. Dr. Thompson of Yale did considerable research in an attempt to foster this idea, but it still remains in the realm of speculation.

SHE MEANT WELL

Mrs. L. writes: Recently I brought a primrose to a friend in the hospital. The next day her skin broke out and her physician asked her whether a friend or enemy had given her the plant. I feel terrible about this as I had the best of intentions. Will you please explain?

REPLY

Your friend is sensitive to primroses. Don't brood about it because you did not know of her allergy to the plant. Much of the folklore associated with primroses and hospitals is exaggerated because not many persons are susceptible to this beautiful plant.

Cracker-Box Strategists Fumble Civil Defense; America Must Face A New Concept Of War; We Have No Time Here For Fantasy

(Ed. Note — While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Millard Caldwell, federal Civil Defense administrator.)

WASHINGTON — While time is running out, the cracker-box strategists fumble civil defense.

Some of them know that air power at its best can stop only 30 out of 100 attacking enemy bombers. Yet they insist that more air power is the sole answer to protecting the home front.

Others blow hot and cold. One day they think the situation is so hopeless that civil defense could do no good. The next day, the world situation looks brighter, so civil defense is not needed.

Still others insist that retaliation is the answer. What we can do to the enemy blinds them to what the enemy can do to us. They forget the trigger for our retaliation will be a mass atomic attack on our own cities.

Then, another group, the ostrich thinkers, insist that no nation would dare attack this country, because nobody ever has, and besides we're too strong.

Some, bored with crisis after crisis, wake up now and then, say "it can't happen here," and doze off again.

The timid pin their hope on Russian backwardness and say, "that atomic explosion in Russia wasn't really the bomb."

While the pseudo-strategists grope in a smog of truth, half-truth and fantasy, time is running out. We stand in danger of war.

Too many seem unable to grasp the fact that we can lose a war. Their stock answers are: If it takes production, we'll outproduce the enemy. If it takes atomic bombs, we'll build bigger and better atomic bombs. If they hit us, we'll hit 'em harder.

These prevalent American beliefs are ingrained, basic but, unfortunately, stop short of an adequate answer to the sharp question sired by reality. They were incomplete by three things—Red imperialism, the global bomber and the atomic bomb.

This trio has forced on Americans a whole new concept of war. Today or any day, America itself can become a battleground. Civilians are the first targets in this new kind of war. If the enemy first smashes the home front, the military may have little left to fight for and less to fight with.

The Kremlin knows that our American home front must be knocked out quickly, if it is to be knocked out at all. For this reason, the first attack must be a grand slam using all the modern terror weapons.

Those who doubt the likelihood of war on the home front should heed what Representative Clarence Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, had to say on the floor April 9. He said: "If war comes—which God forbid—it will be fought in this country as well as abroad." General Vandenberg (speaking for the Air Force) said that "in spite of all our radar fences, our walls of shipping, our networks of communication and our clouds of interceptor planes, 70 per cent of the enemy planes carrying atomic bombs would get through. We might as well face that fact. Every center of production, every center of wealth and population and civilization would be devastated. We have only to look at the cities in Germany to see how the cities of America would look within one week after war started."

W. Stuart Symington, while chairman of NSRB, said "who can be a bigger fool than the fool who continues to fool himself, especially when his own existence is at stake." Those who will read the record must see where the 30-year pattern of Russian imperialism leads.

The retaliationists have an empty answer. To devastate Russian cities would not restore our own.

Unrealistic thinking has sapped our strength and robbed us of precious time. No American city is prepared to cope with an enemy attack. We must use our time wisely and well. There is no time for fatalism or fantasy.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The slow, clumsy machinery of the federal government isn't preventing the tragic loss of production every day now of one of the most vital of all the metals needed for the rearmament program — namely, copper.

Charges are heard that the Kremlin has moved in to impair our rearmament program on the home front while Congress is debating how to spend billions to stop communism abroad.

There are some suspicious circumstances connected with the strike which has shut down 95 per cent of the nation's production of copper. Persons who have been charged before congressional committees with being Communists are alleged to be playing a part indirectly in the strikes that are aimed at stoppage of production in strategic industries.

Strike Influencing Plausible

More than 100,000 workers are idle in the copper strike, and it seems plausible that, with the importance of copper production at this moment, influences which wanted a strike in order to curtail production were present somewhere in the background of this dispute.

The country knows very little about how Communists infiltrate unions here, as they do abroad. The vast majority of the American trade unions are free from Communist influence but even the best of them do not know sometimes when insidious efforts are made to tie up key in industries. It is relatively easy for some groups which want a strike to set in motion inside a union a factional dispute that can force the hands of the officers.

With all the investigating of Communist activities that has been done by congressional committees, very little has been directed toward the operations of Communists inside labor unions. This is largely due to the manner in which the loyal groups in most unions have made short shift of the disloyal. But it would probably be of great assistance to them if the congressional committees did expose some of the methods and means by which strikes are engineered by a key group of Communists.

In the case of the copper strike, the moves that may be made to end the strike, either under the Taft-Hartley law or by seizure, are likely to take time. The process whereby an injunction is obtained would take 10 days. Meanwhile, valuable tonnage of copper would be lost and the stockpile which the nation has accumulated for emergencies would be materially reduced. It has been hinted that the danger point would be approached.

The gravity of the situation is well understood at the Office of Defense Production. Serious consideration has been given there to various steps that might be taken to end the work stoppage. But it is conceded that the time that has to elapse will be costly in copper production.

Government Pleas Unheeded

The Wage Stabilization Board, which has had the dispute before it, has demanded that the union send its members back to work while the issues are considered but pleas from the government here have been of no avail.

The controversy revolves around the demand for a pay increase of about 20-½ cents an hour which is about 10 cents less than the original request by the union. The pay at present is from $1.31 an hour for service laborers to $1.62 for miners An increase of 20-½ cents an hour is in excess of the formula of a 10 per cent increase established by the Economic Stabilization Office. But the union leaders claim the Wage Stabilization Board has made a variety of rulings and that this one, if accepted by the board, would send the strikers back to work immediately.

Assuming that there is a basis for compromising the pay demands, it still doesn't solve the problem of how to avoid strikes while collective bargaining is in progress. Clearly Congress may have to pass restrictive legislation if any more strikes like that in copper should arise in the category of scarce commodities needed for the armament program.

They're Smearing Ike Now

WASHINGTON

The best proof of the terror inspired among certain groups of politicians by the mere name of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, is the simple fact that a flood of poison pen literature about the General is already pouring out. Occasionally it is useful to know the way the political sewers are flowing, and in this case it is particularly instructive.

A fair sample of the stuff being circulated is a pamphlet called the "Williams Intelligence Survey," published in Santa Ana, Cal., by a character who bills himself as "news analyst, lecturer, former counter-intelligence officer." Williams strikes his two keynotes in his first paragraphs, describing Eisenhower as a "carouser with Zhukov and other high Soviet criminals," and "the man most wanted by the Zionists to head the government."

From this start, the reader is plunged into a strange anti-Semitic nightmare dominated by the figure of Eisenhower himself, the "Zionist candidate," the "Red caterer," the ex-President of Columbia University. ("As you know," Williams remarks confidentially to his readers, "Columbia is in New York City, and virtually a ghetto institution, an incubator of proselytes and international Jewish revolutionaries.") According to Williams, Eisenhower is guilty of innumerable misdeeds, ranging from plotting to become a military dictator, to insinuating a left-wing Polish professor into the Columbia faculty.

"Is Eisenhower Jewish?" Williams at last asks himself. He answers with a qualified negative. But he adds sternly that we "dare not forgive the arch-criminals and morons of our own race, merely because they are led by the nose or bribed or driven."

Accused Of Complicity

Williams' pamplet is a fair sample of the cruder style of this special literature. But perhaps there is even more significance in the style that wears a thin cloak of normality indicated by avoidance of outspoken anti-Semitism), which is best represented by the 1951 "report" of a public group known as the Partisan Republicans of California. This curious manifesto lists Eisenhower, Gov. Earl Warren of California, and former Gov. Harold Stassen as the "three principal prospects which the Communists and New Dealers are trying to impose on the Republican ticket." It names Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Communist party as leading Eisenhower backers for the Republican nomination. It rehearses several of the Williams' charges—the Polish professor, hobnobbing with Zhukov, etc. It accuses Eisenhower of complicity in a "Soviet" plot to send American troops to Europe, which certainly puts Soviet foreign policy in an unfamiliar light and it reaches its low in the statement:

"Only God knows how many hundred of thousands of men, women and children were tortured and murdered by the Soviet criminals because of (Eisenhower's actions. The blood of these innocent victims justified Eisenhower's decoration by the Soviets."

Important Symptoms

The reason why it is now prudent to have this look into the sewers is, very bluntly, that the sewers are threatening to well up into our public life. Neither Williams nor the Partisan Republicans have any real importance in and of themselves. Yet they are symptoms of something very important indeed. We do not yet hear open anti-Semitism on the floor of the United States Senate. Yet the attack on Anna Rosenberg early this winter stank of concealed anti-Semitism. Gen. Eisenhower is not yet the victim of public attacks like those sketched above. Yet Sen. Joseph W. McCarthy's recent denunciation of Gen. George C. Marshall was an experiment in the same art form.

Worse still, the disgusting nonsense contained in these poison pen pamphlets—of which more might be quoted—is actually beginning to be accepted as sound political currency by outwardly respectable politicians.

When the Partisan Republicans accuse Eisenhower of "never opposing the treacherous policy of Harry Hopkins, Alger Hiss, Dean Acheson and Reds whose records show they served the interests of Stalin," they speak the language of 20 senators. In the past fort-night, these reporters have several times been solemnly told about Williams' professor canard, as a sinister incident dug up by Senate Republicans of the Taft group, which would surely block Eisenhower's nomination. Probably these senators are faithful readers of Williams.

The truth is that too many of the more conservative politicians of both parties, but particularly of the Republican party, are beginning to suffer from a milder form of the same vicious disease that shows itself in this poison pen literature.

Among the Republicans, the acknowledged leader of these men is Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, who is of course utterly free of the disease himself. Yet thus far Taft has accepted the support of the infected (both Williams and the Partisan Republicans are strong Taftites, by the way); and in the case of Sen. McCarthy, he has even seemed to encourage the infection for political reasons. No one has attacked Franklin Delano Roosevelt's delay in repudiating Communist support more bitterly than Sen. Taft. And the Senator now owes it to his own high character and great talents—indeed he owes it to the country—to repudiate and rebuke all manifestations of this spreading and menacing disease, both underground and in the Senate, in the sharpest and most emphatic manner.

Nehru's Fallacy

While Soviet Russia will send a delegation to the San Francisco Conference on the Japanese treaty, India will boycott the conference. Russia will use sabotage as a weapon; India uses the boycott. Russia will speak long and loud; India will give the identical impression by silence.

Both countries have the same aim and purpose, namely, to seal off Asia from the United States, to close the entire Continent of Asia, if they can manage it by diplomacy, intrigue, revolution or war, from European and American commerce, credits and friendship. The failure of the Harriman mission to Iran is part of this intrigue. The Revolutionary movements in the Philippines, Burma and Malaya are phases of this program.

Nehru is a Socialist and has always publicly regarded himself as such. We know from Professor Karl A. Wittfogel's testimony before the McCarran Committee that in 1929 he attended a Russian-directed Communist conference at Frankfort-am-Main. Most of those who attended were then Communists, although we may assume that some were invited for the impression that such a conference would make on them. We know from this little tile in a grand mosaic of intrigue that as early as 1929, Nehru had close relations with international communism. From 1945 to this day, Nehru has in many official acts indicated that those relations still exist and are cordial.

Otto Friedman, in his book, "The Break-Up of Czech Democracy," makes an interesting point which, while applied to Czechoslovakia, fits current India. He wrote:

"The philosophers of Czechoslovak democracy failed, because they believed that they could preserve the democracy and independence of their own country, whilst supporting, through their foreign policy and propaganda, the expansion of Soviet communism in other countries . . ."

Precisely that has been Nehru's diplomacy. He has been trying to purchase the independence of his country from Soviet Russia by acting as Russia's agent in the conquest, by diplomacy, of other Asiatic countries. That game has brought no benefit anywhere in Europe; there is no reason to believe that it can succeed anywhere in Asia.

One reason that India, as many countries in Eastern Europe, fears Soviet Russia but does not fear America, is that since Teheran (1943), this country has appeased Russia. Therefore, countries which joined up with us, as Nationalist China and Iran did, could not know at what point the United States would desert its friends, for the sake of appeasement, as Chiang Kai-Shek, as Singman Rhee, as the Shah of Persia have at times been deserted, even though eventually they may have been picked up again. Even our mixed and uncertain policy to Israel gives, to other countries, evidence of an undetermined policy, largely dominated by domestic considerations.

It is the opportunistic, day-by-day policy that our State Department has pursued since 1943 which gives cause to other nations to question the wisdom of risking their national existence on the exigencies of American activities in the international field.

India fears Soviet Russia and distrusts the United States. Therefore, India risks American displeasure while acting as the Russian broker. The fallacy of such a policy is obvious from the American standpoint; to an Indian it represents clever manipulation of two great powers by a small one.

Nehru can continue to pursue this course only as long as the United States does not get very angry over it. All we need to do is to adopt a pro-Pakistan attitude, withhold assistance and commercial favors from India and give them to Pakistan, and Nehru's world would collapse about his ears.

Unfortunately, such a realistic course will not be pursued by the State Department as long as Great Britain insists that Nehru should be placated lest he take India out of the British commonwealth.

So, again, as with Nationalist China, American policy is being decided by what the British insist upon as their necessities. This country cannot long measure its conduct or control its attitudes on this basis, for while this nation has a continent to defend, Great Britain hopes to save the vestiges of empire trade. The two purposes are not identical; in fact, they are in conflict. Many of our difficulties with other countries are the result of this conflict of purpose. It prevents the United States from fixing its own policy and determining the nature of its relations to other nations.

It will be interesting to see how the British handle this situation at the forthcoming San Francisco Conference.

Pravda Wants To Know Just When Lecturer Is Lecturing In Siberia

MOSCOW (AP)—Officials of a lecture bureau in Siberia who collected money for lectures that never should have been given have been handed "severe punishment," Pravda said today.

The charge, said Pravda, was "stealing state funds." But there was much more to it than that. The Pravda account went this way:

The Novosibirsk city prosecuting attorney recently became interested in finding out how certain lecturers from the lecture bureau were able to deliver four of five lectures on the same day in places separated by distances requiring several days' travel.

He was interested particularly in a certain lecturer billed as "professor Alferov." The professor, investigation showed, was not a professor at all, but a city engineer. Further, he never delivered any lectures and never collected any money for lectures. But just the same, the books of the bureau credited him with speaking in many parts of Siberia.

"It developed," said Pravda, "there were certain individuals in the lecture bureau who occupied themselves with forging documents on fictitious lectures which were never given."

The investigation continued, and there were "more shortcomings."

In addition to the fake lectures, the investigation showed there were some real ones, given by lecturers whom Pravda labelled "pot-boiler artists."

Particularly, Pravda was incensed by the lecturer who told his audience that a meteor which fell in Siberia was really a space ship, from the planet Mars. The story was that the "space ship" was wrecked. This story had caused quite a stir among the peasants several months ago, and they wrote to the newspapers wanting to know when the space ship could be expected to return. Pravda was pretty mad about the story then, too. In fact, it touched off this investigation.

Another lecturer added to the confusion by telling his audience, concerning the wrecked space ship, that "I agree with this only in part—I say it was not wrecked, but only bounced against the earth and flew back to Mars."

This wasn't all that was wrong about the Novosibirsk lecture bureau, either. There was another lecturer who presented himself as an expert on X-rays, vitamins, culture, the conduct of life on other planets, the science of teaching and stomach ailments.

"Such performances," said Pravda, "are all too typical of Novosibirsk."

The bride, who is being given in marriage by her brother, Eugene Park, is wearing a white slipper satin gown, fashioned with high neckline, long fitted sleeves and full skirt ending in a sweeping train. Apliqued lace flowers form a panel down the front of the gown. Her fingertip length veil is held by a matching lace Juliette cap. Completing her costume she is carrying a prayer book with white orchid marker and shower of satin streamers.

Her maid of honor is wearing a pale green chiffon gown with a matching bonnet style hat; while the bridesmaids' gowns are of pink chiffon and their headdress, Dutch bonnets. The little flower girl will be in a white satin frock with a wreath of rose buds in her hair. All are carrying nosegays of assorted flowers.

Both Mrs. Park and Mrs. Knippenburg have chosen blue costumes for the wedding, and will carry corsages of yellow roses.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and received his B. S. in mechanical engineering August 24 from West Virginia University. He is employed by Pratt Whitney, Hartford, Conn.

A wedding reception is being held in the church social hall following the ceremony. Flowers and a tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom will carry out the bridal motif.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

As a boy growing up in Washington, he wrote for the school paper at Central High, was head of the debating team, and got the nickname of "Speed" . . . He's been admitted to practice law in the District Court of the United States and the United States Supreme Court . . . With Hopalong Cassidy, J. Edgar Hoover, the No. 1 G-Man, shares a pedestal in the mind of every small boy in America . . . Grown-up Americans feel he's worth 50 times every dollar he is paid by the American people.

And even critical politicians feel the Federal Bureau of Investigation is better operated, better organized, better staffed, most free from inefficiency, waste and disloyalty than any other government department . . . That's quite a record!

AUSTINE

Americanism On Trial

By JOHN EDGAR HOOVER
Director Federal Bureau of Investigation
United States Department of Justice

All eyes were fixed on the speaker. She was a young lady, neatly dressed. Her voice was clear and loud, echoing and re-echoing through the hall.

This was a Communist women's meeting. The speaker had been a delegate to an international Communist conference. Now she was home telling her experiences to fellow Communists.

J. EDGAR HOOVER

She was enthusiastic, bubbling with energy. Time after time she denounced American policies, praised Communism and upbraided those who disagreed with the party line. Everything was wrong in the United States; everything right in Communist countries—typical Communist harangue.

• — • — •

Then she paused, her brown eyes narrowing. She took a sip of water and in a voice, rather low but charged with feeling, commented, "You know, comrades, I was never embarrassed to be a Communist, but I was embarrassed to be an American woman."

This statement lays bare, in the most ugly fashion, the thinking of the Communist—he has absolutely no loyalty to America. This woman is a native-born citizen, educated in American schools, protected by the American flag. She has prospered and enjoyed life in this country. Yet, she is ashamed to be an American! Nothing, to my mind, could be more foul and despicable. Here is communism stripped inside out—exposed as a treacherous conspiracy dedicated to the destruction of everything we hold dear.

• — • — •

A Communist cannot be an American—one excludes the other. There are some persons, most admittedly, befuddled by Marxist-Leninist double talk, who have proclaimed communism as "twentieth century Americanism" or as "improved Americanism." This is nonsense, sheer and absolute. Even the Communists themselves, deep in their own hearts, do not accept this point of view. The young Communist woman, in her enthusiasm, betrayed her true feelings—she was ashamed of being an American! Why? Because she, like all Communists, realizes that as long as true Americanism—belief in justice, honesty and fair play—reigns in this nation, they cannot succeed in their evil designs.

• — • — •

What happens when communism takes full charge of a people's destiny? The newspapers, radio and television proclaim the answer every day: suffering, misery, destruction, imprisonment and death.

Communism, in many areas of the world, has blighted freedom and mercy. The challenge is inescapable: either communism or free government.

Our answer must be—"more Americanism." The practice of free speech, democratic elections, freedom of the press, is America's best reply to the Communist challenge. If communism can destroy free government, free government, in turn, can eliminate the Communist virus. To be lethargic, uninterested and inert, will enable the Red Fascists to penetrate our freedoms; to be alert, wide-awake, on our toes, will force the Communists to retreat.

"I was embarrassed to be an American"—the woman boldly bragged. She is ashamed of the traditions of Washington and Lincoln, Franklin and Jefferson. Her soul has been captured by the devilish hates of Lenin and Stalin; her birthright of freedom has become a badge of dishonor. That, in words shocking and disconcerting, is America's challenge today.

This Communist hymn of hate must be answered — America's women can help in this great endeavor. "I am proud to be an American"—in this spirit we shall be victorious.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

A round face will never have a full-moon look, if these four quick ways to counteract it are used!

If your figure's line is that of a butterball and your face is that of a full moon, you probably have little sympathy with the artist's claim that curved lines are the most pleasing. Probably your life's crusade is straightening out curves.

And that's something the artist is a whizz at! To counteract a round line, says the artist, just cut across it with a straight vertical or diagonal line! When you do, the round line loses much of its roundness, and it even appears smaller.

Lines That Remodel

So when your goal is to diminish the roundness of your face, here's what to do:

1. Wear hats with medium-high, boxy crowns and diagonal brims. Immediately your face will appear longer and less circular.

2. For the same reason, wear V or surplice necklines, pointed or sharp-notched collars, necklaces that drape on the throat (not the chest) in a low V. Choose upward winging earbobs.

3. You can further attenuate your facial curves by arranging your hair to give height at your forehead. Sleek upward lines at the temples, soft waves set on the diagonal, moderate fullness behind the ears and on the neck in brushed-out curls are right for you.

De-Curving Make-up

4. Your make-up will be artfully applied when you square off the curves of your mouth in applying lipstick; encourage your eyebrows by penciling, brushing and cautious tweezing to slope up to a peak above the outside corners of your eyes, descending gradually to a point above and just beyond the eye sockets.

5. An extra trick for those who wear glasses lies in making sure that the bottom rim runs diagonally across the cheek and that the rims' general outline is angular.

Since you can remodel your face so successfully with a few verticals and diagonals, think of what you can do for your figure by using the same principles in choosing the lines fo your clothes!

P. S. from J. R. P.
GLASSES THAT ADORN

Wear your glasses as a smart accessory. Choose rims that are the most interesting shape for your face. This special leaflet is yours for the asking. Write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Shupe To Head UDF Drive In Rural Allegany County

Harry G. Shupe of Frostburg has been named chairman for the United Defense Fund (USO) for the county area outside of Cumberland, it was announced yesterday by Judge George Henderson, state leader.

Shupe was county chairman for the National War Fund campaign during World War II when $20,000 was raised outside of Cumberland. He is a past president of the Frostburg Rotary Club and is associated with Rep. J. Glenn Beall in the insurance business. Shupe has also been active in various Frostburg affairs and played an important part in the campaign to raise funds for the expansion of the Berkowitz pajama plant.

Allegany county's quota for United Defense Fund is $9,560, and this amount has been included in the Cumberland Community Chest goal. Whatever quotas are determined for the various towns in the county will be credited against the total combined with the Chest.

The campaign in the county will be conducted simultaneously with the Chest drive in Cumberland so as to make the effort as easy as possible through use of the same office, publicity and organization.

Judge Henderson also stated that the response from other communities and counties throughout the state is very encouraging. Annapolis, Perryville, and Salisbury, in addition to Baltimore City, have accepted their quotas and will also include the United Defense Fund with their local Chest campaigns. Other places have been contacted and a favorable response is expected.

Shupe will set up a county-wide organization with community chairmen and committees in all the towns. Meetings of these groups will be held early in September so that there will be a united effort throughout the county to raise the funds to support the essential services given to the armed forces, the USO and the other agencies which make up United Defense Fund.

Taverns Face Possible Loss Of Licenses

The operators of two taverns on the McMullen Highway were served with papers yesterday ordering them to appear before the Board of License Commissioners of Allegany County on September 18 at 10 a.m. to show cause why their licenses should not be suspended or revoked.

The orders, signed by Walter C. Capper, board chairman; Stanley Hamilton and Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., board members, cite the operators to appear to show cause why their license to sell alcoholic beverages should not be suspended or revoked for violations of the rules and regulations of the board.

Capper said the two licensees were cited on information furnished the board by two inspectors for the board.

The board cited two reasons for calling the two women before the board. The first charge is failure to clear tables of bottles containing alcoholic beverages before 1 a.m. while the second charge is that they are operating places in such a manner as to be a menace to the peace and safety of the community. It was stated in connection with the second charge that the two licensees habitually permitted large numbers of customers to have glasses and bottles containing alcoholic beverages on the tables after 1 a.m.

Drivers Urged To Be Careful; School To Open

Safety on the city's streets is the aim of the Cumberland Police Department as thousands of children return to school next week.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long has issued the following statement:

"As vacation ends and school begins, death once more stalks the streets where students cross. So once more we ask your cooperation.

"As last year, traffic crossing lines have been painted and Chief of Police R. E. Flynn will assign every available man to hazardous street intersections at school starting and ending times.

"Cruiser cars are assigned to school districts with specific orders to control speeding and stop reckless driving.

"It is not at all far fetched to say the difference between life and death for some child in Cumberland is only as great as the attention we give them.

"Now that our children are starting back to school, drivers need constant reminders that any laxity in safe driving habits near schools must be corrected immediately. Here are four good rules for driving near schools:

"1—Drive slowly: Be double sure you are in control of your car.

"2. Observe signs: Heed signs warning you where school traffic is especially heavy. Obey the signals of the special guards at crossings.

"3. Note the time: Watch out for peak school traffic periods.

"4. Check your car: take a little time now to have the mechanical condition of your car carefully checked. Don't let bad brakes, faulty steering or lazy windshield wipers undo your careful driving. A little effort on your part and cooperation with the Police Department will pay tremendous dividends. We hope that you feel the safety of our children is worth that effort.

"Be careful! The child you save may be your own."

Col. E. F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, warns motorists to "expect the unexpected from children."

Col. Munshower said in addition to such travel as private automobiles, bicycles and walking, 1,299 school buses will be operated in Maryland.

"Motorists who ignore the law requiring a full stop when meeting or overtaking a bus while it is loading or unloading risk an arrest for reckless driving," he said. He added that motorists should assume more than their legal responsibility at all times and places to compensate for youthful indiscretion.

In pointing out that 1950 saw 93 young people of high school age and below killed in Maryland traffic with another 3,530 injured, Col. Munshower reminded drivers that the vicinities of schools and playgrounds as well as all residential districts were danger spots and that it was imperative to drive at slow speeds and be prepared for a sudden stop.

Col. Munshower had a word of praise for the several thousand youths composing school-boy patrols who will give freely of their time and efforts to protect their schoolmates both on foot and in buses.

Pre-School Dental Check-Up Urged By Health Department

As part of the program to prepare children for the new school term starting next month and to reduce absenteeism after classes start, the Allegany County Health Department yesterday urged a dental check-up for children.

The department also called attention to a statement by Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of the Division of Dental Health for the State Health Department. Dr. Leonard declared:

"Regular attendance is essential to progress in school. Accordingly, prevention of conditions known to necessitate absence from school is always desirable.

"Decaying teeth, probably the most prevalent human disorder, are known to be a tremendous factor in school absenteeism. Since aching teeth are not conducive to study, or to participation in other school activities, they may seriously affect the degree of success that a child can attain in classroom work. Children should enter school each fall with the assurance that they have no defective teeth or other mouth ailments, and periodic rechecking during the academic year is also advisable in order to prevent needless pain and absence from school.

"But dental defects are not limited to school children. Preschool boys and girls, even those as young as two or three years of age, are often the victims of tooth decay. Nor does completion of schooling end the incidence of mouth ailments. Throughout life the teeth and mouth need continuing consideration and care in order to maintain good oral health.

"Regular visits to the family dentist should be supplemented by proper home care of the teeth. Adequate care includes the thorough cleansing of the teeth at least twice daily, one of these brushings to be carried out just before going to bed at night. Foods known to be factors in producing decay, especially excessive quantities of sweets, should most certainly be avoided."

Panel Will Recommend Pay Ceilings For Entertainers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has set up a three-man committee to recommend pay ceilings for such entertainment figures as Hopalong Cassidy, Clark Gable and Dagmar.

The panel is to confer privately with people in the business and talent ends of the movies, radio, television and stage, and come up with a report to the Salary Stabilization Board.

Up to now that agency has generally permitted show business to stick to normal pay practices, but board approval is required for unusually high salary increases.

Applications to the board are kept secret but it is known that Dagmar, TV's statuesque blonde, has asked an okay for a sizable pay boost.

The committee is supposed to suggest rules to prevent fancy salary increases which might tend to be inflationary. Named as chairman was Roy Hendrickson, former Agriculture Department official. Other members are two former motion picture officials, Philip F. Siff, and Neal Agnew.

The salary board has another committee drafting rules for salaries paid baseball, football and other professional sports players. Still another group is drafting standards for bonus payments of company stock.

Generally speaking, the salary board has jurisdiction over the professional and executive type of employes, while the Wage Stabilization Board makes wage limits for the bulk of the nation's workers.

MANDAN, N. D., Aug. 30 (AP) — Lightning fast on the draw?

Town Marshal Jailed On Contempt Charge

SEYMOUR, Mo., Aug. 30 (AP) — The law in Seymour is in jail.

Its City Marshal, James H. Hamblin is serving a 10-day contempt of court sentence in the Webster County jail at Marshfield. It was imposed by Police Judge J. S. Holmquist.

Asked by newsmen about the specific charge against Hamblin, Judge Holmquist replied:

"Just general. He's in contempt of court all the time."

By way of further explanation, the judge said the marshal "abused me, tried to whip me and even let fellows out of jail and never let them come before me."

Tempting Swedish Dishes

We all like to hear about how other peoples live, what they do and, of course, what they eat. It usually makes us want to pack up and go to see for ourselves. But if you can't get away just now, you can at least enjoy at home some of the good foods they serve in Europe.

At this time of the year, nothing could be more tempting than a Smorgasbord set-up the way they do it in Sweden. In fact, if you try our recipes for today, you will certainly want to sample more of this typical Swedish cooking over in Stockholm. That city, by the way, is well-worth a visit. It is an interesting mixture of the old and new Sweden. Modern apartments and public buildings such as the City Hall contrast with the gabled houses, medieval churches and the magnificent Royal Palace in the old city; many boats, small sailing craft and ocean-going ships jostle one another in harbors and inlets. All these are mirrored in the ever-present sea which virtually surrounds and extends into the heart of the city.

When setting up a real Smorgasbord, remember that it should be eaten in courses like any other meal; that is, start with fish, continue through meats, egg dishes, vegetables and finish with cheese before serving dessert. Sprinkled throughout these courses are the "small hot dishes", which should only be eaten in very small portions. Of course, the Smorgasbord can be adapted to family meals as well as entertaining...you can cencentrate on few or even one delicious dish.

Herring is the star of the Smorgasbord. With this you might serve pickled cucumbers and one or more "little hot dishes." Several authentic Swedish recipes follow.

Herring Salad

2 5-ounce jars herring, diced or herring tidbits (in vinegar); 5 to 6 medium potatoes, peeled and boiled; 2 medium apples, peeled and diced; 1 medium onion, peeled and minced; 1 small dill pickle; Salt to taste; ½ teaspoon pepper; Vinegar or vinegar from pickled beets; 2 tblsp. sugar; Dill pickles; Parsley; Lettuce; Hard-boiled eggs.

Drain herring and reserve vinegar. Mix herring, potatoes, apples, pickle and onion, and toss thoroughly. Add the reserved vinegar, salt, pepper and sugar. Add more vinegar and seasoning to taste, if needed. Pack into 1½-qt. greased mold and chill 1 hour or more. Unmold on large plate. Garnish top with dill pickles and parsley and surround with lettuce, sliced hard-cooked eggs, and sprigs of parsley. Serve with cold beet sauce. 8 to 10 servings.

Beet Sauce

½ pt. heavy cream; ¼ tsp. salt; 1 tblsp. sugar; ½ cup minced pickled beets; 1 tblsp. beet vinegar.

Jansons Temptation

6-10 anchovies; 4-5 average size raw potatoes; 1-2 yellow onions; 2-4 tblsp. butter; 1½-2 cups cream.

Clean and bone anchovies. Peel and cut potatoes in strips. Peel and slice onions. Grease a shallow baking dish. Put in one layer of potatoes, the onions, then anchovies and the remaining potatoes. Dot with butter and sprinkle with anchovy sauce. Place in medium oven. After 10 minutes pour on a little of the cream and return to oven. After another 10 minutes pour on rest of the cream. Return to oven until ready (45-60 min. in all). 4 to 6 servings.

Inglada Gurkor

(Pickled Cucumbers)

2 to 3 cucumbers; 1 cup sugar; 1 to 1½ cups vinegar; pinch of salt and pepper; Garnish: 1 to 2 tblsp. finely chopped parsley.

Peel cucumbers and slice thinly. Make a brine of sugar,vinegar, and condiments and stir until sugar melts. Pour it over the cucumbers and chill in refrigerator a couple of hours before serving. Then sprinkle generously with the parsley and serve crisp and cold.

Filled Bacon Rolls

Filling can be anchovies, shrimp, calf or chicken liver, pieces of frankfurters or mushrooms, cream cheese, mussels or smoked oysters.

Put filling on bacon strip. Season to taste with salt, pepper and grated onions. Roll bacon and hold together with a toothpick. Grill, broil or fry in sizzling fat until crisp. Change toothpicks for new ones and arrange on large grapefruit, orange, melon or red cabbage, or simply pile in serving dish. Small crisp-fried pieces of white bread could be put on the same picks. Serve immediately.

Franks And Mushrooms

6 frankfurters; 4 tomatoes; butter; grated cheese.

Cut up franks in small slices, (fry, grill or broil slightly). Arrange in greased baking dish. Make a mushroom cream sauce and pour over the franks. Top with sliced tomatoes, sprinkle the dish with grated cheese and dot with butter. Grill 15-20 minutes until the top is golden brown. Serve immediately.

Anchovy Appetizer

Anchovies; raw yellow onion; 1 or 2 hard-cooked eggs; butter, seasoning.

Chop ingredients and stir together with utter in frying pan for a few minutes. Serve warm or hot with bread and butter.

Under weak moonlight, the human eye can distinguish a black automobile almost as easily as it can pick out a white one. Reason is that in such lighting, when there is only 1-1000th of a footcandle of light, the human eye loses its only color discrimination, and sees only silhouettes.

Sandwich Ideas To Go With Call Of School Bell

September! With school doors opening again it means to many mothers the beginning of months of planning and preparing lunch box meals—meals which must be well rounded to satisfy children's hearty appetites and provide them with the nutrients needed for busy days.

The Earl of Sandwich probably never dreamed of the popularity and wide use of his invention; however, today sandwiches are the basic food of most lunch boxes. With five days a week of planning, the homemaker must tax her repertoire in order to introduce a variety of sandwich fillings.

Dinner might well be planned with school lunches in mind. Left-over roast is perfect for slicing, grinding or chopping for various fillings. For instance, chopped roast pork may be combined with chopped apple and seasoned with a suggestion of ginger. This combination, as most others, is moistened with mayonnaise. Another nutrition-packed filling is made of ground cooked liver with a bit of crisp chopped bacon and minced onion. Baked beans, also from dinner, may be mashed and added to bacon for a happy surprise in the lunch box.

Ready-to-serve Braunschweiger or frankfurters may be chopped and combined with hard-cooked egg, minced onion and prepared mustard. To be kept in mind for breaking monotony are double or triple deck sandwiches. One triple combination is made up of a layer each of crisp bacon, jelly and cream cheese.

Tomato Tempter

Scalloped tomatoes make a really appetizing dish for summer meals and a bit different way of using the plentiful garden product. You may use 6 fresh, skinned tomatoes, or 1 quart of cooked and drained tomatoes, depending on which you have on hand. Place a layer of tomato in a greased baking dish, add salt and pepper and then a thin layer of bread crumbs. Add butter cut into tiny pieces and put on the top of the crumbs. Now add another layer of tomato and proceed until the materials are used. Bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven (350-400F.) and serve in the baking dish. To give this dish the perfect touch, grated cheese may be added to each layer, or used as a delicious topping for the final layer.

Before the development of rubber erasers, many people used bread-crumbs to wipe off penciled mistakes.

Western Buffet Salad

Salad making may be considered an art by some authorities—but it certainly is an art that should be mastered by all smart cooks. If you're entertaining try this tempting platter of fresh fruits and let each person help himself. Served at a bridge luncheon or at a patio dinner, this salad is guaranteed to bring lots of compliments and can be made by even the most amateur salad artist. California Velencia oranges form the basis of this refreshing salad plate—they combine beautifully in color and flavor with the other fruits, forming a delightful dish. To make this salad, peel six or seven flavorful oranges—slice each orange crosswise, forming cart-wheel-like slices, arrange a row of these slices diagonally across a large square platter—then arrange another row from the other two corners, having the two lines of orange slices cross in the center. This will form a large X of oranges on the platter. Within each of the vacant sections, place one other kind of fresh fruit. For instance, we used tangy fresh grapefruit segments, berries for a contrast in color, mellow rich bananas, and attractive melon balls in various parts of the plate. Add an edging of endive or parsley and you'll have a stunning buffet fruit plate.

Toffee Squares

- ¾ cup lard
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 8 to 12 ounces chocolate chips
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Cream lard and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and blend. Add vanilla. Sift flour and salt together and add, mixing thoroughly. Spread batter on ungreased pan 10 x 15 inches. Bake in a moderately hot oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes. Top with chocolate chips, melt in oven 5 minutes. Spread chocolate, sprinkle with nuts. Cut while warm. Yield: 40 cookies.

Summer Special Barbecue Chicken Cranberry Sauce

Barbecued chicken and cranberry sauce for dinner tonight! A wonderful menu! Chicken and cranberry sauce are just about the best buys on the market today. As far as the family's concerned, foods don't come any better.

But, you say, we don't have a barbecue pit. Well, neither do we but we barbecue chicken right in the kitchen . . . carry it picnic style to the front porch and have ourselves a barbecue dinner in the easiest manner. There's cranberry sauce to go with the chicken course, a spicy sauce which gives the meal some zip. There's a crispy tossed vegetable salad with the family's dressing served on the side. Some chips, buttered rolls, iced tea, and chilled fruit for dessert. This is how we fix our barbecued chicken spiced cranberry sauce . . .

Barbecued Chicken . . . Oven Style

1 (3 to 3½ pound) frying chicken, cut in pieces for serving
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
½ cup melted butter or margarine
¼ cup lemon juice
2 teaspoons tomato paste
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
Dash of garlic powder (optional)

Sprinkle chicken with monosodium glutamate. Let stand 15 to 20 minutes. Mix remaining ingredients for sauce.

Dip pieces of chicken in sauce and arrange in heated shallow baking pan. Bake, uncovered, in moderately hot oven (400° F.) for an hour or until tender.

Serve with . . .

Cranberry Grape Relish

With fork, break up contents of 1 can chilled whole cranberry sauce. Add 1 teaspooon grated orange rind and ½ cup seedless grapes, cut in half.

Cranberry Pear Relish

1 pound can whole cranberry sauce
1 or 2 fresh pears, cored, peeled, and diced
½ lemon, put through food chopper rind and all
1 teaspoon powdered ginger

Combine ingredients and let stand in refrigerator for several hours to let flavors blend.

Cranberry Grapefruit Salad

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 pound can jellied cranberry sauce
3 grapefruit, sectioned
¾ cup almonds, halved

Here's "Family Reunion" Loaf For Labor Day

With the Labor Day holiday, picnic baskets will be filled for one final time before being put away for the winter. For many, Labor Day may mean a backyard picnic. In any event, this "Family Reunion" ham loaf will fit the role.

Serve it hot if it's to be carried from the kitchen range to the backyard—cold if it's to be packed in the picnic basket. In the latter case, serve with potato chips and mixed vegetable salad. If on the lawn, you may want to bake the meat mixture in a ring and serve centered with a hot vegetable. In both cases, include French bread and a dessert of plump fresh peaches and chocolate fudge cake.

Family Reunion Ham Loaf

Combine all ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Pack into two 5x9 inch loaf pans and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for two hours. Serve hot or cold.

TEEN-TEMPTERS — To all the teen-agers and "un-teen-agers" going on a picnic, we suggest this novel dessert which is not only taste-tempting and easy to pack, but is also very quick and easy to make. The cake itself is a simple, inexpensive one-egg recipe, the frosting can be mixed in a jiffy and is broiled right on the cake. The result is delightful combination of a light fluffy orange spice cake with a crunchy broiled ambrosia topping.

Make Plans Now For Ripe Peach Jamboree

DINER'S DELIGHT

Here is a jam that you can bring out when the boss comes to dinner, with confidence that he will enjoy it. This jam is so easy to make there is no need to save it for special occasions. Serve it with whole wheat muffins for a treat that is bound to please.

PEACH WALNUT JAM

4 level cups diced Freestone peaches
1 package powdered pectin
6 cups sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon
½ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup chopped maraschino cherries.

Measure sugar in a dish to be added later.

Measure the crushed fruit and mix with lemon juice. Add pectin, grated lemon rind, walnuts, and maraschino cherries. Mix well and bring to a boil as rapidly as possible. All the measured sugar and bring to a full rolling boil. Boil for four minutes. Remove from heat and stir and skim by turns for five minutes. Pour into glasses which have been washed in hot soapy water, rinsed and sterilized. Seal. Makes about 10 glasses.

ALL-PURPOSE PRESERVE

PEACH ORANGE JAM

History Of State House Is Illustrated In New Booklet

A new brochure, Maryland's Historic State House, has been published by the Maryland Department of Information at Annapolis. This descriptive booklet contains a detailed history of the building and was written by Dr. Morris L. Radoff, state archivist.

Among the very fine prints, which make this booklet one to be treasured by every Marylander, are: the Old Senate Chamber where Washington resigned his commission to the Centinental Congress of the United States; portraits of Charles Carroll, William Stone, William Paca and Samuel Chase, the four Maryland signers of the Declaration of Independence; the houses of the Legislature; the Executive Reception Room; an inside view of the Dome; and, an exterior view of the oldest State Capitol in the nation in use today.

The last pages of the new publication contain a history and picture of the Old Treasury Building, which stands on State Circle, next to the Capitol. It is the oldest public building in Maryland and one of the oldest in the nation. This building was restored in 1949-50, which from 1735 housed many departments of State Government.

Lack Of Rain Cuts Hampshire Peach Production By One-Third

The peach crop in the nearby Hampshire County, W. Va., fruit belt has been cut one-third to one-fourth by lack of rain during the late development state of the fruit.

R. L. Sumner, manager of the Mountain Fruit Sales, Inc., a large cooperative with headquarters in Romney, said that the early apple crop will also suffer unless rain does not fall soon. The size .. peaches is smaller this year, he said.

The drought has cut into area food production and R. H. McHenry said that corn especially needs moisture.

Pasture land is drying up along with the general vegetable crops, but McHenry asserts that a heavy rain in a few days would work wonders.

In peach growing, the dry weather has had some beneficial effects. Sumner reported the lack of rain has resulted in remarkable lasting qualities for the fruit being marketed.

Also brown rot, which will cut a peach crop considerably if aided by wet weather, has been retarded greatly.

Sumner said the million-dollar peach crop from Hampshire County is being marketed in the area formerly served by the Illinois and Michigan orchards.

Peach trees in the Chicago trading section were badly damaged by cold weather last winter and this summer there are not enough peaches for a commercial crop.

The Elbertas are moving into the markets with prices holding up from $2.50 to $2.75 per bushel for U. S. No. 1 varieties. Smaller peaches are bringing a dollar less, Sumner added.

The apple production this year is expected to be high, but Sumner said rain is needed to fill out the fruit.

Police Ball Work Begins

Although the 29th annual ball of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association is four months away, work began yesterday.

Austin L. Warnick, chauffeur at Engine Company No. 3, West Side, is general chairman of the event scheduled December 23 in the State Armory.

He announced that Tommy Tucker and his nationally known orchestra will furnish the music.

Capt. Vincent Wegman, who is in charge of Central Fire Station, will handle the program and publicity. Soliciting for the yearbook advertisements will begin next Tuesday.

The program-yearbook will contain a history of the association, picture of the Police and Fire departments and their officials.

Other committees on decorations and ticket sales will be named later, Warnick announced. The dance is held annually to provide funds for the sick, accident and death benefit fund of the association.

Held In Vandalism

City Police are holding Andrew Jackson, 506 Necessity Street, for allegedly destroying property at the Blue Ridge Bus Terminal on North Mechanic Street.

Authorities said Jackson and three other suspects being sought tore a comb vending machine from the wall in a lavatory. The prisoner was nabbed Wednesday night.

State Fair Plans Cattle Judging

Livestock and dairy judging contests will be a big part of the 4-H activities at Timonium State Fair, according to Mylo S. Downey, state boys club leader. Both of the contests will be held on Saturday, September 1, with the dairy cattle contest getting under way at 7 a. m. and the livestock judging event beginning at 9 a. m.

The eight high individuals in the State Contest will be given further training and will receive free trips to represent Maryland in interstate and National contests. Small cash prizes will go to the 15 high individuals in the judging of each of the four major breeds, with $200 in all being awarded.

In 1950 the top four individuals in this contest went on to win the national championship at Waterloo, Ia. Then in June of this year the team members embarked on a trip to the international dairy judging contests in England. They trained for the contest in England and Scotland and after winning the contest on July 4 took a sightseeing trip through part of Europe.

Fifteen cash prizes will also be awarded in the beef cattle, swine, and sheep divisions of the livestock contest.

The eight highest scoring individuals in all divisions of the contest will be selected to represent Maryland at the International Livestock Judging Contest at Chicago and at the Atlantic Rural Exposition in Richmond, Va.

10,000 In State May Lose Draft Deferment

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30 (AP)—Maryland Selective Headquarters estimated today that more than 10,000 men in the state probably will lose their deferments when new draft regulations take effect.

All that is holding them back is President Truman's signature on the new Universal Military Training and Service Act.

The new act provides for induction of married, childless registrants and many others who previously flunked pre-induction physical or mental tests.

The act also will make another 6,500 youths available for induction by lowering the draft age from 19 to 18½ years.

There are now about 15,000 draft-age men in Maryland now holding dependency deferments, the Selective Service Headquarters said. Another 11,000 hold 4-F classifications as physically or mentally unacceptable.

12 Area Men To Be "Sworn In" Today

Twelve area men will be sworn into the armed forces today at Martinsburg, W. Va.

Albert F. Lemmert, 20, Mt. Savage, and James Richard Hotchkiss, 18, Mt. Savage, have enlisted in the Army, while 10 others have enlisted in the Air Force.

They are Alfred E. Kline, 20, RFD 4, city; Dennis E. Sneather, 21, Romney, W. Va.; Floris D. Raines, 21, Springfield, W. Va.; John J. Andrews, 20, 125 New Hampshire Avenue; Earl F. Twigg, Jr., 21, RFD 4, city; Herbert A. Veach, 20, Augusta, W. Va.; Adrain L. Malick, 21, Augusta, W. Va.; Edward Smith, 21, 7 Boone Street; Anthony Lewis Drees, 20, Frostburg; and George G. Davis, 21, Frostburg.

Plans Corn Roast

Duke Memorial Bible Class will hold its annual corn and wiener roast today at 6:30 p. m. in Grove No. 4, Constitution Park.

Games will be provided and 15-year-old Freddy Hillegas will entertain with his piano accordion, vocal selections and imitations. Freddy has received many prizes in contests at Thomas S. Post Playground in the past two years, and was runner-up in the Constitution Park amateur contest held this summer.

Red Bloc, West Europe Nations Reportedly Hold Trade Parleys

GENEVA, Switzerland, (AP)—The United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (ECA) said today Russia and her Comunist satellites have been holding secret talks with representatives of major West European countries concerning large-scale shipments westward of grain and timber.

The ECA said the talks arose out of a meeting of trade experts from East and West Europe, called by the commission's executive secretary, Gunnar Myrdal of Sweden. Delegates of 16 European countries officially studied the question of whether full-scale East-West trade conferences under ECE auspices had any chance of success.

(The trade conference concided with a Soviet propaganda campaign aimed at increasing East-West trade restrictions imposed in the cold war.)

Myrdal announced at the end of the nine-day meeting that the experts had failed to agree on holding an immediate full-scale conference to negotiate westward shipments of grain and timber from the Communist countries.

Myrdal said, however, that the meeting had led to some "modest but concrete" results, including the initiation of bilateral trade talks between the Communist countries and the major trading countries of Western Europe.

Myrdal disclosed that the Western representatives at the experts' meeting for the first time submitted specific lists of products which they were prepared to offer to the Communist countries as payment for their grain and timber.

Western reluctance to provide such lists has been one of the stumbling blocks of previous attempts by the commission to stimulate East-West trade.

The bilateral talks are to continue in the various capitals, Myrdal said, adding that he would remain in constant touch with the governments concerned and call a full-scale conference as soon as prospects appeared favorable.

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30—(INS)—Robert Young, tops as an actor and one of the most respected men in Hollywood (for this he his piled up a lousy fortune), has a new and somewhat secret idea for his next independent.

Robert Young

His Cavalier Pictures Corporation, in which Bob is boss with Eugene Rodney, will make "1600 Pennsylvania Avenue," as the post office will tell you, the most famed address in the USA—the White House.

Outside of admitting the original story by Sidney Bidell and Frederic Frank is about the White House—there's considerable secrecy about the plot. But it isn't political propaganda—they promise.

• — • — •

The MGM lot was like a graveyard after news of Robert Walker's death. Bob was a mixed up boy and a very unhappy one. But to his coworkers he was a lovable, sensitive and appealing personality. Everyone, who knew him, liked him and worried about him.

Bob once said to me, it was a few months before he voluntarily entered Menninger's Clinic, "it's unfair to blame the shape I'm in on the breakup of my marriage to Jennifer Jones. I was born neurotic."

It was true. But, with a talent like him and so many things to interest him on his personal comeback, he might have whipped out of it. He will be missed and long remembered.

• — • — •

Already there are rumors that newcomer Richard Anderson, former messenger boy on the lot, will inherit Bob Walker's role opposite June Allyson in "Bowery To Bellevue."

Young Anderson scores a big hit with Janet Leigh in "Just This Once," but he has never had a break as big as a co-starring role.

Joanne Dru keeps working and the Treasury Department keeps picking up the big part of her salary checks. The hassie with the income tax department dates back to a property settlement of $31,000 which Dick Haymes promised to pay Joanne and never has.

She's taking it all like a good sport—glad she's keeping busy. Busy is the word, for no sooner does she finish playing Mrs. Dizzy Dean in "Bride Of St. Louis" that she starts as Dale Robertson's leading lady in "Return Of The Texan," both on the 20th lot.

• — • — •

Bette Davis gets her way and plays a bit role in Gary Merrill's movie, "Phone Call From A Stranger," after a lot of seesawing about whether a start of the caliber of Bette should emote in a minor part, even in her spouse's picture. Sentiment has won out and Bette is in.

In the past, Bing Crosby has walked through a scene of a Bob Hope picture and vice versa. But usually high-priced talent doesn't go in for bit scenes—their agents don't like it.

• — • — •

Hollywood in shorts:

Mervyn Leroy is proud of the gold medal of merit given him by Gen. Vandenberg following the air wingding. L. B. Mayer received a similar honor.

There's quite a story behind Sheldon Leonard's getting the Bugsy Siegel-type role in "Young Man In A Hurry" with Russell Nype. When Leonard and Bugsy were kids in New York, they played on the same amateur handball team.

Charles Laughton, who became an American citizen last year, has made a record "What The American Way Of Life Means To Me," which should be heard by all Americans and translated into all languages for the world to hear.

Radio And Television

Three Ring Circus

The Columbia Broadcasting System, which has not been exactly conspicuous for courage this past year, has at least partially attoned for some of its liberal hesitancies with a fine series of radio documentaries on crime, which, like the man-eating crocodile, is an entirely non-controversial subject. In a series of five broadcasts titled "The Nation's Nightmare," the country's criminals were given a thorough going-over which may or may not result in any very drastic action.

John Crosby

This has been a great year for the exposure of crime. It has not yet been exactly sensational for the conviction of criminals. Perhaps next year, an imposing array of district attorneys with flashing smiles and telegenic personalities will spring up and send platoons of gamblers, narcotic salesmen and politicians to jail right in front of the leering cameras. Then the D. A.'s will all go on to become either governors or narators on "Gangbusters."

• — • — •

While I still harbor some doubts as to the motives of those who are deploring the practice of murder with such great vehemence, CBS deserves great acclaim for the elaborate research and thorough workmanship of its crime series. The most harrowing of them was "Crime on the Waterfront", a real shocker. CBS picked up a lot of their material for this one right on the New York and New Jersey water front and frequently faced physical danger in so doing. At one point a crowd of longshoremen threatened to throw a CBS truck in the river. While this particular broadcast was on the air, a man identifying himself as a longshoreman union official called the network and threatened all forms of retaliation.

That's no idle threat either. If you listened to the broadcast, you'd discover they play real rough along the waterfront. "The record of racketeering, exploitation, extortion, conspiracy and murder is so foul that it's hard to believe even when you have documented proof before you. But it's true, shamefully and unquestionably true," declared Bill Down, the narrator, at the outset of this program.

• — • — •

There follows a horrendous sightseeing tour around Manhattan Island. Each pier area and the men who control them, all men with long police records, was identified by name. "The waterfront from the Fulton Fish Market on the east to Pier 9 on the West Side, the famous tip of Manhattan Island, controlled by Socks Lanza, pal of Lucky Luciano, — 10 arrests, now out on parole after conviction for extortion."

The slave conditions of the longshoremen to their hiring boss has been told often before but it was retold in condensed, simple and dramatic form. The shipping interests as well as the unions have a marked preference for ex-convicts as hiring bosses because they keep the men in line. Once in power, the mobsters fleece the longshoremen through a dozen rackets—numbers, book-making, kick-backs, loan-sharking. The man who doesn't play along doesn't work.

But that is small potatoes next to the organized graft on the waterfront which costs the insurance companies $60,000,000 a year. As explained by one longshoreman: "Yer see, they work with the checker, the fellow who checks the cargo as it comes off the ship. The checker is supposed to get the longshoremen to put the valuable cargo in certain spots on the dock. Let's say they want to steal $500,000 worth of watches from Switzerland. The hirin' boss tells the checker and the checker has it put somewhere else. The checker never marks it as coming off the ship, see. It never did arrive in this country, so it's lost somewhere between here and France or wherever the ship came from."

Supporting the appalling conditions on the waterfront, CBS declared, were a united front of shipping interests, unions, influential businessmen and the police, a tough bunch to fight. As summed up by one longshoreman, no one wanted to monkey with the system because everyone profited by it.

• — • — •

"The big boys (both business and political) need the tough guys. They need the tough guys to keep me in line so I don't get too brazen, upset their way of runnin' things. They also need the police department to keep the tough guys in line. If the tough guys go too far the police cut 'em down and then they got the politicians to see that the police don't go too far and they've got the politicians 'cause — well, he kin use the musclemen to line up the vote for him. It's a three-ring circus. The legitimate guy is in the middle."

There is a lot more, all equally grim, and if you'd like to hear the full picture, CBS plans to rebroadcast it on September 27, 9:30 p. m. EDT.

REVERSE DEFENSE PLAN

AGAINST a suit contract, it is usually best for the defenders to cash their high honors as soon as possible, to prevent the declarer from getting discards which will enable him to ruff one or more of those threatening weapons. But just the reverse is the case when the defense is against a No Trump game. Then it is usually best for them to concentrate on developing some of their lower cards into trick-takers, as the high ones alone seldom are numerous enough to beat him.

After noting that bidding, you would hardly need be told that the players were all more or less novices—especially East's failure to raise to 4-Spades. But you would be sure that East and West at least were the veriest of tyros if you watched the poor chaps' defense against the No Trump game.

West scored his club K and A, then led the 8 of his partner's hearts, East winning with both his K and A and then returning the spade 8. South won that with his A and then proceeded to make the contract. He followed that with the diamond A, J, K and Q, then led the heart 6 to the Q. This happened to squeeze West. South still held the spade 9-5 and club 6 and dummy the club Q-10-7. Remember that the club 10 finesse was marked by East's discards.

West at this stage held the spade K and club J-9-8, as he had to discard on the heart Q. If he tossed a club, three club tricks would end it. So he discarded the spade K, making the 9 good. That card, the club 6 to the 10 and the club Q then gave South his contract.

What punishment could have been meted out if West, after scoring the club K and seeing the dummy, had switched to the heart 8 and East put on his 10, or if West had shifted on the second trick to his spade K. Either of those plays would have been real defensive tactics against a No Trump game. But the scoring of the top cards at the outset constituted use of anti-suit defense when against a No Trump contract.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Savage River Dam Helps Hike Flow Of Potomac

Water from the Savage River dam is being used to help alleviate conditions along the Potomac River due to extremely dry weather this month.

Robert Golden, official U. S. weather observer here, said yesterday he has noticed a gradual rise in the water readings at the Wiley Ford recording station, and had been informed by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers here that the rise was due to the flow from the Savage River dam.

It has been reported that about 12,000,000 gallons daily is being released from the dam, high above Westernport, into the Potomac near Luke.

The extra water provides the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke with a vitally needed supply and also cuts down on the pollution in the Potomac.

Officials of the Water Survey agency of the U. S. Geological Survey office here said the rise in the river in Cumberland has been from a recent low of 2.66 feet to the 3.08 reading yesterday.

It was also pointed out the dam, only recently completed, did not impound a large amount of water this summer, and that the release of water into the Potomac at present is only a minimum amount. At that, the river flow has been greatly increased.

Next summer, after water has been impounded during the winter and spring, the huge dam should have sufficient water to allow for the use of much larger amounts, officials said.

Ex-Police Chief Indicted On 2 Murder Counts

The Somerset county, Pa., grand jury has returned two murder indictments against Ned L. Hoyt, former police chief of Confluence, who is free under $10,000 bond.

Hoyt was arrested May 1 in the fatal shooting of William Wallace Conway and his son, Donald Wayne Conway, after a fracas on a Confluence street. Both men were killed instantly.

Also indicted in connection with the disturbance preceeding the shooting was Robert Lytle, of Confluence. The grand jury returned true bills against him on charge of obstructing an officer and assault and battery. Hoyt is the prosecutor in both cases.

Clayton Allen Terhune, of Paterson, N. J., was indicted on a murder charge for the roadside cabin slaying of Clayton E. Jenkins, architect of Downingtown, Pa. The killing occurred May 1 at Emerald Park near Stoystown.

Terhune had been held in Somerset county jail since he was captured the day after the Jenkins slaying.

A fourth murder indictment was against Marshall Ellsworth Rugg, of Route 1, Confluence, for the fence-line slaying of his brother-in-law, Frank B. Basinger, also of Route 1, Confluence. Basinger died of a bullet wound June 16 inflicted following an argument with Rugg over a property line. The defendant posted $10,000 bond for his release.

State Stars Dot Terps' Grid Lineup

Three Cumberlanders On Varsity Squad

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 30—(AP)—There'll be an unusual number of home-grown specimens in the 1951 football crop coming out tomorrow at the University of Maryland.

At least nine Marylanders are on the squad which Coach Jim Tatum will show off to the press. This includes one freshman who is eligible for the varsity this year.

Five natives will be regulars. At the defensive ends will be two Cumberland juniors, John Alderton and Bill Ruehl. Alderton is one of the two returning lettermen at end and probably will see offensive action, too.

Also defensive specialists are Dave Cianelli, co-captain from Hagerstown, and Lynn Davis, a Baltimore halfback. Cianelli has been switched around from the backfield to the line but Coach Tatum now has settled him down as a line backer.

Running the offensive show for the second straight year will be Jack Scarbath of Baltimore at quarterback.

Three Marylanders are among the sophomores moving up for their first crack at varsity duty. Ken Davis of Hyattsville is among the halfbacks, Donald Decker of Cumberland is a guard and Leonard Mahoney of Baltimore an end.

Coach Tatum has indicated he will carry Dick Bielski, a first-year fullback from Baltimore, on the varsity. Bielski is getting meticulous grooming to succeed fullback Ed Modzelewski who is playing his last season.

John Alderton and Donald Decker are graduates of Fort Hill High School while Bill Ruehl is an Allegany High School alumnus. Decker and Alderton both played on city championship elevens under the tutelege of Coach William P. Hahn at Fort Hill. Also attending Maryland this year and vying on the Freshman squad will be all-state quarterback Lynn Beightol of Fort Hill.

McGregor Upset By Vic Seixas In Hard Match

Aussie Loses After Bitter 4-Set Fight

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP) — The National Tennis championships finally exploded in a terrific match today when Vic Seixas, 27-year-old Philadelphian, outfought, outplayed and finally outlasted big Ken McGregor, Australia's second ranking star, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5, 6-4, before 10,000 howling fans in the stadium.

Twice in the blazing match it looked as though Seixas had thrown away certain victory. In the third set he led at 4-0, only to have McGregor put on a fighting rally and carry him to deuce. But Vic dug in again and finally won the crusial set by breaking McGregor's service in a titanic 12th game that went to deuce eight times.

Much the same thing happened in the fourth set. Seixas, playing a magnificent brand of tennis which belied his seventh seeding among American players in the tournament, smashed his way to a 5-0 lead, and again McGregor tried to bar the door. The Aussie won four straight games, and with his own service coming up appeared certain to knot it at 5-5.

Much of the drama of the match was packed into the next game. On one critical point McGregor appeared to have served an ace, but the linesman said he had been blinded by the sun, and the umpire from his chair called it a fault. McGregor, flustered, then served a double fault, one of six he committed during the set.

By pulling out the sizzler, Seixas qualified to tackle steady Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in his quarter-final match on Saturday. Flam, his doubles partner in recent tournaments, won his way through the fourth round with a 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, victory over unseeded Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J.

Budge Patty of Los Angeles, the former Wimbledon champion and eighth home seed, easily handled Mervyn Rose, the third seeded Australian, by scores of 1-6, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5.

This left only one foreigner, Frank Sedgman, of Australia, in the men's division of the championships, but England still was strongly represented in the women's department. Three of the eight survivors were from across the water.

One of the English girls, pulled something of surprise when she swatted out young Beverly Baker of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-4, 7-5. Her Wightman Cup teammate, Mrs. J. Walker-Smith, eliminated Mrs. Baba Lewis of Newtonville, Mass., 9-7, 8-6.

Neither Doris Hart of Miami, the favorite, nor Shirley Fry of Akron, O., the No. 2 American seed, saw action today. Miss Tuckey will meet Miss Fry in the next round.

Braves Maul Cubs, 16-2

The Tribe, which open a road trip in Philadelphia Saturday night, won 14 of 18 games in this home stand and moved from the second division to third place in the National League. Score:

Carl attended West Virginia Wesleyan College and once was the property of the Detroit Tigers. He pitched for the Charleston Senators in the Middle Atlantic League and spent two seasons with Richmond in the Piedmont League, winning 18 and losing 5 the second year before he was drafted for army service. ### Idle Yanks Take Over As Indians Drop 6-2 Verdict

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, who love to knock off the big guys, kicked the light-hitting Cleveland Indians out of first place today, beating Bob Feller, 6 to 2.

Showing the same disregard for pennant contenders they did a few weeks ago by taking a series from the New York Yankees, they made it two out of three over Cleveland.

Feller, frustrated in his second try for his 21st victory lasted only two and two-third innings. But it wasn't entirely his fault.

Bob Kennedy, normally an excellent right fielder, ran back near the wall in the third inning for Pitcher Morris Martin's hard-hit ball with the bases loaded.

Kennedy got his glove on it, then let it bounce out. All three base runners, scampering at their fastest because two were out, scored. And Martin pulled up at second for a two-base error.

Brooklyn Extends Lead To 7 Games

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(INS)—The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1, tonight to build their National League lead up to seven games.

Lefty Preacher Roe became the second National League pitcher to win 18 games. He has lost only twice.

Roe had to be replaced in the seventh inning by Clyde King when his left arm tightened up on him.

Blackwell gave up six hits, but his own throwing error let in Brooklyn's winning run in the sixth. He threw wild to first in an attempt to pick off Duke Snider and the Dodger centerfielder went to third and scored on Don Thompson's single. Score:

Kiner's Homer Trips N. Y. As Bucs Win, 10-9

Big Ralph Blasts 37th In Ninth

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—Ralph Kiner blasted his 37th home run of the season in the ninth inning to break a tie and give the Pittsburgh Pirates an uphill 10-9 victory over the New York Giants today.

The defeat was a heart-breaker for the Giants, who had built up an early 8-1 lead and seemed headed for an easy triumph.

As a result, the New Yorkers now trail the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers by 6½ games. Kiner's circuit clout moved him in front in the home run race and boosted the Bucs into sixth place.

Murry Dickson, who dropped a seven-hitter to the Giants yesterday, worked the last two innings and received credit for his 18th victory. The loser was Larry Jansen, who was charged with his 10th defeat against 17 victories.

There were seven home runs in the game. Frank Thomas, Pete Castiglione and Gus Bell homered for the Pirates, in addition to Kiner. Willie Mays hit his 18th and 19th for the Giants. Bill Rigney got the other. Box:

Large Attendance Expected At Cage-Grid Clinic Today

Council To Make World Series Plans Sept. 6

CINCINNATI, Aug. 30 (AP)—The executive council of baseball today called a meeting for Sept. 6 in New York City to arrange for the 1951 World Series.

It will be held at 11 a. m. at the Commodore Hotel.

Clubs invited to send representatives are the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants of the National League, and the Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox in the American League.

Elks Blanked By Minnicks In RC Playoff

Moose Evens Its Series, 9 To 0

Slow-balling Russ Minnicks evened the Rocking Chair League semi-final playoff series for the Moose yesterday by blanking the Elks 9-0 in the second game at Stitcher field.

In addition to holding the second-place Elks to eight hits and permitting only one man to reach third base Minnicks clouted a two-run homer in the sixth inning.

Claude Comer and Joe Geatz smacked the offerings of Elks hurler Bill Underdonk for six hits between them with Geatz pacing the attack with four for four. Frank Williams also collected two bingles and starred afield at third base for the Moose.

Roy Whitman, Pooch Orndorff and Windy Wallis each garnered two hits for the losers with Orndorff being the only Elks runner to reach third.

The two teams will meet for the third and final game of their best-of-three series Friday at 6 o'clock at Stitcher field. The winner of the series will meet the Eagles in the finals for the title. The score:

MOOSE .................. 104 102 1—9 11 1
ELKS .................... 000 000 0—0 8 2

Move-Board Will

injuries which brought on the decision.

Hoey has been the target of a number of "political, sectional, factional" disputes, Paye charged.

Such "political, snide factionalism," Paye declared, has "thoroughly wrecked the wonderful recreational job" Hoey has accomplished.

Mrs. Fuller B. Whitworth, secretary, agreed that Monday's meeting was a blunder but said the idea behind the meeting was a step in the right direction.

Hoey Cites Incidents

It was at that stage of the meeting that Paye moved that the Board submit the letter to the Mayor and Council, with the unanimous recommendation that the city officials do all in their power to persuade Hoey to change his mind. This motion was dropped, however, when the action to withhold the resignation until after the September 20 meeting was adopted with Hoey's permission.

Some of the reasons for the action were related by Hoey in the latter part of the meeting.

Hoey said the real reason was "a lot of petty things, adding he had "had enough."

A few of the items he related included criticism directed toward him at the Swimming Meet at North End Playground. One team, he said, swam wrong and was disqualified. Hoey was criticized.

Summons Is Served

Similar action followed a ruling on by-laws at a Hot Stove League game.

Abuse through phone calls during the Little League finals was also noted.

He admitted that the action of the Rec Board was the "final straw."

Lewyn C. Davis, another member, said the idea of the Monday meeting was for the board to assume part of the criticism which he felt the board and not Hoey should bear.

In the middle of the Intra-City Playground Picnic, Hoey said, a city officer served a warrant in connection with 48 parking tickets placed on city recreation department vehicles.

Hoey declined to leave the picnic, which was attended by up to 2,000 youngsters.

Hoey told the Board he had no complaints about his salary, which was set at $4,500 for the current year.

Mrs. Roeder Comments

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property said last night, "I feel Mr. Hoey has done a marvelous job in furthering the recreation program in Cumberland."

"The present program has been successful from every angle and I am anxious to know his reason for handing in his resignation." Mrs. Roeder said she hoped he would remain in Cumberland as director of recreation and assures him full cooperation from Mayor and City Council will be given him in the future as in the past.

Mrs. Roeder added she thought Mr. Hoey was planning to turn in his resignation because he had a better position in the offing.

Two-Day Sessions Begin At 10 A. M.

A large attendance is expected at the two-day football and basketball rules interpretation clinic to be held at Fort Hill High School today and tomorrow.

It will be the first time in Western Maryland that a clinic of this nature with well-known Chicago officials in charge will be held.

Cage and grid coaches from the area will act as an advisory panel in discussions following the showing of two films on football and basketball as it is played today.

H. V. Porter, executive secretary, National Federation of State High School Athletic Association, Chicago, will discuss changes in the 1951 football and basketball rules and give an interpretation of the rules. The technicolor films, Modern Football and Basketball Today, will be shown by A. A. Schabinger, director, Official Sports Film Service, Chicago.

The program will get underway at 10 o'clock this morning with an address of welcome by Superintendent of Schools of Allegany County Charles L. Kopp. Arthur G. Ramey, director of physical education for the Board of Education of Allegany County will preside at the local sessions.

The program is divided into scheduled meetings with the first set from 10 until noon today. The second will get underway at 1:30 this afternoon and continue until 4 o'clock. An evening clinic will be held starting at 8.

Tomorrow's sessions will begin at 10 a. m. and the clinic will conclude at 11:30 a. m.

Fairacre Invitation Golf Tourney Begins

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Aug. 30—(AP)—Landon Buchanan of Roanoke shot a three under par 68 for medal honors as the 27th Fairacre Inviational golf tournament got under way here today. Buchanan had the only sub-par round in the field of more than 100 golfers.

Defending Champion John Rice, also of Roanoke, soared to a 75 and George Fulton Jr., Roanoke, who took the crown in 1949, shot a 76.

Blacksburg's young brother team of Jimmy and Billy Deemer landed in the championship flight. Jimmy toured the tough Cascades course in 75 while brother Billy had a 79.

Three men from Indian Springs Country Club in Maryland—Earl Spicer, Frank Miller and Bob Ickes—had 80's to round out the 16-man championship flight.

TWO THOUSAND FANS who didn't believe what they had heard, and hardly believed what they saw, turned out for an exhibition softball game at Lakewood, O., between the local Schrader company nine and a touring, four-man nine known as The King and His Court. The seven-inning game ended in a 2-2 deadlock. The King is Eddie Feigner. His Court is composed of a catcher, first baseman and shortstop. A fifth man is substitute. They have been playing as a four-man team since 1946, averaging six games a week. Last year they won 114 games and lost 29. Feigner is an amazing hurler. He almost makes a softball talk. During the games, he pitches one inning blindfolded. Another inning he pitches from second base, and from the hurler's mound on his knees. The shortstop also is the outfielder on the few occasions when one is needed. Their teamwork has to be, and is, remarkable, especially their bunt defense. And their popularity is growing. (International)

Busanda Wins Easily In 71st Saratoga Cup

Eric Guerin Ties Arcaro For Lead

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP)—Ogden Phipps' Busanda, a black four-year-old daughter of War Admiral, ran away and hid from three male rivals in the 71st running of the historic Saratoga Cup before 11,922 today. She led the entire distance of one mile and six-furlongs, covered in 2:59, and in so doing became reconed with not only the best of her own division but a member of the handicap and cup ranks of considerable stature, as well.

Eric Guerin rated her along masterfully, looking back over his shoulder on several occasions, so confident was he of the filly's ability in the old classic, which dates back to 1865. At the end of the long journey, she was 3½ lengths before Gustave Ring's Lone Eagle, recent winner of the Saratoga Handicap. William J. Ziegler Jr.'s Bit O' Fate was 4½ lengths farther away, while last to finish was Greentree's Big Stretch, which again put in a disappointing effort. He was second choice to Lone Eagle. Guerin completed a double, giving him 22 winners here, deadlocked with Arcaro.

Busanda has beaten male stars before this year, in the Suburban Handicap at Belmont. Against her own kind she was winner of the Top Flight and the Newcastle. However, she sulked in the Saratoga Handicap last week, finishing sixth, beaten 11 lengths by Lone Eagle.

The Phipps filly earned $10,950 and paid $8.20, $3.30. There was no show betting. In all she has won five of 17 races this year and $113,110. Last season she gleaned $32,300.

BRYANT AT NAVY

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—One coaching change has been made in Navy's 1951 football staff. Bob Bryant, former Philadelphia Eagle and San Francisco '49er tackle, has replaced Don Clark under Coach Eddie Erdelatz, Bryant was line coach at Arizona last season. Clark has joined the Southern California staff.

Injured Fighter's Condition Critical

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (INS)—Welterweight George Flores, critically injured in a Madison Square Garden semi-final last night, showed "slight improvement" late today in his battle for life at St. Clare's Hospital.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello of the New Yok State Athletic Commission said the young fighter's condition took a turn for the better following an afternoon spinal tap—the second tap since a blood clot was removed from his brain early this morning.

The 20-year-old Flores, the father of a three-weeks-old infant, has not regained consciousness since his operation.

Earlier, Dr. Charles Muzzicato, one of the attending physicians, said the first spinal tap indicated "increasing pressure" on Flores brain and that if the second tap showed no improvement, another operation may be attempted.

A CASE OF MUMPS

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Bert McLachlan, Michigan State's 220-yard and 440-yard Western Conference freestyle swim champion, missed the 1951 Senior AAU outdoor swim championship because he was bedded with a case of the mumps.

GOLF MAGICIANS

VICTORIA, B. C., (AP) — R. D. Clay was plenty pleased when he scored a hole in one on the eighth hole of the Victoria Golf Club recently. But so was his opponent, H. F. Hepburn, who duplicated the feat on the same hole.

BIG FISH—Rev. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, this city, landed this 15-pound rock fish on Tuesday while fishing in the Susquehanna River from the Harford County, Md., side of the big stream. He and three others in the party caught a total of 39 fish. The rock pictured above was the biggest in the lot.

Mutuel Mistake Costly To Cashier

TIMONIUM, Md., Aug. 30 (AP)—A cashier at a mutuel window at Timonium race track today made a $428 mistake. He paid off two $6 combination tickets in the first race at $217.40 each when they were worth only $3.40 each.

And because each cashier is held completely responsible for his errors, he will have to make up the loss out of his $14 a day salary.

The cashier, asking that his name not be used "because it makes me look like a darn fool," explained that he thought the number was eight when actually it was six.

No. 8 in the race was Blitz-Dart, who returned $156 to win and $217.40 across the board. No. 6 was Elk Water who finished third at $3.40.

RAUCH FOR RATTERMAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach Jimmy Phelan of the New York football Yanks has settled on Johnny Rauch as his regular quarterback. The former Georgia star succeeds George Ratterman who plans to play in Canada this fall. The Yanks failed to pick up the option on Ratterman's contract it has been reported.

Odds Vary For Next Robinson-Turpin Bout

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Three of Britain's leading bookmakers believe middleweight champion Randy Turpin of England is close to an even money shot to beat Ray Robinson again in their return 15-rounder at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 12. In New York, Robinson is rated a 12 to 5 favorite by bookmakers to win back his crown.

Bookmaking is legal in Britain. It is illegal in New York.

The three British bookmakers offered three different prices on the outcome. If you like Robinson you can get 4 to 5 odds from James McLean and 8 to 11 from Douglas Stuart and Manny King.

If you like Turpin you can get 11 to 10 from King, even money from Stuart and 4 to 5 from McLean.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are men inconsiderate of women?

Answer: A good many of them are, through no fault of their own. For to be considerate of another person, you must have at least some idea of how it feels to be in his (or her) place. A man who has never tried to cook can hardly realize what getting dinner for a family involves, nor can one who goes to work each day imagine how it feels to be "cooped up" in a home. The increasing separateness of the working lives of husbands and wives—especially where the husband is away from home all day—tends to make mutual understanding harder and make either sex seem inconsiderate to the other.

May pain which you do not feel affect you?

Answer: Yes. The fact that an anesthetic keeps your conscious mind from feeling the sensations of an operation does not mean that your unconscious mind is not affected by them and may not even "remember" them when something happens to recall them. Dr. Fred D. Karchner of the University of Utah College of Medicine tells of a mother who recalled her sufferings at the birth of her first baby while having a second, though she had been anesthetized at the time. In the interim, the experience had caused her nightmares and given her an increased fear of childbirth. Anesthetics are indeed a "blessing," but not an unmixed one.

Is maturity a fixed point?

Answer: No, say Lawrence K. Frank and Wilton Marion Krogman in Child Development. Maturation is a development or "continuous change" that goes on in living organisms as long as life endures, even after visible "growth" has ceased. The rate of progress varies with each individual but an individual of any age is "immature" in so far as he is unable to change so as to adjust himself to new conditions and requirements. If you "live in the past" you are not really living—or "maturing"—at all, and to say at any given time, "I am mature," is as foolish as the legendary college student, grasping his diploma, shouting: "Hooray, now I'm educated!"

Move Gets Underway To Keep Hoey On Job

Board Will Delay Action On Letter

The City Recreation Board announced last night it will not transmit a letter of resignation from Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, until after it meets with him on September 20.

The delay in action on the letter to the Mayor and Council via the Recreation Board was taken with Hoey's permission at a lengthy board meeting in Central YMCA last night.

Hoey, with the Board's permission, will keep several appointments made in connection with job offers in other cities.

The Board also gave Hoey a unanimous vote of confidence for the "splendid" recreation program he has developed and expressed regret for the series of petty criticisms the board said were "unjustly directed" toward Hoey as director of the program.

Promises Cooperation

The group also pledged "wholehearted co-operation" of the board in the future recreation program for the city.

The parliamentary procedure making possible the delay in a decision was made possible by the fact that the letter of resignation was handed to the Board, which would transmit it to the Mayor and Council for action.

The resignation said:

"I hereby submit my resignation as director of Recreation for the City of Cumberland effective October 1.

"I express sincere appreciation for those who co-operated so enthusiastically in our program and earnestly condemn those too weak to aid, but strong in their condemnation of our work."

Board Is Shocked

The Recreation Board was hastily assembled last night following the action taken by Hoey yesterday morning.

Clifton Van Roby, newly elected chairman of the board, said he was "shocked immensely" by the action and said he was sure Hoey was led to the action by a series of events which have taken place within the last few weeks.

Roby said he felt that Hoey had become disturbed because he was not invited to a meeting of the Board Monday night.

At that meeting, Roby was elected chairman of the board to replace John I. Spiker, whose term had expired. Also discussed were plans for easing some of the burden which the rec leader has been bearing alone for some time. Chief business discussed, Roby said, was the clarification of the duties of the Board, which has been inactive during the summer.

Roby said the Board felt Cumberland "would be a terrific loser" if Hoey were to leave at the present stage of the rec program.

Homer Berry, a member of the Board, said Hoey informed him Tuesday night that he was quitting and that he had tried unsuccessfully to dissuade him.

Paye Cites Attacks

In an eloquent speech, Albert S. Paye, another member of the board, said Monday's meeting, when the Board met without inviting Hoey was the "insult" added to a series of

69 Buses Pass First Inspection Of School Year

16 Vehicles Will Be Rechecked Later

Eighty-one per cent of the 77 school buses and eight automobiles used to transport Allegany County children to school passed the pre-school inspection this week, Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation in the county school system announced yesterday.

First Of Three

The test, the first of three required by state law each year, was conducted Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Ramey supervised the inspections. The actual checks were made by Marion Abbott and Harry Mann, Department of Motor Vehicle employes who are assigned to school bus inspections, and David Davis, Frostburg mechanic.

Ramey explained that four of the buses and one car among the 85 tested will require tightening up of their steering mechanisms. Three other buses were found to have loose exhaust connections.

Seven other buses and one other car were found defective in certain minor respects. These included such faults as first aid kit not completely filled, light bulb burned out, and cracked glass in exterior rear vision mirror.

Notices Sent

Owners of all of the defective buses and cars have been notified in writing to have the necessary corrections made promptly, before school starts next Thursday, September 6. Rules of the Department of Motor Vehicles and of the State Department of Education require the repairs in 10 days.

Abbott and Mann will return to this county Thursday, September 13, to recheck the 16 vehicles which failed the test, Ramey reported.

The transportation supervisor also said yesterday that all contractors and operators of school buses have undergone physical examinations, required annually, within the past two weeks. Reports on these examinations are coming to Ramey's office.

Groups Go To Bat For Rec Director

Cumberland's Dapper Dan Club and Hot Stove League, with some 700 members, went to bat last night to keep Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey on the job.

Hoey, popular head of the city's recreation program, submitted his resignation unexpectedly yesterday to the City Recreation Board.

He gave no reason for his action then, but last night at the joint Dapper Dan Club and Hot Stove League meeting Hoey said he quit because of too much outside criticism and interference.

"Innumerable petty things built up over a period of time until they became unbearable," Hoey told the two groups.

He was invited to attend their meeting that was called to protest his resignation. Some of the "petty things" he recited to the two organizations. They included uncalled-for "riding" of players as well as managers in the Little League and Hot Stove League.

Both groups, the Dapper Dans and the Hot Stove League, acted to support Hoey "to the limit" in their efforts to keep him here.

They said they plan to "expend every effort" to make Hoey change his mind about his resignation.

In carrying out this plan, both groups said jointly that they intend to contact every service and fraternal organization in Cumberland in order to keep Hoey on the job.

In addition, they will send to the Mayor and Council a resolution in support of Hoey's record and asking the Council to use every resource in their power to keep him in his present post.

Both the Dapper Dans and the Hot Stove League representatives voiced their opposition to "political appointees" on the City Recreation Board and emphasized that they intend to include in their resolution to the Mayor and Council a provision that members of the recreation board be appointed because they are "recreation-minded" and not because they might serve some political benefit.

Dapper Dan officials said Cumberland is "going back to the horse and buggy days fast enough" without losing the recreation program that Hoey has built up.

They pointed out that juvenile delinquency has dwindled to practically nothing in the city since Hoey became recreation director, and cited as the reason for it that the youngsters became interested in and participated in recreation projects instead of roaming the streets and getting into trouble.

"We feel we can't get a man to replace Ed Hoey, the kid's friend," said one Dapper Dan official, pointing out that Hoey worked "endless hours" in setting up the recreation program and carrying it out.

"He has been fortunate in having some capable assistants, but he needed still more," said another Dapper Dan, relating that if a home plate had to be laid at some playground, "Ed Hoey had to do the job."

William V. Keegan, chairman of the executive board of the Dapper Dan Club and a member of the City Council when the recreation program was set up and Hoey was hired, likewise expressed his concern at Hoey's resignation.

"He came in here to virgin territory where he knew nobody and built a recreation program that was the envy of many cities many times the size of Cumberland," Keegan declared.

Keegan explained that the program was developed in the short period of two years and, "as it is presently operating has unlimited possibilities for the future."

The former commissioner pointed out that Hoey "had rules he had to go by" and "worked day and night to keep the program operating and improving."

Gas Company Seeks Full Use Of New Supply

$2,200,000 Pipelines Project Now Planned

Steps are being taken by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, through a $2,200,000 project, to make full use of the new supply of gas found in the fields in Garrett County and Preston County, W. Va., it was disclosed last night.

The company hopes to have the project completed during the coming winter and if fortunate by New Year's Day.

Seek Authority

Yesterday in Washington the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, Pittsburgh, asked the Power Commission for authority to build natural gas pipelines costing almost $2,200,000 in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

A local spokesman said the company here anticipates prompt approval by the commission of the firm's request as the commission's policy has been to encourage the development of natural gas supplies.

The two subsidiaries of the Columbia Gas System, Inc., said the project would help provide the greatest possible production from gas fields in Maryland and West Virginia.

Cumberland plans to build 46 miles of new pipelines, to install 2,080 horsepower at two new compressor stations, and to convert an existing station to two-stage operation, at an estimated cost of $2,180,137.

Manufacturers wants to build about 100 feet of gas line and to exchange a compressor cylinder with a similar cylinder at a Cumberland station, for about $11,000.

From Mt. Lake Park

Cumberland's program includes a 35-mile, 10-inch line from the Mountain Lake Park area to a connection with Manufacturers' system on the Pennsylvania-West Virginia state line in Monongalia County, W. Va.

The remaining 11 miles would be built in various sections of Garrett County and Preston County, W. Va.

Manufacturers would build its 100 feet of line in Fayette County, Pa., from the end of Cumberland's proposed 35-mile line to a connection with a line leading to Waynesburg, Pa.

The companies said the construction would increase production from the Garrett County and Terra Alta, W. Va. gas fields and from the older producing fields on Cumberland's system, and would improve gas service in Albright and Kingwood, W. Va.

VFW Burns Mortgage At Lonaconing

Membership Praised For Community Work

Members of Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, burned the mortgage on their post home at Lonaconing last night and Mayor Virgil Alexander, on behalf of the townsfolk, presented a large key to the city to Post Commander Benjamin Zarger.

The post acquired the spacious and beautiful stone structure from the Town of Lonaconing following a referendum about five years ago. It was once a NYA center, built by young people of the area when the country was working its way out of a great economic depression.

Members of the post aided by the auxiliary, have worked diligently since then to pay for and improve the building and grounds. It is one of the most active community centers in Western Maryland.

The mortgage was presented to Alexander Gardner, the post's first commander, by James McKelvie of Lonaconing. Assisted by Harold James, post adjutant, Gardner burned it in a large silver bowl.

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick, former state legislator, and a native of Lonaconing was guest speaker for the event. Magistrate Dick recalled the long history of the building, reminded his friends and neighbors there of the high principles of the VFW, and complimented the membership on the community service they render.

Other speakers included VFW officials from other posts and the State Department, followed by a mass induction of all post members with James Stemple of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW, here officiating.

One of the highlights of the program was the presentation by Commander Zarger of a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Jessie Neat, mother of the deceased soldier whose name is immortalized by the post.

The three-day celebration opened Wednesday night with a fun festival, featuring a male beauty contest staged by members of the post and the appearance of the famous Lonaconing Sad Sacks.

Tonight, a street parade has been planned featuring a number of musical and marching units including the Elkins, W. Va., bag pipe band, dressed in kilts. The unit is known as H. W. Daniels American Legion Post Highlanders.

The Lonaconing City Band, which gave a concert last night will also march, as will the Barton Citizens Band, Frostburg Arion Band, Henry Hart Post Drum Corps, Fulton Meyers American Legion Drum Corps, Potomac Fire Company Junior Band, Hyndman, Pa., Band, Farrady Post Legion Corps of Frostburg, and the Mt. Savage Junior Order Band, as well as a number of fire companies, town officials, Legion and VFW officials and an honor guard. The parade will start promptly at 7:30 p. m.

Virginia, Carolina To See Full Show

If you're up to see the sunrise tomorrow morning, don't be alarmed if it turns into a strange sight.

The sun will rise partly eclipsed and will appear as a crescent in this area. At the eclipse center, the sun will be a rare sight, a thin ring of fire around a black moon.

The ring will be seen only in Virginia and North Carolina, which it crosses in a path 95 miles wide. The ring ends in North Carolina at about Boone. Westward of that point, the eclipse will be partial, a Crescent sun as in all the rest of the Eastern United States.

This partial eclipse will be visible west of the Mississippi River and will end on a line approximately between Galveston, Tex., and Bismarck, N. D.

A ring eclipse is due to the fact that the moon is too far from earth to completely blot the sun. The moon's shadow is a long cone. Anywhere inside the cone you see a total eclipse of the sun. But this time the earth is just beyond the end of the cone.

The ring-spectacle centers between Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News, Va., as the sun rises. Richmond and Roanoke, Va., will be just on the northern edge of this central ring. Salisbury, N. C will be on the southern edge.

B&O Backshops To See Increase In Repair Work

Steam Maintenance To End At Glenwood

The Baltimore and Ohio Backshops here will see an increase in heavy repair of steam locomotives with the closing of similar shops in Glenwood, near Pittsburgh, today.

Chester F. Williams, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the railroad, said last night an average of six steam locomotives a month will receive heavy repair work in the local backshops from the Pittsburgh area. He said Stability of employment in the local backshops, heretofore not maintained, will be realized by the additional work.

From now on, Glenwood, which will repair its last steam locomotive today, will handle only diesel-electric locomotives. The shops at Glenwood, Williams explained, will completely renovate diesel-electric locomotives from all over the railroad's system.

The Cumberland diesel servicing facilities are able to cope with "running repair," and the Glenwood shops take care of heavy repair or complete renovation.

The last steam engine to be repaired at Glenwood was No. 1065, a switcher. The Baltimore and Ohio has already spent $900,000 of more than $1,000,000 set aside for new diesel facilities at Glenwood.

With its new equipment Glenwood will be able to handle major repair and overhaul jobs on 200 diesel units a year. It is the most complete diesel repair facility on the system, although the railroad maintains other diesel shop facilities in Cumberland, East St. Louis, Baltimore and Washington.

3 Turned Over To Va. Police

Three armed youths taken into custody by city police Monday morning have been turned over to Virginia State Police and the Sheriff of Giles County, Va., on charges of breaking and entering and grand larceny.

The trio, according to police, will be given a hearing at Pearisburg, Va. They had been held in city jail as suspects in a garage and accessories store robbery Sunday night at White Gate, Va. Several hundred dollars worth of auto accessories, canned goods, a .22-calibre rifle and 25 cartons of cigarets were reported stolen.

Police identified the three as James Rummer, 18, Bowman's Addition, who has been reported AWOL from the Army at Fort Belvoir, Va., since August 4, Bryon Teter, 23, Bowman's Addition, and Donald Clark, 16, Poplar Hill, Va.

The trio was taken into custody while sleeping in a parked car in a alley between Polk and Hanover streets. Two automatic pistols were found in the automobile.

Investigation of the trunk showed what police termed as "loot" including accessories normally sold at a garage or accessories store. They were known to have been driving a 1946 Oldsmobile which police said they traded for a 1950 Chevrolet at a garage somewhere in Virginia.

About the only thing on the mind of the average Cumberlander yesterday was to "beat the heat." The sun was out in all its glory and really bore down on the residents of the Queen City. The humidity was 37 per cent and no rainfall. Forecast for today is continued warm.
